This review is made for all newcomers who want to know what ships to invest in. As well as those who played for some time, but have not yet bought every ship. It gives you an insight of the different ship types and strengths and weaknesses.

We spent a great deal of time sharing our cancer journeys and I had the privilege to pray with her. We shared the same oncologist team at the center. She and I had female reproductive type cancers, although the doctors were unsure if she had uterine or ovarian or cervical cancer. Many of the chemo concoctions I had, she had had. But they made her tremendously ill. We tried to arrange our visits to the center at the same time. Unfortunately, she had to get in quicker than her scheduled time or she was often too sick to travel. So I left her a Get Happy and Well basket of goodies for her next visit. Our shared nurse made sure to get them to her. Through the winter, spring and summer, Katherine struggled to get her pain under control. Many visits to local oncologists and hospitals, trips to her beloved beach house, time with friends, children and grandchildren and hospice. I phoned her not long ago and left a message. She did not respond. Her daughter called me Thursday morning July 31 to tell me that Katherine had passed away in peace earlier that morning. Yes, she is with Jesus now. But she will be dearly missed. Monday evening at precisely 9: They were like sharp gas pains. The pain grew worse through the night. It was pain worth crying for. Tim was up around 5: The ER is out of the question, calling my oncologists would probably earn me the response, "you will need to come in to see me". Tim sent out a message for people to pray early Tuesday morning. I had received some free tickets to take David and friends to see "Fire and Rescue" Planes 2 that day and had been anticipating that surprise for David for nearly 2 months! But I could barely walk upright to the bathroom. So my dear friend, Laura came and picked up David by 8 and Tim tended to me. By evening, we had lots of people praying for us and the pain had moved down to my lower abdomen and pelvic area. Wednesday the pain did not subside but I was able to move around thankfully. I walked around the block with David in hopes that my bowels would work a little better. So we made plans for me to see Dr. The CT scan was scheduled for Friday morning. I had a plane ticket for Thursday night. Through a prompting of the Holy Spirit and a confirmation through her husband, Laura offered to join me on the trip. I am so thankful she did because it turned out that I needed her help. God knew and God provided!! My last CT scan was early June -- no visible tumors but tumor marker rising. This CT scan was the same -- no visible tumors but tumor marker rising, by points. So now they are Is it reliable, Not really. But the trend of the number is something to watch. And now that I am showing more symptoms my options are to repeat the tried and true chemo concoction I had last June-Oct 6 rounds , or try another chemo concoction which I have no idea how my body will respond, or try an oral chemo pill which makes my feet and hands peel and become very sensitive. Or, do nothing and "call hospice". I decided on the familiar one with hopes that we could stay on top of the nausea and life would not be too interrupted! Who has time for all this cancer stuff??! I had my infusion Friday night. I was very drained afterward. The mornings are the hardest because I feel so full I can barely drink all my beloved coffee! Laura and I left the center Saturday morning. Thank God again for her availability to join me. I was not energetic at all and needed a wheelchair assistance. But then I pushed the wheelchair for a bit to make myself move. Get the bowels going, keep the bowels going I will be returning to the center every 3 weeks for treatment Thank you for your continued prayers. I do pray that His will is for me to be around to raise David well into his 20s!!! Praising God, because He IS good:

Chapter 2 : A Walk through the Tabernacle | Circe Institute

How to do a Prayer Walk through Your Home I always thank the Lord and give Him all the praise and glory! I will now start a prayer walk through my home. May God.

