The Draw books are so much fun! I am 35 and still draw the same as when I was in grade school. My kids ages 9 and 7 are always asking me to help them draw.

You can help by adding to it. December Roland Mushat Frye discusses a common iconographic tradition of Satanic disguise as a "falsus frater, as an old Franciscan friar, or as a hermit, often with a rosary, as Botticelli represented him in his Sistine Chapel frescoes". December In a study of multi-cultural literary traditions Quint traces examples of the recurring literary archetype of a disguised supernatural visitor: For instance, besides the aerial-daemonic Asmodeus and the undead-human Dracula , non-human primates have also been represented as vampires. It has been suggested that this conveyed the paranoia of the McCarthy era. The theme of infiltration continued in popularity into the closing stages of the Cold War in the s. In the science fiction series V , the reptilian aliens wear human suits to pass as humans, trying to make humans feel more comfortable around them. Most noticeable with the "human disguises" in the show are that of angels and demons. The true forms of angels are brilliant, amazing and overwhelming, as well as being as high as New York skyscrapers, forcing angels to possess humans whenever they manifest on Earth. The true forms of demons are destructive and deadly, forcing demons to forcibly possess humans. Other creatures, such as shapeshifters and the Leviathans, need samples of humans to take on their form. The New Frontier returned to the cold war theme, using the character of the Martian Manhunter , "a shape-changing alien who adopts human disguise because he knows his alien form would scare people", to look back at cold-war paranoia and fear of outsiders. In their human form, they do not really fit comfortably within their human disguises, and even when they disguise themselves as human, they have several giveaway clues which can only be identified by truly observant individuals. Such individuals have formed an organization called Witchophiles who are dedicated to hunting down and killing the evil demons. In their human forms, witches have unnatural eyes, which flash ice and fire, and also they have long felinstic claws which they disguise with gloves. Their most notable feature is their bald heads, which they disguise with first-class wigs. In Star Man the alien appears in human form, explaining it was so "you not be a little bit jumpy. Galaxy Quest and 3rd Rock from the Sun also use the meme. An episode of Buffy the Vampire Slayer incorporates a praying mantis in human disguise, posing as a substitute high-school teacher who seduces her students before eating them. The mantis in disguise serves as a metaphor to suggest to younger viewers that rushing unprepared into sexual activity can result in being "devoured". In Marvel Comics the Skrull , a race of aliens, commonly disguise themselves as humans to move about unnoticed on Earth. In the movies A. Artificial Intelligence , and the Alien series , robots are made to look and act human. In The Terminator , Arnold Schwarzenegger played a cyborg that wore a human disguise. Madeline eventually plans to raid the Federation headquarters and destroy human civilization, but fortunately Samus Aran is called onto the scene by the Federation before this can occur. Similarly in the remade series Battlestar Galactica , robots known as the Cylons have evolved the ability to make bodies that appear quite human. This seeming immortality, the uncertainty of who is really human and who is Cylon, and the love between characters who are revealed to be human or Cylon, are used for discussion of what it means to be human. While most Decepticons use shells patterned after monsters Most Autobots used shells that appear human. Cartoons[edit] Human disguises sometimes occur in animation for cartoon characters. In a short story by Haitham Chehabi , Trix , a cartoon rabbit, wears a human disguise. Examples outside fiction[edit] Commentators may use the concept of human disguise as a metaphor for a lack of humanity. For example, a Kenyan judge described the former Kenyan Prime Minister Jomo Kenyatta as a "monster in human disguise". Antonio, Bishop of Malacca between and was referred to as an "angel in human disguise" for his conversion of 10, people to Christianity.
