

Chapter 1 : Committee Opinions - ACOG

About Dr. Parker. Dr. William H. Parker is a board-certified Fellow in the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists. Dr. Parker has a private practice in Santa Monica, California and is a Clinical Professor at the UCLA School of Medicine.

This often happens before taking crucial decisions, like surgeries, operations or going for expensive treatments. Your gynecologist may have advised you to carry on with a particular treatment, but you can seek a second opinion if you are doubtful about the success of the treatment process. Most of the people face a common question in these situations, how to get gynecology second opinion? Seeking a second opinion has additional costs. Moreover, you may not inform the first doctor that you are seeking a second opinion. In these cases, you will keep thinking whose prescription to follow. The second doctor may provide you with a completely different set of medicines in the prescription. Therefore, it is necessary to know the Importance of Gynecology Second Opinion before you rush to another doctor. When to Seek a Second Opinion? If you feel that the treatment involves a lot of costs, or the doctor is doubtful about the result in the end, you may opt for a second opinion. Most of the time, the first doctor will not ask you to seek additional advice. You should be able to judge the situation and approach another gynecologist about what to do. These days, Obstetricians and gynecologists provide online services. You can simply reach out to a reputed doctor and state your situation. If the second doctor confirms that the ongoing treatment is fine, you can go ahead with the prescription of the first doctor. However, if he states that the treatment can be simplified and the costs can be reduced, you should follow his advice. In these cases, you need to assess the positions of the two doctors in terms of experience. You can find help from the online portals where the experts provide the patients with the necessary advice. Seek Second Opinion When Alternative Treatments Are Available Patients reach out to the second doctor when a number of treatment processes are available. You may have already tried one of the measures under the supervision of the first doctor without much help. He may be keen on sticking to the same medical process. Under these circumstances, you may ask the second doctor what to do. He may have a different approach in treating your problem. Generally, gynecology doctors prescribe the most effective way to cure the patients, but at times, certain treatments do not suit particular patients. In these cases, a second opinion becomes necessary. These doctors treat various complications like pelvic pain, ovarian cysts, fibroids and endometriosis. The physical conditions of the patients are assessed by the experts before they prescribe a particular medicine. You may ask a doctor whether the treatment you are undergoing will help or you need a different treatment. If he prefers to start a different treatment for treating your problem, get an idea of the estimated time needed to fully recover from the problem. You may approach a different doctor altogether, provide him with all the previous medical detail and prescriptions and seek his advice. Alternatively, the online option is always open for you. You can seek gynecologist online consultation from the experts and decide whether to continue with the first doctor or not. You may also seek a second opinion when you feel that you have several unanswered questions after undergoing treatment from the first doctor. Either the lack of experience on the part of the first doctor or unsuitable approach may lead you to seek a second opinion. When you compare two different approaches of treatment, you need to consider certain factors before judging the merits of the doctors. Firstly, consider the effectiveness of the treatments in terms of quality. You may be permanently cured of the issues, or get a temporary relief from the problem. The cost and overall time required to treat the problem should also be considered. At times, certain doctors may tell you that a particular treatment is not suitable for your body. Under these conditions, too, you can get a medical second opinion. It will help you to get the right treatment. A second opinion confirms the accuracy of the first and provides additional help if the first one turns out to be inadequate.

Chapter 2 : A Gynecologist's Second Opinion

By William H. Parker, MD. If you are visiting this website, it is likely that you or someone close to you has uterine fibroids. Recent developments in gynecology have expanded the treatment alternatives now available to women with fibroids.

