Learn How to Draw for Free! Please know that all of the lessons here on the site are completely free. Just draw and enjoy! I do my best to categorize each lesson accordingly, but really I understand that everyone learn how to draw at a different pace. My best advice to you? Work at a level and on online drawing lessons that are most comfortable to you. And also, go with the categories and themes that you most enjoy. I love drawing animals, dragons, monsters - and also Creating my own unique cartoon characters. So yes, this is what I focus on the most: Drawing Lesson Categories Perhaps the most important factor when it comes to drawing and anything! And for sure, this is exactly how it should be! Do what you love and love what you do! I put up an image of this whale shark character, because I really like drawing sea creatures, cartoon characters, monsters, etc. So for sure, I recommend you do the same. By seeing this final version - before you even begin Or maybe even like walking through a forest. Enjoy the process - but keep pushing forward: How to Draw with Frameworks I like to begin each lesson by encouraging you to draw, what I like to call - a framework. And similar to the way our bones are the frameworks of our bodies, and how steel beams are the frameworks of buildings So yes, a series of simple shapes - arranged in a particular way After lots and lots of practice! Always do what works best for you. Once you have a framework drawn if the lesson calls for it! And speaking of eyes Quite simply, the eyes are the windows to the soul, and so - by drawing them first It can really help to establish life and character in your drawing, early on - and It can often make the rest of the process that much easier and more enjoyable! Of course, this idea of "drawing the eyes first" - is just that Do what works for you. How to Draw Step-by-Step - The Process Framework and head in place, the rest of the lesson takes place in series of very-easy-to-follow steps. And yes, I really do try and make things as easy as possible for you. Sometimes, like say in this dragon lesson - in the image to the left When it comes to drawing - and I think we can all relate to this Creativity and Imagination Another point - something that really is THE single most important factor with respect to these free online drawing lessons Drawing IS about being creative. You must never forget to tap into your own creativity as well. Actively seek out new ways to change the drawing at hand, such that it becomes unique to you. There are endless ways to do this, whether it be making things larger or smaller Or changing the style of your lines. If you look at this creature I drew, on the right - you can see that while takes on the form of a human - sort of And yes - this is a prime example of creativity going on. I mean seriously, what is going on here? What inspired the creation of this? Always remember to branch off whenever possible, and see if you can change things up. Ready to begin drawing then?

Chapter 2 : Cartooning for Beginners by Peter Maddocks

*Cartooning for Beginners: A Step by Step Guide to Drawing Cartoons [Peter Maddocks] on calendrierdelascience.com *FREE* shipping on qualifying offers. This is a very basic introduction to cartooning skills and is both suitable for children as well as adults.*

Leave a comment Cartooning is not about drawing it is about telling stories. Yes, even when you are drawing a single illustration you are telling a story. Cartooning is about expressing your thoughts. And it is your thoughts expressed beautifully through your cartoon characters that make you different from other average cartoon makers. But as in every other field of life here also you must learn to walk first before you try running. To express your thoughts and ideas through your cartoon characters, you need to master the skill of cartoon drawing first. Then of course you can use your cartoon drawing skills to tell story to your liking. To be skilled in cartoon drawing you have to face a learning curve. If you are lucky and talented with keen sense of observation you may pickup one or two tricks by making copy of popular cartoon figures. But that is too inadequate to be of any use. There are various ways that you can take to learn cartoon drawing – you can join cartooning school or take a home study course or follow a book of an expert cartoonist – the bottom line is you have to follow the steps. Like you should first teach yourself drawing 3d shapes, then learn to stretch, squash those 3d shapes in your drawing. Next you need to practice things like drawing hands and head before moving on to motion and emotion and advanced things like that. If it sounds like lot of work, you are right. But what you achieve at the end is worth working for. If you are smart however you can use the tips you are going to discover here to make the whole learning process fast and painless. I agree I run the risk of sounding backdated. But here I am not opposing usage of computer altogether, no sane person can do that. But for beginners there is no alternative to using paper and pencil. There are various software that help you so much that you can go ahead even without learning how to draw a smooth line. This kind of over dependency on computers from the very beginning always backfires down the road. So when drawing you must mentally analyze your model in terms of 3d shapes like spheres and boxes and not in terms of 2d shapes like circles and rectangles. Also when you draw something from paper i. This technique is very effective in learning how we can draw complex figures starting with simple shapes. But what I am going to tell you will make your pace of learning even faster. It is in fact very simple way of using the same tutorial. Just a lot more effective. What you need to do is start where the tutorial ends and go backward from there. See the completed figure and try to recognize the ingredient basic shapes. And compare your analysis with the exact shapes that are used in the tutorial. This will give you a very through exercise in recognizing the basic shapes. And after some time you will be analyzing the real life around you like an expert. Just take your time and practice this technique, and see how fast it will improve your skill in cartoon drawing. Cartoon drawing is pure fun both for professionals who earn their living through cartooning and hobbyists who draw cartoon only for personal pleasure. I do not know what you goal is but hope the tips here will be helpful for you.

Aspiring cartoonists of all ages can begin drawing a repertoire of characters from the moment they follow the wide-ranging yet simplified lessons that fill these instructive pages.*

Here are a few of the most common questions: What kind of training do I need to become a professional cartoonist? Most cartoonists are self-taught. They grew up doodling and drawing because they enjoyed it. I interviewed dozens of top cartoonists for my book How To Be A Successful Cartoonist North Light Books and they all started out as something else, a teacher, an engineer, a psychologist, a grocer, college professor, etc. Cartooning usually begins as a hobby, then becomes a career when it generates enough income to support a home or family. How can I start selling my own cartoons? The best way to get started is to get started. Sit down, write some ideas, then draw funny pictures to illustrate your idea. Always mail photocopies, never sent original art. Then forget about all of it and start over with something new to send out. Do this over and over, week after week, month after month. As you get started, it can be very hard not to get discouraged and quit, but your favorite cartoonists got past this point and you can do it too. Another great way to get started is to create a web page to showcase your cartoons. If your work is good, readers will share it with their friends and family and your popularity will grow. New technology and devices may open up more opportunities for cartoonists and new ways to display your own work. Cartoon apps for the iPhone are a cutting-edge way to self-publish. Tablet computers like the Kindle and iPad have the potential to revolutionize the way we read our newspapers and magazines, which could lead to fresh opportunities for new cartoonists and established professionals. What kind of computer do I need to draw cartoons? I use a Canon F scanner, not very expensive and works great for cartoon line art. Glasbergen Cartoon Service is a cartoon bank of more than cartoons, cartoon stock for any occasion, a cartoon resource for any type of print or electronic media. Specializing in business cartoons, health and fitness cartoons, medical cartoons, education cartoons, family cartoons, love and marriage cartoons, lawyer cartoons, real estate cartoons, holiday cartoons and animal cartoons. Custom cartoons are available with cartoonist for hire service.
