Editorial Intern By Miriam L. G Financial Gyration A great many Five Towns residents have taken it on the chin personally this week in the form of direct hits to their Ks, IRAs and investment portfolios thanks to the wild downhill ride of the stock and commodities markets. Although the markets have see-sawed up and down, when all the dust settles the week will probably end on a loss. Just so you know, a trillion is a thousand billion. That means that you could run New York State for over seven and a half years on just one trillion dollars. The economy has been growing again, albeit very slowly. Job growth has slowed to an untenable level, because businesses are unable and unwilling to hire when the availability of credit is extremely limited. Banks are frankly maintaining cash rather than investing and therefore businesses are unlikely to undertake many major job producing projects for the foreseeable future. Slow job growth leads to families continuing to be careful with their spending. And the lack of a large infusion of money into the economy stalls whatever growth has been accomplished up until now. Now complicate this picture with the political nonsense that went on over the past month. Both increasing taxes and fees on the very engines of economic and job growth so necessary in this bad economy – small businesses, entrepreneurs and investors. Freedman has been a resident of Cedarhurst for 12 years. He is married with two children and is active in the community both politically and socially. This was in the late 70s. Carter also ran a foreign policy belligerent to Israel and weak on confronting terror and totalitarianism. This country needs to follow the example of Britain, France, Germany, Israel, Australia and Canada by making painful and dramatic cuts in spending and wasteful social programs, reductions in borrowing increased government borrowing crowds-out the private sector from available liquidity and instituting a pro-business tax policy that encourages investment, job creation and exports. Like other checks and balances in the Constitution i. If our states, cities, counties and towns are mandated by law to live within their means, so too should the Federal Government be compelled to balance its books. Washington said to everyone that they were willing to default this government for the sake of their political ends. They said to all of us that their unwillingness to cooperate to solve this problem trumped the ripple effect that their actions would cause. I, for one, am ashamed of them and it makes me look very closely at my participation in a broken, malicious institution that is known as politics. Public Servants serve the public. Now that I am done ranting, what is to be done? First, we as voters need to take more responsibility for this mess. By not going to the polls, we let a vocal minority decide things for the majority. This past month has shown us that. It scares the heck out of me. That drop in rating did not occur because the United States was in danger of not paying its debts in a timely fashion. The bottom line is that the U. How did this happen? Long term contracts were negotiated with no reasonable way to pay. Salaries, pensions and medical costs have skyrocketed, and the County is stuck with long term bad deals. The County also used its share of accounting ruses. The worst was borrowing money long term, to pay for tax refunds and other short term obligations. So, what do we do about these problems? On the national level, we have the Tea Party and other conservatives. They make a lot of noise and demand to be heard. But they are not yet strong enough to force a resolution. So the problems fester and the economy suffers. B6 rowing up, we never had an alarm in our house. My parents used to joke that there was nothing to be stolen anyway. With a father who was a rabbi and a mother a curator, our valuables lined book shelves and came in volumes. The front of our house had large plate windows which looked in to the living room. Serving an even a greater deterrent than an actual alarm or attack dog, those books did the trick. It would not have even occurred to my husband otherwise. I was more afraid of the alarm than I was of what it was supposed to protect against. The loud noise, the accidental tripping of a wire or even forgetting the password was enough to scare me silly. It was simply something to which I was not accustomed, nor saw the need for in an apartment. Nevertheless, we had one. Only when we moved into a home did I really appreciate an alarm, insisting we upgrade it after a series of robberies a couple of years ago. With cameras positioned all around our home I can remotely watch the property and check on how things are going, whether sitting at my desk or away on vacation. It has provided a great peace of mind that I did not think I would ever look for or need. I know what you must be thinking: A crowd having formed around them, and needing to end this quickly, Indiana pulls out his gun. By the same logic, should an intruder enter my home with something other than a softball, my bat may be of little use to me. She lives in Woodmere with her husband and six children and can be found all week long on her blog at www. M D ear Readers – this may be a very serious column indeed! And, ominous signs are everywhere. Area banks have started rash steps – like watering down their coffee, eliminating sweeteners and lids – or, even eliminating free coffee service entirely. That, and one of the other recent developments in our area – the strange appearance of a bizarre and surreal Surprise Monday Election – followed by storming of brains to salvage the resuscitation of the rebuilding of the Coliseum – a sure sign of the Mark of the Beast, for those seeking it. As the Roman Empire is certainly viewed as the enemy of both the Jews and the Christians and any attempt to restore it has to be viewed with extreme fear and trepidation as really bad omen. My wife just got an expired meter ticket in Cedarhurst – and she barely ever gets one. Maybe, this anomaly is another sure sign of impending Apocalypse? He is as absent in the news as Joe Biden. Gibson is NOT in the news, than when his mug shot is gracing every television screen, yahoo page and cell phone wallpaper. I wonder what he is planning, plotting, and, possibly, perpetrating. Will Hewlie Yogurt still give us 2 for 1 on Tuesday and Saturday nights? However I can assure you of one thing of which I am entirely certain – that even Heaven Forbid an Alien Attack or Terrorist Fart Bomb – Amazing Savings, the Eighth Wonder of the World, will survive and continue bringing us the most amazing, unbelievable, not-to-be-beat buys in the entire Universe – from here to eternity! To the Editor, I was glad to read that the raised sidewalks on both sides of Branch Blvd are being replaced. I would, however, like to know why the County is funding this as a capitol improvement instead of using the usual procedure followed by both the County and the Town of Hempstead for the replacement of sidewalks. If the County or Town of Hempstead is made aware of raised or hazardous sidewalks an inspector is sent out to document the condition. Then the abutting property owner is issued a notice of violation and given a set amount of time to correct the condition. The owner then has the option of paying in full or having the cost added to their property taxes. The code states that maintenance and repair of the sidewalk is the responsibility of the abutting property owner. Sidewalks are sometimes replaced during a major road improvement, but this is usually due to engineering considerations when raising or lowering the curb line. This does not seem to be the case here. Many residents in the Five Towns have had to remove curbside trees and replace their sidewalks, as ordered by the County or Town, at their expense. But if the County is paying for this work being done it is unfair to residents who have complied with the codes and absorbed the cost. The sidewalks along Branch Blvd are hazardous and should be replaced, but the cost should be the responsibility of the abutting property owners, not all property owners. This writer has suggested this many times but the suggestion has fallen on deaf ears and based on what this writer believes, this is one of the last things the Lawrence School Board wishes to do. Inwood Atlantic Beach wind. Where are the chrome and steel barriers of yore? Many a sale has been blown this way in the last few weeks. Dealers might be better off just letting us buy cars online like books from Amazon. Bad service – help me why is it nearly universally axiomatic that you will receive poor service in a kosher restaurant? And without a smile. To that end here are a bunch of other things that make me nuts. For example, how about the interminable construction on the Belt Parkway? In the Sunbelt they build entire interstate highways in under a year. Another reason to love New York. How about left lane squatters? Weaving around this fellow can consume a lot of time and effort and it happens almost every day. The opposite number is the person doing 90 in a 50 zone, typically in some revved-up sports car or some eight year-old brown Toyota Corolla tricked out with inch wheels. Modern car bumpers – or the lack thereof. Parking around these parts can be tight and scarce even when people follow the rules. The obliviousness to this discourtesy and infraction are maddening to me, but parking hogs abound. With free parking here, drivers ought to be grateful not to have to subsidize