Is it possible to be satisfied and hungry at the same time? It seems that the more I experience of the presence and the goodness of the Lord, the more I long for Him. He satisfies my deepest yearnings, and yet, He makes me hunger for more. Have you ever experienced that? When we have had a genuine encounter with the Lord, we want nothing more than to share it with others. When someone accepts Christ as their Savior and Lord, our hearts are elated! What a glorious reason to celebrate! There is nothing better! Too often, we act as if this is the end. They have accomplished the highest spiritual goal, and they are IN! They have eternal life, and we can rest easy that we have ushered another sinner into the Kingdom. But, is it really the end? Or, is it only the beginning? When we accept Christ as our Savior and Lord, we are adopted into the family of God. Being saved, redeemed, justified, and all those fancy theological words that are used to explain our salvation, are all about becoming followers of Christ who continue to seek Him, worship Him, serve Him, and submit to His Lordship. Salvation sparks the beginning of the most amazing and wonderful relationship with the God of the Universe! I have learned that the more we seek Him, the more we are satisfied in Him, yet, the more we also crave His presence. We have Him, and He meets the deepest longings of our souls, yet, we also continue to seek more of Him because we continue to develop an insatiable hunger and thirst for Him. It is sad that we are sometimes taught to settle for a mere taste, to be content with an introduction to His presence, but then to never experience the ongoing intimacy that grows through the ages in our walk with God. Well, I want more! Even Christians tend to seek for fulfillment in lesser things to fill that void, but these worthless idols will never satisfy. What is so cool is that we never seek God without His seeking us first. It is His Spirit that draws us and gives us the desire to seek more of Him. He draws first, and then we must respond to that inner longing. He, in turn, responds with more of His presence, and then draws us even deeper. It is a magnificent ebb and flow of His Spirit in our lives, and that is how He intends for us to live in relationship with Him. Show me your glory! I cannot be satisfied with mere routine. I cannot settle for a one-time prayer and then attempting this life on my own. However, Moses interceded for the people, and it was on his behalf that God relented. In the Tent of Meeting, Moses met regularly with God, and the cloud of His glory would sit at the entrance of the tent. The people would watch and worship the Lord. I especially love verse 11, and this is what I want more than anything! No one can see the face of God and live. However, God hid Moses in a crevice of a rock and allowed His glory to pass over. May we never take the holiness of God lightly or lose our awe of God Almighty. We tend to look at Him as our friend, and He is, but He is not just a casual friend to us. His glory fills the earth, and we are incapable of seeing His face directly in our human form. May we bow before Him and tremble at His worth! What is amazing to me is that even in all His glory, God still seeks intimacy with us. He loves us above all the rest of creation. Let us not be consumed with guilt or condemnation as we recognize our neglect of spiritual growth or the lack of investment in our relationship with God. Rather, let us seek Him fresh and new right now. Let us receive His grace and grasp His infinite love for us. May we bow before Him and seek Him with every fiber of our being. Just like Moses, let us seek the glory of God and allow Him to reveal Himself to us.

Chapter 3 : Why does God allow us to go through trials and tribulations?

As a wife, mom, and homemaker, there are so many things that I desire to have in my home: Service to God, love, peace, safety, hospitality, and grace, just to name a few. Before we go out into the world each day, our home is our starting point. I want this place to be so saturated with prayer, Scripture, and service that evil has no opportunity to invade. When my husband comes home each evening, I want him to be greeted with an abundance of peace and love. Talk about homemaking goals, right? One way is to saturate your home with prayer through regular prayers walks. Use this time to lift up your family and home in prayer to our Lord. Trust Him with every aspect of your home, seek His Will, and commit to following His lead. A prayer walk is just like it sounds! You take a walk through a building or area, praying over each part as you go. This can involve thanking God, asking for blessings, and requesting protection. How exactly do you take a prayer walk through a home? Start on the outside of your home, pray over each window and doorway. Pray over each room, your family, and visitors that come into your home. Use prayers that praise God as well as asking for any specific needs your home and family may have. Find a structure that works for you and commit to regular prayer walks through your home. Here is a simple guide for praying Scripture over your home during your prayer walk: Entire house Pray that your home be built on the solid foundation of Jesus Christ Matthew 7: Pray for your family to serve God Joshua Pray the Armor of God over each family member Ephesians 6: Pray that your family finds rest in God Matthew Pray for each family member to exhibit the Fruit of the Spirit Galatians 5: Pray for hearts of financial stewardship and giving that glorify God Deuteronomy Pray that you and your family do not develop a love of money 1 Timothy 6: Doorways and Windows Pray for protection from evil and its influences 2 Thessalonians 3: You May Also Enjoy:

