Consider transferring direct quotations to Wikiquote. May Building the Tower of Babel was, for Dante, an example of pride. Painting by Pieter Brueghel the Elder Pride Latin, superbia is considered, on almost every list, the original and most serious of the seven deadly sins: It is also thought to be the source of the other capital sins. What the weak head with strongest bias rules, Is pride, the never-failing vice of fools. Lewis writes, in Mere Christianity , that pride is the "anti-God" state, the position in which the ego and the self are directly opposed to God: Pride leads to every other vice: Author Ichabod Spencer states that "[s]piritual pride is the worst kind of pride, if not worst snare of the devil. The heart is particularly deceitful on this one thing. This sense of hubris could also characterize rape. The term has been used to analyse and make sense of the actions of contemporary heads of government by Ian Kershaw , Peter Beinart and in a much more physiological manner by David Owen In this context the term has been used to describe how certain leaders, when put to positions of immense power, seem to become irrationally self-confident in their own abilities, increasingly reluctant to listen to the advice of others and progressively more impulsive in their actions. Pride is associated with more intra-individual negative outcomes and is commonly related to expressions of aggression and hostility Tangney, As one might expect, pride is not always associated with high self-esteem but with highly fluctuating or variable self-esteem. Excessive feelings of pride have a tendency to create conflict and sometimes terminating close relationships, which has led it to be understood as one of the few emotions with no clear positive or adaptive functions Rhodwalt, et al. John Gay states that "By ignorance is pride increased; They most assume who know the least. He changes good things into evil, he lays his traps. Just as a spark sets coals on fire, the wicked man prepares his snares in order to draw blood. Beware of the wicked man for he is planning evil. He might dishonor you forever. Disguise it, struggle with it, stifle it, mortify it as much as one pleases, it is still alive and will every now and then peep out and show itself; you will see it, perhaps, often in this history. For even if I could conceive that I had completely overcome it, I should probably be proud of my humility. Pride is also referred to as "pride that blinds," as it often causes a committer of pride to act in foolish ways that belie common sense. Much of the 10th and part of 11th chapter of the Book of Sirach discusses and advises about pride, hubris, and who is rationally worthy of honor. Pride is odious to both God and man; injustice is abhorrent to both of them. Sovereignty is forced from one nation to another because of injustice, violence, and wealth. How can there be such pride in someone who is nothing but dust and ashes? Once a man is dead, grubs, insects, and worms are his lot. The beginning of pride is sin. Whoever perseveres in sinning opens the floodgates to everything that is evil. For this the Lord has inflicted dire punishment on sinners; he has reduced them to nothing. The Lord has overturned the thrones of princes and set up the meek in their place. The Lord has torn up the proud by their roots and has planted the humble in their place. The Lord has overturned the land of pagans and totally destroyed them. He has devastated several of them, destroyed them and removed all remembrance of them from the face of the earth. Pride was not created for man, nor violent anger for those born of woman. Which race is worthy of honor? Those who are good. Which race is despicable? Those who break the commandments. The leader is worthy of respect in the midst of his brethren, but he has respect for those who are good. Whether, they be rich, honored or poor, their pride should be in being good. It is not right to despise the poor man who keeps the law; it is not fitting to honor the sinful man. The leader, the judge, and the powerful man are worthy of honor, but no one is greater than the man who is good. A prudent slave will have free men as servants, and the sensible man will not complain. Do not feel proud when you accomplished your work; do not put on airs when times are difficult for you. Of greater worth is the man who works and lives in abundance than the one who shows off and yet has nothing to live on. My son, have a modest appreciation of yourself, estimate yourself at your true value. Who will defend the man who takes his own life? Who will respect the man who despises himself? The poor man will be honored for his wisdom and the rich man, for his riches. Honored when poor-how much more honored when rich! Dishonored when rich-how much more dishonored when poor! The poor man who is intelligent carries his head high and sits among the great. Do not praise a man because he is handsome and do not hold a man in contempt because of his appearance. The bee is one of the smallest winged insects but she excels in the exquisite sweetness of her honey. Do not be irrationally proud just because of the clothes you wear; do not be proud when people honor you. Do you know what the Lord is planning in a mysterious way? Many tyrants have been overthrown and someone unknown has received the crown. Many powerful men have been disgraced and famous men handed over to the power of others. Do not reprehend anyone unless you have been first fully informed, consider the case first and thereafter make your reproach. Do not reply before you have listened; do not meddle in the disputes of sinners. My child, do not undertake too many activities. If you keep adding to them, you will not be without reproach; if you run after them, you will not succeed nor will you ever be free, although you try to escape.

Today, we learned a lot more about that but also a whole different chapter going back to the year AD. Our tour guide was a delightful Scottish yes, Scottish! She began by taking us through the part of town with the strongest Nazi history. We saw the Zeppelin Field where Hitler held his largest rallies. He selected Nuremberg because it was centrally located between northern Germany and southern Austria, which Germany had just annexed. Next, we visited the unfinished "congress", a large round structure which Hitler designed to look like the Coliseum in Rome. He intended to cover it with glass and give speeches at noon with the sun shining brightly on him. Fortunately, the war ended badly for him and the structure was never completed. Just like the other site, the people want it preserved but not pretty. Both are stark reminders of what happened and what might have been had the Allies not prevailed. We also saw the Palace of Justice where 22 Nazi prisoners were tried. A few were released, some were sentenced to prison and some sentenced to death. Our tour guide shared with us that it was the Americans who insisted that each person be tried separately and fairly. The Russians wanted group trials and quick executions. The timing of this lesson was interesting in light of the recent developments in Egypt. Lastly, we left Hitler behind and visited the beautiful old city center, which is surrounded by a wall and moat. The area was the hub of medieval activity. Although much was destroyed in bombings during the war, it has been restored and offers a great look at how life was here over years ago. This part was absolutely fascinating and much more upbeat than our earlier discussions. All in all it was another perfect day on our best vacation ever.
