

Chapter 1 : Student Handbook

Therefore, the following discipline handbook has been created as a guide for elementary students, parents, teachers, and administrators to help create and foster such an environment for all students.

Student Discipline Code Student Discipline Code It is the responsibility of both parents and students to be thoroughly familiar with the information in the Discipline Code. Therefore, the Discipline Code is district policy. The discipline code applies to all students and has been developed so that students and their parents are aware of expectations for student behavior. The Code divides infractions into four 4 levels, gives examples of each type, and sets forth various disciplinary options. The Code also includes a minimum penalty for some offenses. Building Level Regulations Each school in the district has supplemented this Discipline Code with a published set of additional rules and regulations which they feel necessary for the operation of their building. Therefore, building rules and regulations are district policy. Detention School detentions at the secondary level will be held from 3 p. Work and athletic events are not reasons to be excused from detention. Failure to serve a detention will result in assignment to two additional detentions or suspension. Reporting Responsibility It is the responsibility of all adults and students to report any violation of school rules or any illegal activity to the building administration. How to read the Discipline Code: All misbehaviors have been classified under one of four levels. The levels progress from minor infractions through criminal offenses. Level I offenses are handled directly by the staff. Infractions are listed at the lowest level on which they will generally occur. The Examples of Infraction section provides examples of infractions at that level. The list is not intended to be complete. The Procedures section lists actions required from staff and administration for these offenses. Disciplinary Options are examples of the kinds of disciplinary techniques which may be used. Examples listed may be used for offenses at a higher level, but will generally not be used at a lower level. Conestoga Valley School District.