Introduction This is a game where you can select one of 3 character types - thief, fighter and wizard. You can also import any of these characters or a paladin from the previous game in the series. Each character can progress through the game following a slightly different path. The walkthrough that follows contains all of the general tasks that are to be completed. If one character type differs, it will be indicated specifically. In most instances a paladin can be considered the same as a fighter. Caves Search the 3 skeletons to get coins, a flint and a dagger. Pick up a torch from the altar on the right and use your flint on it to light it. Now open the door at the back of this room. If you are a fighter, pick up the sword and shield. Try to head south and you will be attacked. Go south and use the rope hand over hand to cross the chasm. If you are a wizard, pick up the sheet. Go south and use the sheet on yourself, then cast Levitate to cross the chasm. If you are a thief, look at the mark on the small rock on the ground to see it is a Thief Mark. Go south and walk over the rope to cross the chasm. Continue northwest to leave the caves. After talking to Katrina, look at the arch and take the Dark One Sign. Go west, down a slimy path, and west again. Go north 6 times, east and north to reach the town gates. Pick some corn and search the tree stump for some money, then continue north into the town. Town of Mordavia Look at the staff in the stone here, and try to take it. Go north on the left side of the staff to meet the Burgomeister. Go back outside and enter the General Store. Talk to Olga, then buy 10 food rations, a garlic clove, 2 lots of candy, a pie pan, a flask of oil, a shopping bag and a hand broom. Go back outside and enter the Hotel Mordavia - you will automatically pay for board for a room and get a key. Talk to the Innkeeper and the other men here, then leave again. Head through the archway to the north part of town. Talk to Igor, then use your keys to enter the Guild. Sign the logbook and read the logbook. Read all of the books in the bookcase. If you are a fighter, take the rope and grapnel. Smash open the case on the wall to get the sword. You can use the grapnel with the hook in the ceiling to practice climbing, and use the weights on the left to improve your strength. Make sure you take the grapnel with you when you go. If you are a wizard, you can use the weights on the left to improve your strength. If you are a thief, take the rope and grapnel, use it on the hook in the ceiling and climb up to see a Thief Mark. Now look under the desk holding the logbook to see another Thief Mark. Use the coat hooks on the right; rotate the 3rd one to point up, then the 2nd to point down, the 4th to point right and the 1st to point left. Take the guild card from the poster on the back wall. Look in the 2 grates on the floor to see another Thief Mark, and find a safe knob. Examine the door in the back wall, then use your guild card to open it. Read the books in the next room to learn about traps, then use your safe knob on the safe. Look below the safe to see more Thief Marks. Search for traps in the desk, then pick the lock. Read the book to find a code you will use shortly. Move each of the empty picture frames on the right wall to reveal 2 safes; disarm the trap on each and crack each of the safes. Talk to him, then leave the Guild. Go east and talk to Nikolai. Open the right door to be attacked by baby Antwerps. Use the machine here, answering questions to identify a baby Antwerp. Use one of your rations to bait the machine, and you will catch a baby Antwerp. Use the machine again to identify another animal, this time with 6 legs, and say that eating Heroes is not a good idea; hexopods apparently like garlic. Now open the left door and rotate the maze so the Antwerp gets the key and then reaches the exit. Now use the door on the far wall and rearrange the tiles to show a large keyhole, then open the door. Talk to Dr Cranium about everything, including healing potions and poison cures. Ask him for at least 4 empty flasks. If you are a wizard, ask him about magic and you will get a scroll for the Glide spell. Outside, talk to Nikolai again and he will hopefully tell you more about Anna, who is missing. Return to the north part of town and use your Dark One sign in the door to enter the monastery. If you are a thief, climb up and take the blackbird statue from above the entry door. Give your garlic to the hexopod above the fireplace, then pull the post next to the fireplace and head down to the basement. Stay away from the back wall in this room. Note the letters on the wall: If you are a wizard, cast open on the desk from far away. If you are a fighter or thief, force open the desk you will be poisoned. Search the desk to learn about the 6 Dark One Rituals. Drink from the large cask on the back right wall and you will get the Blood Ritual. If you are a thief, use your shopping bag to pick up the squid statue from the small alcove. Return to the Chief Thief and use this on him to cure his condition. Now leave the monastery and you will take your Dark One sign with you. Wait until it is night time. Use oil on both doors of the wardrobe, then search both doors. Search the chest at the foot of the bed, and put the locket back in the chest. Go downstairs towards the desk and move the mug to the floor, then open the desk. Leave through the window. Return to the Inn and eat then sleep.

