The settlers later moved to a better-protected harbor on the south shore. Per orders from Charles Calvert, fifth Lord Baltimore, Stone returned the following spring at the head of a Cavalier royalist force, loyal to the King of England. On March 25, in what is known as the Battle of the Severn first colonial naval battle in North America, Stone was defeated, taken prisoner, and replaced by Lt. Josias Fendall as fifth Proprietary Governor. Fendall governed Maryland during the latter half of the Commonwealth period in England. Annapolis was incorporated as a city in 1694. Annapolis is home to a large number of recreational boats that have largely replaced the seafood industry in the city. Alexander Hamilton was a Scottish-born doctor and writer who lived and worked in Annapolis. The Itinerarium of Dr. Alexander Hamilton is "the best single portrait of men and manners, of rural and urban life, of the wide range of society and scenery in colonial America. Congress was in session in the state house from November 26, to June 3, and it was in Annapolis on December 23, that General Washington resigned his commission as commander-in-chief of the Continental Army. The flag is slightly different from other designs of the time. The blue field extends over the entire height of the hoist. Shaw created two versions of the flag: Delegates from only five states—New York, Pennsylvania, Virginia, New Jersey, and Delaware—actually attended the convention, known afterward as the "Annapolis Convention. The Philadelphia convention drafted and approved the Constitution of the United States, which is still in force. As the war continued, the camp expanded to a larger location just west of the city. The area is still referred to as Parole. Wounded Union soldiers and Confederate prisoners were brought by sea to a major hospital in Annapolis. He was suspected of assaulting a local woman. Nobody was ever tried for the crime. Much of downtown Annapolis was flooded and many businesses and homes in outlying areas were damaged. From mid through December, the city celebrated the 250th anniversary of its Royal Charter, which established democratic self-governance. The many cultural events of this celebration were organized by Annapolis Charter. The conference was held on Monday, November 26, 1787. [edit] Annapolis is the only capital city in America east of the Mississippi River without rail transport of any sort. The southern route ran down King George Street and Main Street, leading directly to the statehouse, while the northern route entered town via Glen Burnie. Steam trains of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad also occasionally operated over the line to Annapolis, primarily for special Naval Academy movements. The tracks were eventually dismantled in 1962. Construction started in 1858, and the Maryland legislature first met there in 1862. It is topped by the largest wooden dome built without nails in the country. The Maryland State House housed the workings of the United States government from November 26, 1787, to August 13, 1791, and the Treaty of Paris was ratified there on January 14, 1794, so Annapolis became the first peacetime capital of the U.
