

Chapter 1 : Sidney Sheldon's After the Darkness by Tilly Bagshawe

Sidney Sheldon's After the Darkness is a novel by Tilly Bagshawe. Bagshawe began writing Sidney Sheldon works after the latter's death in After writing Mistress of the Game, Tilly Bagshawe once again recaptured the late Sidney Sheldon's way of thriller writing in After the Darkness.

Aerions A shocked Hermione leaves the Burrow, and the wizarding world. Can anyone bring her back? Could there be light after the darkness? Set after the war. So shockingly, the rights to Harry Potter does not belong to plot is mine, the rest belongs to the lovely J. So this is a Remione story, if this is not a ship you are comfortable with, move along. I could not deal with the deaths of alot of people, so as you will see as the story progress, many characters will be alive and well. If you have any comments, good or bad please leave a review and let me know. The rating for this story is put there to be on the safe side, later chapters might contain more mature content that the story does at this point. This story as you will see describe a grown up Hermione. There is no relationship before Hermione is of age. All around them people were looking expectantly on the proposal. Harry had an angry look on his face. Sirius just kept staring after Remus who had quickly lef the room when he saw what was going to happen. Suddenly it was like reality once again came back to Hermione. She looked around at the people standing there, hoping beyond hope that the one person whos opinion mattered could give her a hint. But she could not find his face, Harry looked mad, and Luna sad, and Sirius just looked out the door. Finally she turned around looking at Ron, and she could feel her anger rising. Why would he ask her that? Did he ask in front of everyone and thought that would push her towards yes? Once again she felt a surge of anger. She took a deep breath trying to calm herself, and then she looked Ron straight in the eye. Did you really think that I would say yes to that question? Did you really think that asking me in front of all our friends and your family would be the right thing to do? We are not a couple, we have never dated, and that one kiss was a mistake, you turned your head as I was aiming for your cheek. You have continued to ask me out for almost two years now, and I have refused every single time. I have started to stay away from the Burrow, because I wanted space from you. We fight all the time, how on earth could you think we would work as a couple? And before you say so, no Ron, it is not hidden tension. You are rude and you make me cry, I could never wish for that kind of life for myself. So no, as you clearly need me to say it, no I will not marry you. Ron looked at her with a look of utter shock, he clearly thought she would say yes. She turned, and she could see that Lunas face was still sad, Harrys still mad, but the Weasleys and Sirius all looked at her with their mouths hanging open. She used the opportunity and walked over to the door, she turned around to say something, but changed her mind and left through the door. That was the last time they saw Hermione, for many years to come. This first chapter is a bit short, but as we get into the story, the chapters will be longer. I will try to keep an updating schedule of roughly a chapter a week. As of now, this story is un-betaed, so if anyone is interested in Betaing, please let me know in a PM. Your review has been posted.

Chapter 2 : After the Dark (The Philosophers) () - Rotten Tomatoes

Sidney Sheldon's After the Darkness is a wonderfully written story of suspense, intrigue, mystery and betrayal. The principle character in After the Darkness is Grace Brookstein. Her character goes through so many changes and growth from the start of the story. Grace is the wife of Lenny Brookstein.

Aug 07, Literary Escpades rated it liked it Recommends it for: They both live a life of fantasy. Their fairy-tale story comes to an end when stock market crashes and Lenny Brookstein is murdered suspiciously on his yacht. Grace is arrested for money laundering and everyone she knew turns their back against her. On her mission to truth she unveils many secrets and finds that all this time she really was living in a fantasy, and she had no idea about the reality. Not the ideal Sheldon work but still worth reading. Though I felt that whatever bit of romance was there between the lead protagonists Mitch and Grace was not required and neither few more mishaps and affairs mentioned. Well that did not happen here. You read about an incident and think why his might have had happened, before you even come up with a theory Tilly herself lays everything on plate with detailed explanation. It could have been better had Tilly been bit patient and delayed in revealing things and kinda give us more to read as to who why where and killed Lenny till the end instead of revealing everything side by side. But then why 3 stars????? Well a good question indeed. What I mean to say is this that at places it does kinda hangs you and you wanna know what happened next. Stockings rated it it was ok This review has been hidden because it contains spoilers. To view it, click here. I found this book to be a real mixed bag. An intriguing story and a great heroine, but most of the other characters were very one dimensional. There seemed to be a mixed message here--Grace was unfairly judged because she was rich, and yet the author does nothing but paint pictures of these rich folks that make us want to puke our guts out. And some of the inner dialogue was so ridiculous, and on occasion the author blew a great moment by over explaining. OF course the hero detective checks it out. And finally, the resolution leaves us saying, "Really? I read this whole ridiculous book just to see her walk away in the crowd? What a let down.