Valley of Mordavia Day Time From the town gates, head south 4 times, east 3 times and south to find the Rusalka. Give her some flowers, then return to town by going north, west 3 times and north 4 times. You can now visit the Leshy by going south twice and east 3 times. Leave and come back and he will tell you to save a bush from goo. Return to town by going west 3 times and north twice. Next head to the swamp, by going south, west and south 6 times. Pick up some rocks from the ground on the way. Continue east to the slime area. Pick up some goo in 3 empty flasks. If you are a fighter or thief, throw 3 lots of rocks at the pile of rocks in the bottom right, then pick up the bush. If you are a wizard, cast Force Bolt on the pile of rocks in the bottom right, then Fetch on the bush. Return west to the swamp. Go north and west and pick up a bone, then return east and south. If you are a fighter, walk through the swamp avoiding the hands. If you are a wizard, cast Glide and head west over the swamp, avoiding the hands. If you are a thief, jump west over the hillocks, avoiding the hands. Attack the wizards when you reach the tomb, then use your Dark One sign in the tomb. Highlight the symbols in order from top right around clockwise to top left, and you will get the Sense Ritual. Return east the same way you got here, then go back to town by going north 6 times, east and north. Visit the Leshy again, and tell him about the bush - he will tell you to plant it. Search the first lantern for some money. Plant your bush in the ground here at the bottom right of the screen.

