The object of the game of ice hockey is to score more goals than the opposing team. Goaltenders and defencemen are concerned primarily with keeping the other team from scoring a goal, while forwards are primarily concerned with scoring goals on the other team. Forwards also have to be defensively responsible while defencemen need to press offensively, and it is not unknown for goalies to attempt to position the puck for a counterattack, or even attempt to shoot against an unguarded net. For a goal to be scored, the puck must entirely cross the goal line between the posts and under the crossbar of the goal frame. A goal is not allowed under any of the following conditions: Additionally, in many leagues, a goal does not count if a player from the attacking team has a skate or stick in the goal crease before the puck. Credit for goals and assists[ edit ] Typically, the last player on the goal-scoring team to touch the puck before it goes into the net is credited with scoring that goal. Zero, one, or two other players on the goal-scoring team may also be credited with an assist for helping their teammate to score the goal. If another player on the goal-scoring team touched the puck to help score the goal before the goal-scoring player touched it without an opposing player intervening touching the puck in between, then that player gets an assist. If yet another player on the goal-scoring team also touched the puck before that without an opposing player intervening, then that player also gets an assist. However, a rule says that only one point can be credited to any one player on a goal scored. It also means that one player cannot be credited with two assists for the same goal scored; instead the player would only get credit for one assist and a different player may get credit for the other assist, if applicable. Usually on a hockey team, forwards score the most goals and get the most points, although defencemen can score goals and often get assists. In professional play, goaltenders only occasionally get an assist, and only very rarely score a goal when the opposite net is empty without a goaltender. Scoring statistics[ edit ] The number of goals scored is a closely watched statistic. The trophy is named after Maurice Richard, the first player to score 50 goals in a season, at a time when the NHL regular season was only 50 games compared to 82 today. The overall amount of goal scoring is also closely watched. In recent years, goal scoring has decreased. Many believe the game is less entertaining because of this, and blame the change on the increasing size of goaltending equipment and the advent of defensive systems such as the neutral zone trap. Fans of defensive hockey counter by saying the high scoring of the s was an anomaly, and this shift represents a return to the norm. For the American Hockey League season, four major rule changes were made that were intended to increase the scoring in games and make it more popular among casual fans: Types of goals[ edit ] There are a number of different types of goals for which separate statistics are kept, but all count equally: An even strength goal is a goal scored when both teams have the same number of players on the ice. A game-winning goal GWG is the goal scored to put the winning team in the lead, e. This section does not cite any sources. Please help improve this section by adding citations to reliable sources. April Learn how and when to remove this template message The goal judge is an official positioned off ice behind each goal for the specific purpose of indicating when the puck has crossed the goal line and entered the goal. For arenas so equipped, the goal judge turns on a red light behind the goal when they see the puck cross the goal line. As in all matters, however, the referee retains final authority and can override the opinion of the goal judge. Other phrases include a garbage goal, for a goal scored more as the result of luck or opportunism than skill, and a breakaway goal for a goal scored when a player has gotten behind the defenders to face the goaltender alone. The two teammates of the scorer who last touched the puck before them, provided that no opponent touched it in between, are each credited with an assist. When a player scores three goals in a game it is known as a hat trick. If they score their goals consecutively, it becomes known as a natural hat trick. A Gordie Howe hat trick occurs when a player scores a goal, gets an assist, and gets in a fight. Any puck heading towards the net is counted as a shot. When the goalie prevents the shot from entering the net, they are credited with a save. Shots resulting in saves by the goaltender or goals scored are considered shots on goal or shots on net. A shot which is blocked by an opposing player before it reaches the goalie is not considered a shot on net. Also, if the puck is deflected wide of the net by another player regardless of team it is not counted as a shot on net. December Learn how and when to remove this template message Ice hockey is one of the few sports along with box lacrosse or indoor soccer in which an air horn, car horn, train horn, foghorn, or siren is used to celebrate a goal. In every NHL arena, the horn blares after each home team goal. This has been a trend since the s, when the Chicago Blackhawks installed one. The only exception to this rule is during the NHL All-Star Game , where the role of that sound is expanded to cover every goal scored, and that the horn only sounds once. The horns are different depending on the teams, some even have sound effects such as an alarm or the foghorn of a ship, or both combined, for the Washington Capitals and the Anaheim Ducks. Also, during the Stanley Cup playoffs , the Edmonton Oilers added a second set of horns to the original horn for the second round. The reason was for that the Oilers had sold out games and the noise level was so loud, that the original horn was getting drowned out by the crowd. The result was a very loud horn used for the rest of the playoffs. Along with the horn, it is accompanied by a goal song. Most arenas play sections of the song where the crowd can "sing" along or repeat. If the home team wins, the goal horn will also sound at the conclusion of the game, instead of the normal period end horn, with some exceptions, such as the Bruins using their normal period end siren after a win and then followed by " Dirty Water " by The Standells.