Chapter 3 : After the Darkness: Queenship

After the Darkness read online free from your Pc or Mobile. After the Darkness is a Mystery novel by Sidney Sheldon.

Plot[edit] Mr. Zimit, a philosophy teacher at an international school in Jakarta , has been challenging his class of twenty with thought exercises to prepare them for their future. On the last day of school, he holds an exercise in which he posits an oncoming atomic apocalypse. There is a bunker to shelter them for a year, but it only has supplies for ten people, so his students have to decide who of them should be allowed in. James is an organic farmer and Petra is an engineer. Zimit is part of the exercise but his skills are hidden. At first the students agree to let him in, but Zimit executes the students who have been rejected, claiming that it is more humane than letting them die by radiation. The remaining students race into the bunker before the explosion, locking out Zimit. Outside, Zimit holds up a card saying that only he has the exit code. After living out the year in the bunker, the survivors discover that the exit code is necessary. All attempts of breaking out of the bunker are futile, and after supplies run out they commit group suicide. They decide to try the exercise again. The cards given earlier are revealed to contain a secondary detail that change the votes, e. Georgina, who was allowed in earlier because of her status as a surgeon, now has possibly contracted the Ebola virus and is rejected. Zimit and the chosen students enter the bunker, and agree to start procreating immediately. Various heterosexual pairs get together, but as James is gay in this exercise, Petra has to sleep with Zimit. After ten weeks there are no pregnancies, and Zimit argues that they need to change partners. When Bonnie, a soldier with eidetic memory , refuses, Zimit threatens her with a gun. Jack stabs Zimit, who responds by opening the doors and killing everyone. Petra insists the exercise be carried out a third time, and asks everyone to trust her to choose who gets to enter the bunker. She picks people who are a potential risk or have non-technical skills, including an opera singer and poet, which angers Zimit. Petra herself refuses to enter the bunker, but is pushed inside when Chips switches places with her before the door closes. Zimit is outright refused entry since his exit code is no longer necessaryâ€”Bonnie remembers it from the previous iteration. Petra continues the thought exercise, explaining that the year in the bunker was enjoyable and filled with creativity. When they leave, they discover that the bombs never fell. Zimit narrates that they will die, as none of them have the technical skills to survive, but Petra counters that they will live the rest of their short lives well and welcome death when it arrives. Zimit arrives at the beach, having survived in a cave for the past year, and threatens to shoot James, but the rest of the survivors stand in front of him. Back in class, Zimit is discomfited by the latest exercise. At the end of the session, everyone leaves except Petra, who accuses Zimit of trying to use the exercise to punish her and James. Zimit has been having an affair with Petra, and he believes James is beneath her. The film ends with Zimit alone in the school as he contemplates suicide. Cast[edit] Sophie Lowe as Petra, the main character. She is the best student in the class and kind-hearted, trying to save everybody in each trial. She is cast as a structural engineer in the first round and is saved. In the second round, it is revealed she is also an electrical engineer and is immediately saved again. She picks who to save in the third round and does not save herself, but she is pulled into the bunker by the others. It is acknowledged by many characters that James is not as smart as his classmates, but he is kind and tries to save some of the other students. He is given the role of an organic farmer and saved in the first round because of his ability to grow food. In the second round, he has the added characteristic of being gay, thus having difficulty in helping to repopulate, but is still saved again. In the third round, he is changed from an organic farmer to a florist, but is still saved by Petra. In the first round, he is the last person saved; however, when he shot those who would be left for dead as he believes it to be more merciful than letting them die of radiation , the group turns on him and locks him out of the bunker. It is revealed Mr. Zimit is a bunker builder and the only person to know the exit code to leave the bunker after the year is up. He is saved in the second round, but opens the door early and kills everyone inside after a fight. He is not saved in the third round, but hides in a cave on the