Rogers and related families of Estill County, Kentucky by Ellen Stanley Rogers, , E. Rogers, D. Rogers edition, in English.

Displeased by the panic of the victims at Cielo Drive, Manson accompanied the six, "to show them how to do it. This was the home of supermarket executive Leno LaBianca and his wife, Rosemary, a dress shop co-owner. He then sent Watson up with Krenwinkel and Van Houten. After Manson pointed out a sleeping man through a window, the two of them entered through the unlocked back door. He bound these in place with lamp cords. Manson left, sending Krenwinkel and Leslie Van Houten into the house with instructions that the couple be killed. LaBianca keeping the women at bay by swinging the lamp tied to her neck. After subduing her with several stabs of the bayonet, he returned to the living room and resumed attacking Leno, whom he stabbed a total of 12 times with the bayonet. He stated this in his autobiography. Evidence showed that many of Mrs. She gave Leno LaBianca 14 puncture wounds with an ivory-handled, two-tined carving fork, which she left jutting out of his stomach. She also planted a steak knife in his throat. As the group abandoned the murder plan and left, Atkins defecated in the stairwell. Steven Parent, the shooting victim in the Tate driveway, was determined to have been an acquaintance of William Garretson, who lived in the guest house. Garretson was a young man hired by Rudi Altobelli to take care of the property while Altobelli was away. He was released on August 11, , after undergoing a polygraph examination that indicated he had not been involved in the crimes. Garretson died in August The LaBianca crime scene was discovered at about He called his older sister and her boyfriend. Weapons were seized, but, because the warrant had been misdated, the group was released a few days later. They learned of the Hinman case. She had been arrested a few days earlier with members of "the Manson Family". The officers had no idea that the people they were arresting were involved with the murders. He was arrested on suspicion of car theft. Those charges were later dropped on account of a misdated warrant. Manson and Atkins, already in custody, were not mentioned; the connection between the LaBianca case and Van Houten, who was also among those arrested near Death Valley, had not yet been recognized.