Along the way, with the help of my great teammates I was able to find the net a D3 season All time record times. It was pretty special, here are a few tips that I think can help you. Scoring goals at the highest levels can appear easier than it really is, some guys are physically gifted and unbelievable athletes but still struggle to get the ball in the back of the net. Because goal scoring in a sense is an art here are my 5 tips to becoming a better goal scorer: Move Your Feet, develop IQ. Too often I see younger kids either in a game, practice or even getting extra reps on their own standing still. Very seldom in a game do you get the opportunity to stand still in a game and benefit from it. In order to maximize your shot count, you have to move, and move with intelligence! With or without the ball, you will not be successful without constant movement. Just by simply moving around the offensive zone, you will start to find yourself getting a lot more shots in a game. As you progress, you will realize how little, precise movements are all you need to evolve your game. Play with both hands; always release the top hand away from your body to create power and quickness. I feel the best coaches do a great job of letting their players play. Too often kids fear being creative, thinking they could get pulled. I am NOT encouraging players to go rogue just to try and score goals, but think outside the box. Shoot from different planes, with different hand positions, behind the back, with both hands etc. Practice is a great time to work on this to get a feel for whether or not it will be effective. Give yourself and your team the ability to keep the possession alive. No one in the world has stick skills good enough to stop working on them, and everyone can always improve their stick skills. Specifically, catching work very hard on your catching. If you get a bad pass near the goal and you miss it? Ultimately, if you have a great stick, you can likely guarantee you will catch every ball, shoot from any angle, and you will develop the confidence needed to take risks on the field that put you in the best possible position to score. My point here is mostly technical skill wise, but also make sure your lacrosse stick is completely dialed in to suit your game, the more confidence you have in your stick the better you will play. Again, I am not encouraging reckless play just to get your shot count up, but often times I see players shy away from a great goal scoring opportunity. Easy fix to both of those reasons. A Watch film, of both yourself and others, see what your missing and try and get a better understanding for when exactly to exploit a defense. This leads me to my last and most important tip. Have Fun Lacrosse is the greatest game on the planet. It is easy to get caught up with all the distractions in our sport such as getting recruited, which club team to play for, etc At the end of the day you are playing the sport you love for a reason, because you love it. Play with passion, energy, play with guts, hold yourself accountable, but have fun while doing it. Austin in action during his record setting season in

Louis , Missouri after the release of Used Cars. Gale had not known the president of his own graduating class, and wondered whether he would have been friends with his father if they went to high school together. Zemeckis was concerned that children would accidentally lock themselves in refrigerators, and felt it was more useful if the time machine were mobile. The DeLorean DMC was chosen because its design made the gag about the family of farmers mistaking it for a flying saucer believable. Zemeckis and Gale initially had shown the screenplay to Spielberg, who had "loved" it. Now a high-profile director, Zemeckis reapproached Spielberg with the concept. The studio was set to begin shooting a comedic send-up of Double Indemnity entitled Big Trouble. Price was a former Columbia executive who had been fond of the script for Back to the Future during his tenure there. As a result, Universal agreed to trade the Double Indemnity license in exchange for the rights to Back to the Future. Appalled, Zemeckis asked Spielberg for help. Spielberg dictated a memo to Sheinberg convincing him they thought his title was a joke, thus embarrassing him into dropping the idea. Spielberg used the omitted refrigerator and Nevada nuclear site elements in his film Indiana Jones and the Kingdom of the Crystal Skull. Fox as McFly in the finished film Michael J. With co-star Meredith Baxter on maternity leave , he refused to allow Fox time off to work on a film. Back to the Future was originally scheduled for a May release and it was late when it was learned that Fox would be unable to star in the film. Thomas Howell and Eric Stoltz. Stoltz impressed the producers enough with his earlier portrayal of Roy L. Dennis in Mask which had yet to be released that they selected him to play Marty McFly. Spielberg explained Zemeckis felt Stoltz was not comedic enough and gave a "terrifically dramatic performance". Gale further explained they felt Stoltz was simply acting out the role, whereas Fox himself had a personality like Marty McFly. He felt Stoltz was uncomfortable riding a skateboard, whereas Fox was not. I even dreamed of becoming a rock star. Lloyd originally turned down the role, but changed his mind after reading the script and at the persistence of his wife. He improvised some of his scenes, [22] taking inspiration from Albert Einstein and conductor Leopold Stokowski. The director joked he was "endlessly throwing a net over Crispin because he was completely off about fifty percent of the time in his interpretation of the character". Wilson was cast as Biff Tannen because the producers felt that the original choice, J. Had Fox been cast from the beginning, Cohen probably would have won the part because he was sufficiently taller than Fox. Hardin was dismissed before she had a chance to shoot a single scene and was replaced with Claudia Wells. He averaged five hours of sleep each night. During Fridays, he shot from 10 pm to 6 or 7 am, and then moved on to film exterior scenes throughout the weekend, as only then was he available during daytime hours. It was just this weird ride and I got on. He recalled that