Chapter 1 : Elementary (Pre-K - 6th Level) Arabic Curriculum - Noorart

The Institute's Arabic language textbooks for Islamic schools fit to all ages and levels. NII was established in Chicago with the objective of developing a curriculum and textbooks for the Muslim youth, especially those born in the West.

The aim is to develop an ability to use the language effectively for purposes of practical communication. The course is based on the linked language skills of listening, reading, speaking and writing, and these are built on as learners progress through their studies. A recent research done by the British Council, and was submitted as part of its advice to the British government, rated Arabic as the second most important language that all children in Britain, and indeed in other non-Arabic speaking countries, should be taught as essential to the long-term economic and cultural prosperity of the UK and other nations. Arabic is also one of the official languages of the United Nations. Similarly, other global agencies also recognise Arabic as an international language. For example, the important texts written by the ancient Greeks in subjects such as medicine, philosophy, mathematics, rhetoric, physics, to mention only these few, were transmitted to the modern Western world through the medium of Arabic translations and commentaries produced between the 8th and 10th centuries in Iraq. Mathematical terms such as Algebra and Algorithm come from Arabic. Similarly, the history and development of subjects such as medicine, engineering, astronomy, physics, and optics were strongly influenced by medieval scientists who wrote and disseminated their science in Arabic. What career opportunities are there for students of Arabic? For those wishing to go and specialise in Arabic at degree level, Arabic is a golden key to a wide range of career opportunities. The study of Arabic is an important preparation for employment in state and local government, foreign office, journalism, media and broadcasting, teaching, academia, religious organisations, NGOs and other social agencies, security and intelligence services, the law, business and finance. Arabic was listed as the second most sought after language, and one of the best languages to study for job purposes. There is a huge demand for graduates with Arabic language skills. This training is not offered anywhere else in the UK. The teacher Dr Zoulaikha Taoufik holds a Ph. She has also Written Arabic poems, Anaasheed and plays to make both learning and teaching Arabic enjoyable and effective. How are the classes delivered? All classes are delivered online. Students can attend these classes online from anywhere in the world from the comfort of their homes. Arabic language is essential for any Muslim who wishes to acquire even a rudimentary level of Islamic knowledge. Request For More Information.

Chapter 2 : Arabic for Beginners - Furqaan Bookstore

I am a Muslim - Book One Elementary Teachings of Islam for Children and Beginners.

Course Details Unit One This unit will introduce you to the first group of the Arabic Alphabet and to the short vowels. Unit Eight In this unit we will review and practice! Technical Requirements This course requires a properly maintained computer with high-speed internet access and an up-to-date web browser such as Chrome or Firefox. The student must be able to communicate with the instructor via email. Visit the Technical Requirements and Support page for more details. This course uses an online virtual classroom for discussions with the instructor. Students who are unable to attend live sessions will need a computer with the Adobe Connect Add-in or Adobe Flash plugin installed to watch recorded meetings. Students who do not have the Flash plug-in installed or enabled on their browsers will be prompted to download and install the Adobe Connect add-in when accessing the virtual classroom. Most course lectures may be viewed on mobile devices, but in some cases assignments and quizzes must be completed on a desktop or laptop computer. In fact, it is his favorite course. The instructor has instilled a passion in him for learning not only the language, but the culture as well! He truly walks around the house speaking Arabic now. She is now in her 3rd semester and we see her practicing and going to class. However, we have no reference points on really how well she is doing outside of her grades. This all changed the other night. In the next town over, there is a Greek and Mediterranean restaurant. The waiter, and presumably owner, had a Mediterranean appearance and an indistinguishable accent. When he mentioned he was from Lebanon, I told him that my daughter was learning Arabic. He began to talk with her and she answered quickly. The conversation was over in about 4 sentences but it left the waiter wide eyed. Apparently he used some non-standard conversational words and my daughter followed along and answered appropriately. I am now talking with my daughter about helping her start an Arabic Club that would meet once month at this restaurant. She is also starting to tutor her 20 year old "cool" cousin on Arabic who has been teaching herself Arabic from a book, but did not know proper pronunciation of the alphabet or words. This too has been very motivational. You are changing lives!