Well, by my belly was huge and I had a whole host of problems. I did my research and asked seven gynecologists for their opinion and they all said, "Hysterectomy! Parker from a satisfied patient of his, I researched him and made an appointment. His office staff was warm and friendly and then meeting and talking to Dr. Parker was like being with family, easy, comfortable, and confident. Our visit was unhurried and informative as we discussed other treatments but we easily agreed upon the right treatment for me. After I woke up from my abdominal myomectomy I literally wept with joy. I knew I was completely fibroid free and the skilled hands of Dr. Parker made sure that I would heal well and I would have my life back. As a highly skilled gynecologic surgeon Dr. Parker realized that the low quality of life of most of his patients was because of fibroids. So this became his passion and focus and what an advantage for fibroid sufferers! With 4 out of 5 women suffering from fibroids I would say, when you have had enough of the confusion - call Dr. Be wise and make sure the doctor you choose is able to provide you with the care and attention you need. At 33 I learned the hard way, for me choosing the wrong doctor ended up with an additional surgery, and the removal of my right ovary, my appendix and lymph. This was very painful, not only physically but mentally and emotionally. I was very fortunate to have been referred to Dr. I consider myself extremely lucky to have been a patient of Dr. He understood I needed immediate care and fit me right into his busy schedule. And I am very grateful and happy to say that he saved my left only ovary with his expert surgical skills. With that alone I consider him a life saver. Parker has always been available to me and has always answered all of my questions with a comforting manor. And with that said, I am happy to be available to anyone who is looking for the right doctor. If you have any questions about Dr. Parker and want to hear first-hand how he is the best choice I have ever made. Feel free to email me and I will be happy to elaborate on how he always maintained his attentive care for me, right from the start with my initial consultation through to this day, five years later even though I have moved 3, miles away , Dr. Parker for giving me the best care I have ever had. It changed my life and I have thankfully been healthy ever since. Most doctors rush you through consultations and appointments. Parker is positively the best in the business, and as a patient, I heartily attest his stellar reputation is true. I have referred many friends and colleagues to him and will continue to do so. As an avid researcher, too, Dr. Parker after being told by a radiologist that my fibroids were so severe that I should have a hysterectomy and hire a surrogate to have my baby. During my first consultation, Dr. Parker thoroughly reviewed my MRI, explained the various treatment options available, then confidently told me that he could remove my fibroids thereby preserving my fertility so that I could attempt to have a baby. He explained in great detail what I could expect from surgery and answered all my questions thus setting my mind at ease. He was a partner in to me in my care and was available to me before, during, and after surgery. Dr Parker is thoughtful, insightful, and genuinely cares about the health of his patients. He has remained an advisor to me since my surgery and I value his opinion when it comes to my health. Any woman who is in need of fibroid treatment could not be in better hands. Emails were answered quickly and when I decided on surgery, everything was comprehensively explained to me. The surgery went very well, pain management was excellent and recovery was swift and without problem. So when it came to the various choices I had regarding the removal of my ovarian cyst, I found the best care was placing myself in the hands of Dr. His clinical expertise, matched with his patient-friendly manner, made my decision effortless. Parker has the ability to explain the complex in simple terms and is sincerely concerned for my long-term health and well-being. His staff takes that extra step to make you feel comfortable the moment you walk through the door. I only wish that I could have Dr. Parker attend to all my medical needs! He truly is one of the BEST! Parker, I was a patient of one of the most well known female gynecologists in Beverly Hills. Parker and his breakthrough laproscopic myomectomy. Being the daughter of an obgyn, I researched him and his record. Because of him, the fibroids are out, my parts are intact, and the quality of my life has drastically improved. Parker for his care and concern about women and that he advanced treatment with this procedure. Not only is he a brilliant surgeon, but he also has a gift to be able to communicate in easy to understand terms. Without exception, each of them stated that my fibroid could not be removed successfully and that my only surgical option was a hysterectomy. I wanted to keep my uterus intact and was devastated by this diagnosis. I refused to accept a hysterectomy as inevitable and decided to look to the U. I was referred to Dr. Parker and my husband and I flew down from Vancouver for a consultation with him. We were very nervous. Parker met with us, examined me, and reviewed all of my medical reports and images. In all of the many appointments with gynecologists, he was the only one who bothered to take the time to show us the MRI images and explain clearly and in detail exactly what the images revealed. He discussed all of the available treatment options and the advantages and disadvantages of each course of action. He took his time, thoroughly answering all of our questions and, believe me, we had a lot of questions! Contrary to what I had been told, he assured me that there was no reason why the fibroid could not be removed by a myomectomy. I had an abdominal myomectomy in September and I am now fibroid-free. Parker or say enough good things about him. He is an exceptional physician. Not only is he a highly competent and skilled surgeon with tremendous expertise, he is also attentive, empathetic, and considerate. I always felt that I was getting the best of care with Dr. I would recommend him strongly and without the slightest hesitation. I only wish I could find a gynecologist of his calibre in Canada. Parker for more than 20 years. During that time, I underwent several surgeries for treatment of fibroids. All were very successful, and left me feeling healthier and stronger than before. In each case, Dr. Parker always presented me with every conceivable treatment option, of which surgery was only one. He never failed to demonstrate patience and concern as I went through the decision making process. I have the utmost confidence in both his judgment and his ability as a surgeon and will always be grateful for his exceptional care. The gynecologist in Colorado that I went to told me that I would need to have a hysterectomy. I had a second opinion and was told that there must be a surgeon who could help me but it would not be in the small town of Durango, CO. So we started doing lots of research to find someone talented and experienced with removing large fibroids. I was fortunate enough to find Dr. Parker who eased my mind and assured me that my fibroid could be removed safely with a bikini incision and with keeping all of my organs in tact. Parker and his staff are warm, friendly and very skilled at what they do. The surgery went extremely well. It was shorter than they had anticipated and there was very minimal blood loss. The fibroid weighed 5 pounds! I am so grateful to Dr. Parker kept in contact with me through the healing process to make sure that I was doing well. His kind manner and extremely talented skills will never be forgotten. Now a year later I am healthy, very active and running my own dance program for toddlers! I feel like I have my life back. Bill Parker was nothing less than extra-ordinary. I approach all aspects of my life from a very natural, holistic approach. Bill to be incredibly open and receptive to all of the outside work I was doing in terms of shrinking my fibroid, and although there was definitely evidence of progress, I really appreciated going forward with my laparoscopic surgery. His care and respect for the feminine systems are refreshingly authentic, resonate, and grace-filled. I absolutely could not have chosen a better doctor to take care of my special needs, and I am so very grateful for my experience.