because they shot night after night, he was always "half asleep" and the "fattest, most out-of-shape and sick I ever was". Then we would just totally trash it down and make it all bleak and ugly for the s scenes. Blacker House , while exteriors took place at Gamble House. To make sure the film met this new date, two editors, Arthur Schmidt and Harry Keramidas, were assigned to the picture, while many sound editors worked hour shifts on the film. Eight minutes were cut, including Marty watching his mom cheat during an exam, George getting stuck in a telephone booth before rescuing Lorraine, as well as much of Marty pretending to be Darth Vader. Zemeckis almost cut out the " Johnny B. Goode " sequence as he felt it did not advance the story, but the preview audience loved it, so it was kept. Back to the Future: Silvestri began recording the score two weeks before the first preview. He also suggested Huey Lewis and the News create the theme song. Their first attempt was rejected by Universal, before they recorded " The Power of Love ". Fox lip-synched "Johnny B. On November 24, , an authorized, limited-edition two-CD set of the entire score was released by Intrada Records. Zemeckis was concerned the film would flop because Fox had to film a Family Ties special in London and was unable to promote the film. Ebert commented "[Producer] Steven Spielberg is emulating the great authentic past of Classical Hollywood cinema , who specialized in matching the right director Robert Zemeckis with the right project.

This is an admissions essay for XXX University. You should incorporate that I am majoring in pharmacy, am Catholic, volunteered at XXX Hospital, and am taking college courses full time instead of finishing my senior year in high school. I have already written a portion of the essay and I would like you to use the same ideas or possibly just expand and revise my essay--whatever makes it sound better. Here is the part I already wrote: Receiving a quality education is only half of the college experience. I want to help contribute to the university. This is why I hope that my involvement with a religious school will not only help me become a better person, but help others grow as well, by meeting people from all walks of life with one similar interest in mind. My belief in God has certainly made me a very secure and well-adjusted person. It has also helped me relate to others and value things other than money. I have always been active in the community. For three years I volunteered at a day care center and loved every minute of it. Although I was too young to be employed there, I still wanted to include myself in any way I could. I can assure you that I will proudly take advantage of any opportunity I have to participate in any way at this university. My current goals are, of course, to remain actively involved in the community. After months of serious thinking, I decided that between becoming either a registered nurse or a pharmacist, that I would love to be a pharmacist. Since I love science and I love helping people, this is a career that is ideal for me. Currently, I am enrolled at XXX Community College with a full course load, instead of completing my senior year of high school because I am preparing to enter the pharmacy program. Although, right now I am focusing a little more on myself by preparing for college, reading, playing guitar, and spending time with my family, in the near future I plan to join a volunteer organization, or to rejoin the volunteer program at the hospital. I know that attending a religious university will definitely strengthen my character. I realize that along with a quality education, I will also take home new experiences. I hope I will have many opportunities to share my experiences and beliefs with others and also to become a more knowledgeable and accomplished person. I can only imagine what my fellow students and professors will teach me at XXX University. My Current And Future Goals I believe that pursuing studies at the XXX University would help me a lot in getting a licensure work in Pharmacy and pursuing higher goals in education in the future. I believe in this school because it pursues and promotes world-class research, an interdisciplinary synthesis of humanistic, professional, scientific and technical knowledge. I have heard of how the school seeks to reach a level of excellence in its research and teaching programs that have earned for it a place among the most prestigious academic institutions. I think that the undergraduate studies I got gives me a well-rounded education that cultivates genuine intellectual discipline, which is a pre-requisite to acquiring higher specialized knowledge. I want to contribute my talents and skills to the university. I think everyone coming from a religious school possesses a good foundation in solid morals and principles. I learned that the University adheres to the premise that professional excellence today demands ever-increasing specialization. The specialized programs in this school will carve out a career path and profession as a specialist for me. I have seen the different subjects and I realize that the program provides a solid grounding in the philosophy of education, people development, the dynamics of teaching, research and management. It will also give me the opportunity to apply and test my learning through various educative experiences. I am already quite excited in studying at this University. I know now that along with a quality education, I will also take home new experiences. Right now I am focusing a little more on preparing for college, and my other areas of interest like reading, playing guitar, and spending time with my family. Indeed, I know that this University creates a critical mass of excellently-formed development educators especially in the field of Pharmacy. They eventually serve as catalysts for the institutionalization of a culture of excellence in various educational settings. The atmosphere of freedom is evident because it promotes the integral development of all members of the school community so that one senses that they work with good will, competence and team spirit. I have begun preparing myself for this. I try to develop my own philosophy of education because I really would want