Norway Bergen This review is made for all newcomers who want to know what ships to invest in. As well as those who played for some time, but have not yet bought every ship. It gives you an insight of the different ship types and strengths and weaknesses. I have not included the American Special ship pack since I do not own it. And have yet to learn more about this one before I can give an opinion of it. I will try to update it as new ship packs come available. With only a damage capacity of 6 hts they are the weakest ship in the game. Even if they have the best movement in the game they are truly not capable in fighting against any other ship then the same ship class. Ares have produced 3 different ships of this class: Wave 1 Where the American has a better firepower than the other two countries. The ship class is a French design. It is stronger than the English counterparts with a decent firepower. Because of their increased damage capacity of 24 hts they last much longer than other ships of same size and may engage tougher and stronger ships. Ares have made 5 different ships of this class: Captured French ship guns Amazon Class Frigates This English design ship class is faster and more agile than the French counterpart. They also have a better firepower than the French. Their weakness lies in their low damage capacity of 16 hts. Any player who use them must be careful not to put them in direct line of a full broad side. Ares have made 5 ships of this ship class. With a damage capacity of 36 hts they are in an own league compared to the English 32 gun counterparts that have only 16 hts. But then again their toughness comes with a price and that is their agility and movement that is the worst of the 5th rate ship classes in the game until now. Ares have made 3 ships of this ship class: The English have weak 5th rates and few to choose from. The few they may choose is captured ships. With firepower stronger than the English and twice as many hts the English are outmatched. They are also worth the price difference of around 20 points more than the English 5th rates. The Hebe class are slower than the Mahonesa class but turns more quickly and easy. Ares have made 3 ships in this class: You may use Ares alternative ship log to use them as normal merchant ships with weaker fire power. They are great to use in scenarios and is a must to have for all Sails of Glory fans. Strangely they do move almost as good as the English counterparts with only one point difference in Veer rating. Their damage capacity is also equal and fire power is about the same. Ares have made 3 ships of this type: This ship class is the only normal 4th class SOL in the game. Since no other nation until now have a ship in this class except for the East Indiamen ship that is placed in 4th rate because of its refit as a warship rather than a merchant ship. The ship itself has a decent firepower and damage capacity. And it is even faster than the French 40 gun 5th rate making it dangerous opponent. Ares have made 3 ships of this class: Ares have really scored this ship to low in everything. It has to low hts and to low firepower. If you compare it with the English 64 gun SOL the English ship clearly outgun the French and it also have a much higher damage capacity. For the first time in game the English have higher burden on a ship class than the French. The point difference of around points is clearly too little for this kind of distance. The French ship have only one advantage and that is movement. Here it is better than the English counterpart, and with a good captain it may get into a better advantageous firing position. But then again the English ship is so strong it will probably win every time if the two ship design came into battle. The ship is an interesting ship to play and may require good planning to play. It is best used in scenarios were you want a weaker ship to even the settings. Ares have made 3 ships of this design: They are all represented with the same model with different paint scheme. Sadly they are also equal in movement and hts. The only difference is the firepower on some of the ships. As I told above they are very much is much better than the French counterpart, but then again I believe they have the right firepower for its class. Their weakness is their movement and they are as slow as the 74 gun English ships but with better turning capacities. The ship packs is a great purchase and I think many will use them in skirmishes and scenarios. There are some famous ship names that will make them very popular. Ares have made 3 ships in this release, one for each class. Its little bit slower than the English counterpart but the fire power is much better. It is an excellent choice for skirmish or scenarios with many famous names. The ships are mostly equal in everything except for one with a higher firepower rating Redoubtable So you may use any of them. Ares have made 5 ships of this ship class: They represent The Bellona class, the Elisabeth class and the Edgar class. Ares have kept the ships almost identical with small differences in the firepower rating. Many of the ship names are famous for participating in great battles. The ship class itself is where it is expected with no weakness or extraordinary strength. It is recommended that you have more than two of these since they are used a lot in skirmishes and scenarios. Ares have made 5 ships of this class: But the firepower rating varies a lot from ship to ship. Making it a completely new ship for every name. This makes it fun for anyone who wants to play and have a different experience for each named ship. The ships are good and strong and are fun to play with. For anyone who wants to play with Spanish ships , it is recommended to buy both Spanish ship packs. They scores are more like a second rate ship with a much higher damage capacity than other 3rd rates. At the same time its movement is as bad as an English first rate. Out from historical facts I think it is little misplaced in its values, if you compare her to 3rd and 1st rates. But then again it is a great ship that may serve as a link to 2nd rates until Ares produce some. Its fire power is higher than other 3rd rates and it may feel like you have closer to 90 guns especially in musket fire power. It is a ship I recommend to buy and may be used in both skirmishes and scenarios. Ares have produced 3 ships of same model. They have very high firepower and damage capacity. But are very slow and have bad turning capacity. Still they move better than the French and Spanish counterparts, but with little lower firepower rating. The ships represent different ship classes but have the same movement and turning capacity. The only difference is variable firepower rating for each ship name. The ships are kings of the sea and you need to buy at least one of them for those real big battles or for those scary scenarios where smaller ships engage these beasts. Ares have made 3 of this ship type: It is of same type as the English first rates above , but with boosted movement capabilities. It is also have a higher firepower rating then the other first rates except for one. It is more like a Hero 1st rate but it is fun to have this famous ship in the game. It is probably the best ship until now in the game when it comes to balance high firepower and movement. Ares have made only one of this ship. These massive beasts of firepower and hts was the ultimate weapon of the French Navy. They have a very high firepower but their weakness is their movement. They have the worst speed and turning capacity in the game. Still they are a must to have in the game and all of them fought in famous battles. If I should say any negative about them it is that they should have a higher damage capacity because of their size. Ares have made 3 of these ships. One of the ships Santa Ana have the highest firepower in the game. The other varies in firepower strength but are better than the English.

