Ingraham and Dime Library No. Over the grave stood the wizard Cusha, and beside it glittered heaps of treasure. Apart walked Kyd in thought, occasionally turning to the grave, and then walking with quicker pace and uttering his thoughts half aloud: A low whistle brought his men to his side, each bearing a treasure-cask and the chief said, bluntly: There may be deeper meaning in them than you dream. All hands to bury money. The wizard crossed his hands on his breast, and bowed himself to the ground. Now perform the mystic orgies prescribed for such occasions. The wizard slowly rose to his feet, and walked deliberately three times around the grave, the pirates giving back as he walked in superstitious alarm. The third time he began to chant, in a low key, unintelligibly; but, gradually rising in wildness and distinctness, he with strange gestures and contortions of form and face, broke forth in the following chant: Then he walked slowly thrice around the open grave, each time placing his hand upon the coffin, and halting, he chanted, rather than said: What is so dearly bought Let us securely hide from human gaze And, therefore, with mystic sign we Commit to the earth this red treasure. Then, in a voice wild and strange, he chanted forth: Apollyon, Prince of Sea, mortal men thy fury fear; "Sathanas, prince of earth! Then, with a singular union of all the gestures and ceremonies he had hitherto used, he chanted, in a tone that echoed like a chorus of demons through the surrounding forests, "Prince of air, sea, and fire! He elevated her in one hand, while in the other he held a drawn knife above her, and chanted, turning the animal slowly round: As he spoke, he took from the huge bag he had brought, and which lay near him, a black object, which the horrified seamen now discovered was a cat. Again chanting, he sung: Thrice shall it wave above the grave! At a single blow the blood must flow! The changes are slight here in comparison with other places in the books. Well, she saw a place advertised in a paper, and thinking, perhaps, she would just suit it, she applied, and engaged herself in it, without my knowledge. She has been there now about three months, and received good wages, and the people are respectable and kind to her. The only drawback is, that it is very public, and she has to encounter the gaze of young men, and to stay out late. The place I am in is a retail cigar store? Consider the peril to her reputation! Were she as fair as the lily, the breath of slander would blast her fair fame forever! Oh, Cecilia, would to God you had reflected, ere you had taken this step! In a tobacco shop! Oh, Cecilia, how could you? Wright, American Fiction, , , lists 80 novels before It was originally written by Joseph H.
