Adjectives to Adverbs About this Worksheet: Two little letters can change a word dramatically, such as adding -ly to the adjective quick changes it to quickly, an adverb!

Each student is given a bingo card. If the students have the opposite of the adjective on their card, they cross it off. If the adjective opposites are correct, the student wins the round. If the student has made a mistake, the game continues. Several rounds are played with students receiving a different bingo card each time. As an alternative or extension, the students are divided into groups of four or five. The students then play the game in their groups with students taking it in turns to be the bingo caller. This continues until all the bingo cards have been used. The class is divided into teams of three. Each team is given a piece of paper and one student in each team is assigned to do the writing. A noun is then written on the board. The teams have two minutes to write down as many adjectives as they can think of to describe the noun. When the time limit has been reached, the teams stop writing. The teams then read out their adjective-noun collocations in turn. Teams score one point for an appropriate adjective-noun collocation that another team has also written. Teams score two points for a suitable adjective-noun collocation that only their team has written. After a few rounds have been played, the teams add up their scores. The team with the most points wins the game. Each group of three is given a set of dominoes. The students shuffle the dominoes and deal out five each, leaving the rest in a pile face down. The top domino from the pile is turned over and placed face up on the table. The first player puts down one of their dominoes on either side of the domino on the table, making sure that the adjective and noun make a suitable collocation. The players then take it in turns to match the adjective-noun collocations by putting their dominoes down at either end of the domino chain. If a player cannot put down one of their dominoes, they take one from the top of the pile and put it down if they can. If there are no dominoes left in the pile, play passes to the next student. The first player to get rid of all their dominoes wins the game. When the students have finished, they can shuffle the dominoes and play another round. The class is divided into teams of four and each student is given a copy of the worksheet. The teacher reads an adjective at random from the worksheet. The first team to call out the opposite of the adjective scores a point. For an extra point, the winning team then uses the opposite adjective in a sentence. All the students then write down the adjective opposite on their worksheet. This continues until the worksheet is complete. The team with the most points at the end of the game wins. Working alone, the students then write ten sentences, using two adjectives from the worksheet in each sentence, e. When the students have finished writing, they are divided into pairs. Afterwards, the pairs create a short story using ten adjectives from the worksheet. Each student is given a copy of the worksheet. The worksheet contains a chart showing the correct order of adjectives. Students use the chart to help them rewrite sentences, adding in adjectives in the correct order. When the students have finished, the correct answers are checked with the class. Crazy Sentences ESL Adjectives Game - Writing Activity - Pre-intermediate - 55 minutes Here is an entertaining adjectives activity to help students practice constructing sentences with certain adjectives and nouns. The class is divided into four teams. Each team is given a set of adjective cards and a set of noun cards, which they shuffle and place face down on the desk in two separate piles. A three-minute time limit is set and each team turns over one adjective card and one noun card. The teams then race to construct the longest sentence possible with the adjective and noun and write it on the board. One point is awarded if a sentence is grammatically correct. One point is awarded for inventiveness. One point is also given for every word in the sentence. If a team writes a grammatically incorrect sentence, they score no points, but other teams can steal a point by successfully correcting the sentence. Teams then discard the adjective and noun, turn over two new cards and the game is repeated. This continues until all the cards have been used. Extreme Adjective Dominoes ESL Adjectives Game - Matching Activity - Pre-intermediate - 20 minutes In this fun adjectives activity, students play a game of dominoes by matching adjectives with their stronger equivalents. This activity helps students to learn to recognize adjectives, which have a similar but stronger meaning, e. The first player puts down one of their dominoes on either side of the domino on the table, making sure that one of the adjectives on their domino matches with one of its stronger or weaker equivalents. Then the next player puts down an adjective at either end of the domino chain and so on. Hand in my Pocket ESL Adjectives Worksheet - Reading, Writing, Listening and Speaking Activity - Pre-intermediate - 30 minutes In this adjectives worksheet activity, students complete a song gap-fill with adjectives and then discuss the meaning of the adjectives and song. The class is divided into five teams and each student is given a copy of the song gap-fill worksheet. The students listen to the song "Hand in my Pocket" by Alanis Morissette and complete the gap-fill with adjectives. When the students have listened to the song two times, they compare and discuss their answers in their teams. The students then listen to the song one more time and confirm their answers with their teammates. After that, teams take it in turns to choose a number and write the missing adjective on the board. Teams receive one point for each correct adjective and one point for spelling. If a team spells an adjective incorrectly, another team can steal a point by being the first to correct the spelling. After all the words have been written on the board and the winning team has been announced, the students discuss the meaning of the adjectives and song. How did you feel? ESL Adjectives Board Game - Reading, Listening and Speaking Activity - Pre-intermediate - 25 minutes In this adjectives board game, students practice describing how they felt the last time certain things happened to them. The students are divided into pairs. Each pair is given a copy of the game board, a dice and two counters. The students take it in turns to roll the dice and move their counter along the board. Students are encouraged to ask their partner follow-up questions to continue the conversation and gain more information. The first student to reach the finish wins the game. Afterwards, there is a class feedback session to find out how students felt about each topic and to elicit suitable adjectives to describe their feelings and emotions. Adjective-Noun Dominoes 2 ESL Adjective-Noun Collocations Game - Matching and Speaking Activity - Intermediate - 25 minutes In this adjectives activity, students play a game where they match adjectives and nouns together to make collocations and then use the collocations in sentences. The students are divided into groups of three. Each group is given a set of dominoes. If the player makes an appropriate collocation, he or she scores a point. For an extra point, the player then uses the adjective-noun collocation in a sentence. The other players then take it in turns to match the adjectives and nouns together by putting their dominoes down at either end of the domino chain and making a suitable sentence when a collocation is formed. The game finishes when a player has gotten rid of all their dominoes. The students then add up their scores. The player with the most points wins the game. Adjective Opinions ESL Adjectives Worksheet - Reading, Writing and Speaking Activity - Intermediate - 35 minutes This adjectives worksheet activity helps students learn the difference between adjectives with -ed and -ing endings. Students then practice using the different adjective forms to express opinions and feelings about various things. The class is divided into pairs A and B and each student is given a corresponding worksheet. The students complete sentences on their worksheet with true information about themselves. There are ten sentences in total with each one containing an -ed or -ing adjective. When the students have finished, they take it in turns to read their sentences to each other. Students try to explain their answers and keep the conversation going by asking questions. Their partner then repeats the sentence back, adding in the adjective. Compound Adjective Catchphrase ESL Compound Adjectives Game - Listening, Speaking and Miming Activity - Intermediate - 25 minutes In this amusing adjectives activity, students play a game where they guess compound adjectives from clues and mimes given by other students. The class is divided into two teams. One player from each team comes to the front of the class. Both players are given the same compound adjective card together with a definition and related vocabulary. The players do this by giving clues containing synonyms of the vocabulary on the card along with gestures and mimes to help their team guess the word. Players are not allowed to say any form of the compound adjective or words used in the definition or related vocabulary. The first team to guess the compound adjective scores a point. Two new players then come up to give clues and mimes for the next compound adjective and so on. As an alternative, you can remove gesturing and miming from the game to make the activity more challenging.
