It includes a large coal exporting facility, a residential area, and a golf course. Lambert was an ensign in the Lower Norfolk County Militia by and was later a major in the same outfit. He was later a member of the Assembly at Jamestown for Lower Norfolk County in , and by the time of his death in he was the proud bearer of the title Lieutenant Colonel Thomas Lambert. A rail link to the west had long been a dream of Norfolk citizens led by Dr. Eventually, a rail link all the way to the Mississippi River and the Gulf of Mexico at New Orleans was thus seen as possible. Things were looking very favorable for both Norfolk and the new enterprise when operations were completely disrupted by the American Civil War , which was to last 5 years and do great damage to the railroads. Although the Confederacy lost the war, Mahone emerged as the so-called hero of the Battle of the Crater. There is ample evidence that Mahone had become aware of the potential wealth represented by untapped bituminous coal reserves in southern West Virginia, and had planned a fourth railroad and acquired land to capitalize upon them. It operated under receivership for a number of years and Mahone struggled to obtain adequate financing to regain control. Finally, in , it was sold at auction, but Mahone was outbid. The new Philadelphia owners were also keenly aware of the opportunities represented by southern West Virginia coal, where they owned much land. Soon, under the leadership of Frederick J. Kimball , they set about extending their lines west from the New River Valley to reach them. Many more were to follow, and soon it was apparent that a larger facility for loading the coal onto ships would be needed. Land was acquired in Norfolk County just outside the City of Norfolk on the harbor. Norfolk and Western expanded exponentially, and in the s, the class 1 railroad became part of Norfolk Southern Corporation , a Fortune Company headquartered in Norfolk. The system is remarkably versatile due to its ability to blend individual lots up to five ways a five-track blend , yet in increments as small as tons. The facility can accommodate approximately 6, loaded railcars, and at full capacity, its dual twin rotary dumpers capable of dumping up to four cars simultaneously can dump 1, cars per day. A residential section was also developed to house the families of the workers. By , Norfolk was the leading coal exporting port on the East Coast. The area including Lamberts Point was annexed by the City of Norfolk in It is used by Navy ships to reduce their magnetic signature, making them less vulnerable to certain types of mines. Since now many coal mines in West Virginia are now closing, coal traffic along the Pocahontas Main Line from Bluefield to Norfolk as decreased ever so slightly.

But what about at the farm level, where shoes themselves can be an unnecessary added expense, but proper foot care is just as important? While on the track, racehorses are regularly trimmed and shod, often shortly before race day. On the farm, stallions, broodmares, weanlings, and yearlings all have different shoeing needs, which can range from wearing plates on all four hooves to going completely barefoot. Each option has pros and cons, influenced by the quality of the footing the horse is standing on during the day and their individual needs. Ten as the day goes on, everything dries out. They can go without shoes longer that way. But if they have white hooves, they are shod most of the time. Our retired horses are every 10 weeks, and yearlings and stallions are every six weeks. One of our stallions has all four shoes, one has only fronts, and one is barefoot. It depends on the individual. Ranches, keeps quite busy. He brings his own team of help when he arrives at the ranch for the workday. We had to drop his racing level. We just hold them and pet them to keep them quiet. Their yearlings are pretty gentle. It made all the difference in her being a racehorse or not. The cost of farrier work can be overwhelming. But the price is worth the result. He said he sometimes sees white line disease, and horses from wetter climates can sometimes come in with thrush. He agrees with Miller. Miller finds his profession to be a complex and satisfying puzzle. Warren was the longtime trainer for E. Vronsky was a nice horse, and he Buddy loved him. The Crystal Water, carded at one mile on the turf, drew a strong field. Add in Bertrando and Sensational Star stakes winner Boozer, and that left Poshsky as the longest shot in the six-horse field at Poshsky is also a graded winner, but that race, the Berkeley Handicap gr. No one told Poshsky he was supposedly outclassed. Miller had instructed jockey Fernando Perez to try to get the gelding to relax. Perez rode to orders, letting Poshsky trail the field for much of the race while Alert Bay sat off of pacesetter Spirit Rules. Alert Bay and Ashleyluvssugar ranged up in the second turn, looking like they would battle each other to the wire for the victory. Alert Bay gamely tried to fight back, with Poshsky narrowly holding him off by a neck in 1: Ashleyluvssugar was three-quarters of a length back in third. Cheekaboo completed the distance in 1: I was so busy, down riding, but I knew I was in front when I stood up. Cheekaboo and How Unusual, both by Unusual Heat, went off as the two longest shots on the board. They had to face proven graded stakes performers, with Seniorita Stakes gr. Cheekaboo had a Hall of Fame jockey in Mike Smith, who the day before partnered the amazing Songbird to capture the Summertime Oaks gr. He said I should ride it that way, so I did. I have to give him the credit. The Alameda County Fair-based trainer always looks forward to this time of year. Now 61 with a strong national reputation, he has established himself in such a demanding profession while calling shots from his little-known base in the town in which he was born. He has selected many for clients at sales, usually for bargain prices. Tapeta can and that colt went on to win be tough on shins, especially with three grade I races and nearly young horses. His other Incentives from the Califormer grade I winner was American-bred incentive fund keep racOaks victress Cambina. Bonde notes that two of them 10, starters. In North that misstep, and in recent years the stakes tracks with his father, Duke Jr. So say you wins have been piling up. As most major trainers in the people on. Most the sales, then owners like Schmitt and went to Seattle and bought three horses; of the horses he keeps at the fairgrounds Leberherz bought farms and got into the all three ended up being stakes horses. We had horses competing in stakes thing to say. But we hope to do a lot better Bonde developed his love for horses stretch setup. Standing at Harris Farms near Coalinga for Leberherz and partners, the son of Hold Tat Tiger has his first crop due to the track next year. Many in that initial group of about 90 will be coming to Bonde. We really got a lot of enjoyment out of that. She has a realty business and also helps out with marketing for the Bonde stable. I had an appointment with West Point Academy and blew it off. The Jef was more interested in the competitive side of racing. He had a rivalry going with Hollendorfer, his former roommate, back then, Bonde admits. But whatever their competitive differences, they have always been friends. Bonde, like Hollendorfer, branched out to Southern California in the s and has enjoyed success on the major circuit, especially with 2-year-olds. When it comes to mapping out medication regimens and training programs, Bonde wants to keep everyone on the same page. One employee, Jesus Gonzales, stands out just a little bit more. He can somehow just read animals, and the horses really like him. Jesus helps to develop their wonderful minds. Gonzales chooses to stay behind with his family, for which Greene is grateful because he can effortlessly take over running the farm. Gonzales and the rest of the crew immediately feed the horses and patrol the paddocks, hunting for injuries and illnesses. All of this comes after he reduced his workload.

Please send suggestions for additions via email to Emily LeBaron. We are particularly interested in expanding citations for non-British North American topics and for materials written in languages other than English. As the bibliography expands, we will eventually break it down into topics, but for the moment it is divided by format. Please note that this list of recent works is by no means up to date. Books and articles are added as time allows and a list of all articles and books written by Seminar Members is in progress. Adams and Murdo J.