A neighbor living nearby is better than a relative far away. Welcome to the Daily Audio Bible. So, as we spend our time in the book of Hebrews today we were also spending a bunch of our time in the book of Jeremiah. Why such a long quotation from Jeremiah 31 in the book of Hebrews? Hebrews was written by Hebrews for Hebrews, right? So, the Hebrew or the Jewish context is absolutely foundational. And to see this all we have to do is imagine, like we did yesterday, what reading the book of Hebrews would be like if there was nothing called the Old Testament, right? And devout Hebrew people knew what was being talked about. So, in terms of the covenant, priests—and we read all this in the Mosaic law as it was being laid out—priests served on behalf of the people in order to fulfill what they understood the obligations of the covenant to require. So, if a new covenant were in fact being instituted or inaugurated by God himself, then it would need to be presided over by a new high priest. So again, quoting from Hebrews, we do have this kind of chief priest. This chief priest has received the highest position, the throne of Majesty in heaven. He serves as priest of the holy place and of the true tent set up by the Lord and not by any human. So, as modern believers living years removed from this and who are predominantly Gentile, we can look at these intricate arguments and formulas being made in Hebrews as just like something very tedious and highly theological. But for a devout first century Jew these teachings were so revolutionary that most of them simply could not get their minds around it and embrace the idea that God was doing something new in the world through a suffering Messiah. It was to reveal Jesus to Jewish people as the foretold next step in their faith. So, Hebrews reveals the ongoing Hebrew story within the context of what God was in inviting his people into. The copy or shadow of the old promise or covenant was being replaced by an unbroken and unblemished new covenant or promise that was to be presided over by a sinless high priest in heaven and that is Jesus. So, in the Hebrew context this would have been almost too good to be true. To be told that sin was no longer an issue and that the law that permeated society and continually made everyone feel like they were failing, that had been fulfilled. So, like, to get their minds around this is to monumental for most of them, but it had been foretold. And other things are foretold as well. No longer will each person teach his neighbors or his relatives by saying know the Lord. All of them from the least important of the most important will all know Me because I will forgive their wickedness and I will no longer hold their sins against them. Father, we look back through time and see that this was revolutionary, and we can very easily take this for granted, but it is no less revolutionary today. To think that our sins are forgiven, that we have been washed clean, that we have been grafted into Your family and adopted, that we are part of the family of God, that we are children of the most-high. And yet it quickens our Spirits. We come awake when we hear these words because something very deep and ancient inside of us knows that this is true. So, come Holy Spirit, continue to reveal all truth to us as we continue to walk forward into life with You. We ask these things in the name of Jesus. So, be sure to check in and check it out. Pray for your brothers and sisters at the Prayer Wall. Of course, the Daily Audio Bible Shop is at dailyaudiobible.com. And, as always, if you have a prayer request or comment, is the number to dial. Community Prayer and Praise: Hello, this is Kim calling also from the rolling hills of Tennessee and I just wanted to call and state to Kat from Denver regarding your son Philip. And Kat, I just want to pray over you and Phillip. And girl, I would love for us to pray for one another as moms. If you will keep my son Taylor in your prayers. Dear heavenly Father, we just thank You Lord for giving us these sons that You have entrusted us with Lord. Father, I pray for Philip dear God. I pray that he would not doubt that You are right there with him God. Father, I pray for his protection while he is there Father. Lord, I pray against just the stigma that goes on in prison that I know undoubtedly that Kat has thought about, and I have thought about. Lord, I pray for Philip and he would be seen and be given the contacts that he needs to be able to see Father. And I pray more than anything that he sees how You love him. Father, please send ministers into this prison Father to speak truth and love in his life! This is joyful J from the Everglades with everlasting gratitude for the everlasting love of Jesus. The first day of hearing Brian read the Scriptures was Christmas day of I just recently started listening to the prayer requests however. This gives me hope that love prevails. Melody Faith, I was a prodigal child. Through the unconditional love of believers, I learned to receive the love of Jesus. They were the only Bible I was reading at the time. My prayer for your son is for him to remember the sweet taste of grace and to learn to receive the loving guidance of the Holy Spirit. I pray he will be put in a pinball machine of believers at every bump and every turn. My dear Melody Faith know that God runs for his lost children even when they are far off. To Sharee, I heard your prayer from October 27th. Your request for your oldest son. What a blessing you are to him. I know how hard it is to be on the sidelines as our children enter adulthood and find the journey full at times. It is incredibly encouraging that he shared his heart with you. Again, love always prevails. My prayer for your son Sharee is for his focus to change, for him to see the great opportunity before him, and for his eyes to open to the other lonely Christians on his campus. He is not alone. I pray that your son will receive the boldness, strength, and courage that is waiting for him as he learns to hear the Holy Spirit and to learn to follow his prompting. This is my first time to call but I have been extremely blessed as has my family by this program for many things for years. And God bless this ministry, Brian, Jill, and everybody around our global campfire. It is truly a blessing to many. Ahhh! you are so beloved of the Lord Jesus. We are His bride and He loves us more than we can begin to understand. I want to share something I felt really prompted to say. And this is for people who have lost someone to death, which I, of course you all know, I did lose my husband in March And it was a communion Sunday. And right before communion we did a prayer of confession. And there was a moment of silence to confess your own sins to the Lord. And just know that the Lord hates death. When His friends who were really upset because Lazarus died, He cried too. I will be at peace. I will no longer be angry. So I will pay you back for what you have done, declares Adonay Yahweh. Like mother, like daughter. She rejected her husband and her children. You are exactly like your sisters. They rejected their husbands and their children. Your mother was a Hittite, and your father was an Amorite. She and her daughters lived north of you. Your younger sister is Sodom. She lives south of you with her daughters. It only took you a little time to be more corrupt than they ever were. She and her daughters were proud that they had plenty of food and had peace and security. So I did away with them when I saw this. You have done many more disgusting things than they ever did. Because of all the disgusting things that you have done, you make your sisters look innocent. Yet, your sins are more disgusting than theirs. They look like they are innocent compared to you. Be ashamed of yourself and suffer disgrace, because you have made your sisters look like they are innocent. I will also restore your fortune along with theirs.