island and survives on his own. Bonnie Wright as Georgina, a student who dislikes Mr. Zimit and is constantly fighting with him. She is given the occupation as an orthopedic surgeon who is immediately voted in for the first trial because of her medical skills. However, in the second round, her additional characteristic is that she was recently exposed to the ebola virus and could infect the bunker if she has it. She is not saved in the second round. She leads the others who would not be saved to the trucks and they try to outrun the atomic bombs, but they are quickly killed by an explosion. Georgina is saved by Petra in the third trial, who relies on hope that Georgina does not have ebola. Daryl Sabara as Chips. Chips is a carpenter who is saved for the first round. In the second round, he reveals that he is infertile and cannot contribute to rebuilding the population, but is still saved again. In the third round, Bonnie refuses to be saved, so Chip takes her place in the bunker. However, when Petra refuses to enter, Chips tricks her into taking his spot by pulling her into the bunker and runs out, sacrificing himself for her. According to Chips, he and the others who would not be saved escape on a boat and find an island to live safely. Freddie Stroma as Jack. Jack is given a PhD in chemistry and is saved in the first trial. He is saved again. In the third trial, Petra saves Jack, who is gay, in order to preserve diversity. When Jack asks for another gay male to join them so he has someone to be with, Petra saves Parker, who is also gay outside of the simulation. Katie Findlay as Bonnie. She is given the role as a soldier, saved for her ability to keep peace and provide protection. In the second trial, she is given the additional characteristic of having an eidetic memory, she is saved again. Petra tries to save her in the third round, but Bonnie argues that Petra is more valuable to the group than she is and refuses to be saved. However, because of her eidetic memory and watching Mr. Zimit input the exit code in the second round, she saves the group by giving them the code before they shut the bunker. George Blagden as Andy. In the second round, he also has fibrodysplasia ossificans progressiva, a connective tissue disease that renders him useless after small injuries. On top of his disease, Petra is an electrical engineer in the second round and Andy would not be able to re-populate in fear of passing down his disease, he is not saved the second time, nor a third time. Erin Moriarty as Vivian. She is given the role as a zoologist and is not saved in the first round. After it is revealed she runs a night blog for PETA, she is not saved in the second or third rounds because she does not offer anything for survival. Maia Mitchell as Beatrice. She is given the role of a fashion designer and is not saved in the first trial. She is still deemed insignificant and not saved again. Beatrice is saved in the third round when Petra justifies that dressing well boosts self-esteem, which promotes productivity, which could save civilization. Jacob Artist as Parker, who is cast as a gelato maker. He is not saved in the first round. Due to a misprint on his card where he has no additional trait, but Utami has two additional traits, Parker is not saved in the second round either. Because Parker is actually gay, he is saved for Jack in the third round. Cinta Laura as Utami. She is an opera singer. Petra vouches for her, saying that music is vital for entertainment and relaxation; however, Utami and Mr. Zimit are the last people to be voted on and she loses to him. In the second round, she is given two additional characteristics: Utami is not saved in the second round, but she is saved in the third when Petra says they should have music while they can. Philippa Coulthard as Poppie, given the role of a psychotherapist, saved in the first round because of the trauma caused by an apocalypse. In the second round, it is revealed she had a hysterectomy and can not bear children; she is not saved in the second or third rounds. She is saved in the first round because her occupation would give her negotiation and leadership skills. In the second round, it is revealed she would have been the first female chief justice of the supreme court without the apocalypse and the most effective American jurist in a generation, she is saved again, but she is not saved in the third round. Abhi Sinha as Kavi. He is given the role of a real estate agent who, without houses to buy or sell during an apocalypse, is not saved in the first round. In the second round, he is also a midwife. After losing Georgina as their doctor, this saves him in the second round. He is not saved in the last round. Toby Sebastian as Russell, who is cast as a harp player.
