If it did not, then this work is a fraud. Timeline Joseph Smith claimed to have experienced the First Vision in , yet there appears to be no record before . If this event occurred in , then it was 12 years later when Joseph decided to first make a record of it; 2 years after the organization of the Church. No contemporary periodicals in the s mention Joseph Smith, none of the publications of the Church in that decade, and no journal or correspondence from that time mention the story of the First Vision. Former Church Historian James B. A Journal of Mormon Thought, Autumn According to the historical record, there is no reference to the First Vision as we know it, in any published material in the s. Five years later the Church decided to add to the Book of Commandments a series of lectures that Joseph prepared for teaching in the School of the Prophets. The story of the First Vision was not printed in the s. Before its first publication, none of the more than 16, members of the Church ever recorded hearing about it. Common First Vision-like Accounts Several religious publications in the New England area demonstrate that such visions were common during the early Church. Norris Stearns published his own vision in Greenfield, Massachusetts in ; not far from where the Joseph Smith Senior family lived in Vermont. At the same time, there appeared a small gleam of light in the room, above the brightness of the sun, then at his meridian, which grew brighter and brighterâ€ At length, being in an ecstasy of joy, I turned to the other side of the bed, whether in the body or out I cannot tell, God knoweth there I saw two spirits, which I knew at the first sight. But if I had the tongue of an Angel I could not describe their glory, for they brought the joys of heaven with them. One was God, my Maker, almost in bodily shape like a man. His face was, as it were a flame of Fire, and his body, as it had been a Pillar and a Cloud. Below him stood Jesus Christ my Redeemer, in perfect shape like a manâ€His face was not ablaze, but had the countenance of fire, being bright and shining. All was condescension, peace, and love! Minister Elias Smith published a book in which he told of his conversion in . Asa Wild claimed to have a revelation that was published on October 22, . Billy Hibbard, a New York preacher, published his memoirs in and included an experience with meeting Jesus and God the Father when was a young boy. Minister of the Gospel, 5. John S Thompson, a New York minister, published another similar account in . Solomon Chamberlin, an early member of the Church, published a pamphlet of his experience before he met Joseph Smith. The angel told him that the churches were corrupt and that God would soon raise up an apostolic church. Chamberlain printed up an account of his visions and was still distributing them and looking for the apostolic church when he stopped in Palmyra. Contradictory Accounts of the First Vision Josephsmithpapers. Letterbook 1A, 27 November Fourth accountâ€ account from the Wentworth Letter notes two beings; again neither identified as God or Jesus. Which One Is Correct? Just after the turn of the century the Church needed to decide on an official account of the First Vision. It picked the version that was printed in the Times and Seasons on March 15th, . It was the first time any account identified the heavenly visitor s , as anything other than angels. Compared to the earliest mention of the First Vision written by Joseph Smith himself, the official account written by Mulholland shows some discrepancies. Also, the near-death experience of being overcome by an evil power is only found in the James Mulholland version. No priesthood, relief society or Sunday school manual has ever mentioned that the First Vision story found in the Pearl of Great Price differs significantly from the one Joseph originally wrote. Contemporary Accounts It appears that Joseph told the elders of the Church a very different experience than any of his written accounts. How did it come? By the ministering of an holy angel from God, out of heaven, who held converse with man, and revealed unto him the darkness that enveloped the world â€ He told him the Gospel was not among men, and that there was not a true organization of His kingdom in the world â€ Joseph was strengthened by the Spirit and power of God, and was enabled to listen to the teachings of the angel. The man to whom the angel appeared obeyed the Gospel. When the holy angel appeared, Joseph inquired which of all these denominations was right and which he should join, and was told they were all wrong. Smith " Journal of Discourses, , vol. None of them was right, just as it was when the Prophet Joseph asked the angel which of the sects was right that he might join it. The answer was that none of them are right. What, none of them? We will not stop to argue that question; the angel merely told him to join none of them that none of them were right. It also appears that average members are not the only ones surprised by this evidence. President of the First Quorum of the Seventy, S. Dilworth Young, published a statement in the Improvement Era on this subject. I am concerned however with one item which has recently been called to my attention on this matter. There appears to be going about our communities some writing to the effect that the Prophet Joseph Smith evolved his doctrine from what might have been a vision, in which he is supposed to have said that he saw an angel, instead of the Father and the Son. According to this theory, by the time he was inspired to write the occurrence in , he had come to the conclusion that there were two beings. This rather shocked me. I can see no reason why the Prophet, with his brilliant mind, would have failed to remember in sharp relief every detail of that eventful day. I can remember quite vividly that in I had a mere dream, and while the dream was prophetic in nature, it was not startling. It has been long since fulfilled, but I can remember every detail