As we walk with him, he will open the Scriptures to us through the Spirit of wisdom and revelation and reveal to us the light of the glory of God that is to be found in him.

Chapter 9 : A Walk Through Fifth Avenue's Crowning Glory; NoMad Penthouse Lists for $24M | CityRealty

By David Wilkerson March 8, _____ I believe there is only one thing that can keep us going in the coming hard times and that is an understanding of God's glory. Now, this may sound like a high, lofty concept to you, one that's best left to theologians.

In his chapter on St. And upon close inspection, it seems clear that this is yet one more beautiful thread John weaves throughout his writing. In chapters 2 through 5, there are several events connected by water. In chapter 3, Jesus and his disciples meet John the Baptist while he is baptizing, and John the Baptist again testifies to Christ. Finally, in chapter 5, Jesus heals a man who has been paralyzed and awaiting a miracle for 38 years. And Jesus heals him by the pool of Bethesda. After the altar of burnt offering was the laver or bronze basin, where Aaron and his sons would wash with water in preparation for offering the sacrifices. Jesus is the Lamb of God, and He is the laver, but chapters 6 and 7 continue through the tabernacle as Jesus feeds the five thousand plus women and children who are gathered near the Sea of Galilee. He feeds them with five loaves and two fish, leaving twelve baskets of fragments remaining. If anyone eats of this bread, he will live forever. Passing the laver or the bronze basin in the tabernacle, one leaves the outer courtyard and enters the Holy Place, and arrives at the Table of Shewbread the Bread of Presence. Christ is that bread. Given the laver is in the outer courtyard, one must pass its waters, before entering the Holy Place. And, only then can one arrive at the table of bread. This prefigures the sacraments of baptism and communion – one first passing through the waters of baptism before they can come to the table of bread. For my flesh is true food, and my blood is true drink. Whoever feeds on my flesh and drinks my blood abides in me, and I in him. In chapter 13, Jesus speaks of being glorified by the Father, which is also connected to light throughout Scripture. He is the light of the world. In chapters 14 through 18, John arrives at the altar of incense, before which the priest stands to minister, immediately before the Holy of Holies. Over the course of these chapters, Jesus is shown to be the great High Priest. He says that He reveals the Father But Jesus as High Priest is perhaps clearest in chapter 17, where He prays to the Father, interceding on behalf of His disciples. He then does the same in chapter 18, protecting His disciples from being arrested by the guards with Judas. And then, in After the altar of incense comes the veil, which divides the Holy Place from the Holy of Holies. Leviticus specifies that, before the High Priest could go behind the veil, he had to first make atonement for himself, then he had to kill the sacrifices of the people, and bring the blood of the sacrifices into the Holiest Place to sprinkle on the Mercy Seat. He would step behind the veil and sprinkle the blood on the Mercy Seat between the cherubim that sat on either side. Remember that the sacrifice had to be without spot or blemish. Then, when Jesus was crucified, His garments were torn and the veil was torn from top to bottom. But, on the third day or the 8th day of the New Creation , the Lamb of God arose. Peter entered the empty tomb first, though John reached it before him Peter was the first to enter the tomb, for he was the new High Priest. It was Peter who preached at Pentecost, declaring the New Covenant to the people. The sacrifice has been offered, the High Priest entered followed by His successor , the blood was sprinkled, and the work finished and accepted by the Father.
