Physics was the toughest section while Biology and GK sections were easy to moderate. Biology The difficulty level of this section was very easy. There were as many as 20 reason-assertion based questions in Biology but still, they were not deemed very tough by students and were easy to solve. Some questions were diagram based too. Zoology and Botany questions were asked equally. Physics Out of all the sections, physics was the most difficult sections. While the exact number of reason-assertion based questions remain unknown, students insisted that most questions into in this category. Besides, questions in this section were tricky, creative and time-consuming too. Chemistry The language of few questions was confusing that students found it difficult to understand the logic to be applied. There were as many as 18 reason-assertion based questions in Chemistry. Though Chemistry section was easier than Physics, it still had a high difficulty level. Though Physics was tough I attempted good number of questions from this section also. The easiest section for me was General Knowledge. The question paper was slightly towards the difficult side of physics being the toughest of the four Biology, Chemistry, Physics and GK. The moderate level of Chemistry, Biology and GK is a good way to balance out the difficulties in the Physics section. The cut off will be determined on the basis of percentile as the examination will be held in two shifts and a Normalization Procedure will be used to determining the qualifying criteria. Officials say- If the percentiles of the two shifts are unequal, the lower of the two will be considered for cut off of that category for all candidates. Similar method will be adopted for the other categories to determine eligibility cut offs.