of it as sharply and clearly as though it had happened yesterday. How then could any man conceive that the Prophet, receiving such a vision as he received, would not remember it and would fail to write it clearly, distinctly, and accurately? According to the historical record, there no reference to the First Vision as we know it, in any published material in the s. Chapter 2 The Translation The Church has always taught that the translation process of the Book of Mormon looked like this: Joseph Smith read the golden plates like a book, translating the text out loud to Oliver Cowdery, who served as scribe. The context surrounding the translation process raises issues that are not evident to members of the Church. A piece of something resembling parchment would appear, and on that appeared the writing. One character at a time would appear, and under it was the interpretation in English. Brother Joseph would read off the English to Oliver Cowdery, who was his principal scribe, and when it was written down and repeated to Brother Joseph to see if it was correct, then it would disappear, and another character with the interpretation would appear. Thus the Book of Mormon was translated by the gift and power of God, and not by any power of man. Rather, during the translation process he buried his face in a hat that contained a common rock. The gold plates were either covered by a cloth where no one, including Joseph, could see them or they were in a different location altogether. The Church knew the true method, yet commission works of art and film and use the education system to teach otherwise. In December the Church released an essay addressing the translation of the Book of Mormon issue. Finally, after public criticisms, the seer stone is again mentioned for a new generation of members. For nearly years the Church has had the stone in their possession yet never actively taught about it; and in the case of former president of the Church, Joseph Fielding Smith, has denied its role. Doctrines of Salvation Vol. Such stones seemed to be everywhere and were of every possible description. Like its Old World antecedents, the American treasure keeper might be demonic or divine. Or it could be a cat, dog, snake or some other protecting animal. But generally the American treasure guardian was a murdered youth or man whose body had been left with the buried valuables to ensure their protection. Such superstition was frequent in the new settlements. Smith family reportedly found objects as a cannon ball, a cache of gold watches and according to the viewpoint of some of their neighbors the golden plates which produced the book of Mormon. Its touch on American society was not light. Treasure-seekers wanted to employ him to help with their searches. One, a man named Josiah Stowell, hired Joseph and his father in to dig for a supposed Spanish treasure near harmony, Pennsylvania. The effort came to nothing, and the Smiths returned home, but the neighbors continued to think of the Smiths as part of the treasure-seeking company. Bushman " Encyclopedia of Mormonism, Joseph Smith www. Forgivingly, Isaac invited Joseph and Emma to make their home in Harmony. Stowell several times, and had informed him where he could find these treasures, and Mr. Stowell had been engaged in digging for them. And therefore the Court find the Defendant guilty. If Joseph used a seer stone to defraud people while selling treasure-hunting services, then used the same stone to write the Book of Mormon while selling religious services, it speaks to the overall credibility of his claim. Considering that Joseph did not even use the plates during the translation, considering that folk magic was common in the New England area, and he had been in trouble with the law for treasure hunting, it seems hard to feel confident in the authenticity of the official translation story. These included the fact that no scribe ever saw the plates, the 3 and 8 witnesses only saw the plates with their spiritual eyes, the printed testimony did not reflect literal events, and nearly all the witnesses left the Church. The Scribes During the translation process, Joseph was either behind a curtain or the plates sat underneath a cloth in a box in another room. Emma only felt the plates through a cloth on the table. A Restoration Witness, ed. Joseph describes how the men gained their witness of the plates in a purely visionary setting. We accordingly made choice of a piece of woods convenient to Mr. According to previous arrangement, I commenced by vocal prayer to our Heavenly Father, and was followed by each of the others in succession. We did not at the first trial, however, obtain any answer or manifestation of divine favor in our behalf. We again observed the same order of prayer, each calling on and praying fervently to God in rotation, but with the same result as before. Upon this, our second failure, Martin Harris proposed that he should withdraw himself from us, believing, as he expressed himself, that his presence was the cause of our not obtaining what we wished for. He accordingly withdrew from us, and we knelt down again, and had not been many minutes engaged in prayer, when presently we beheld a light above us in the air, of exceeding brightness; and behold, an angel stood before us.

At its core are works produced by Seminar members names in bold , commentators, and Workshop participants, though the aim of the bibliography is to be as inclusive as possible. Please send suggestions for additions via email to Emily LeBaron. We are particularly interested in expanding citations for non-British North American topics and for materials written in languages other than English. As the bibliography expands, we will eventually break it down into topics, but for the moment it is divided by format. Please note that this list of recent works is by no means up to date. Books and articles are added as time allows and a list of all articles and books written by Seminar Members is in progress. Adams and Murdo J.
