An effort has also been made to trace the history of the family back to the year Its preparation has been attended with considerable labor and expense in securing definite and reliable information of the facts therein contained. Thanks to all who have lent their aid in the work thus far. There will doubtless be some mistakes for want of information ; many interesting facts might have been added had they been known to the writer. He has done the best he could do with the information furnished, and this work is submitted to the charitable judgment of all concerned, in hopes that a more careful preservation of records may be kept in the future. They then moved to Washington County, Penna. They had to pack all their salt, iron and cooking utensils from the East on horses. Their farm implements were all of a very rude sort. Their ploughs were made with wooden mould-boards and when they would strike anything hard they would kick, sometimes knocking the person holding them down. There were no steam ploughs, or railroads for traveling as we have now. How different now do we appreciate these favors and blessings which we now enjoy.
