On top of the walls, tens of small holes opened up and each of them contained a stone which emitted a pure white light. But not only on the wall, even at the edge of the ceiling this fantastic stones were embedded, surrounding the whole room. In the soft light of the stones, every detail within the hall became visible at a glance. By willing magical power into these stones, witches can arouse additional abilities. Previously they were all hidden behind a slate, therefore not visible to our eyes. From my perspective, besides containing these stones, there is nothing special about the holes in the wall. Now that she had sufficient light, she began exploring the hall even more carefully. Unable bear seeing Tilly tear at the seaweed with her own hands, Ashes bluntly lifted her huge sword and swung it, sweeping away the seaweed on the wall as if she was simply mowing grass. A second stone embedded within the wall was quickly uncovered. In accordance with the previous method, Tilly once more poured her magic into it. It was connected with taut copper ropes on both sides and in between them there were unexpectedly a neatly chiseled out flight of steps. One side of the stone slab finally stopped on the ground, while the other end led to the ceiling, looking upwards Ashes saw a saw a horizontal metal door blocking the end of the passage. Seeing Tilly climbing through the door, disappearing in the ceiling, Ashes had no alternative other than to follow closely while keeping her sword at hand. The moment Ashes went through a hole in the roof, her eyes went wide, above the ceiling was another room, which was much smaller than the hall below, while the walls were also embedded with illumination stones “ but what surprised her the most, was that there were nearly no traces of water here. Wooden tables, chairs, shelves, cabinets all the furnishings were still intact, they were only covered with a thick layer of dust, and she could even see some broken spider webs. The shelves were all filled with rows of books that were dyed gray from the dust. In addition to the spread-out book on the table, a cup was also placed together with a kettle, and a pen-holder. From the quill, only a lone pole was remaining and the ink had long since dried up. But even then, this room full with filled with shelves and the hall below was covered with algae seemed to be two completely different worlds. They were unable to find any other stones, but on one side of the room they found a strange device “ at first glance, it looked like a thick metal pipe. One end of which was embedded into the stone wall, while the other side constantly became narrower until it was only had the thickness of a wrist, and in its tip was a glass lens embedded. The difference between the two previous magic stones and this one was its size, it looked much larger, and its color also looked more purple than scarlet. Apparently, the mechanism it has to fuel is utterly enormous. She knew the moment a witch had thoroughly exhausted her magic power; she will most likely immediately fall into a coma. I can feel it. Ashes instead immediately seized Lilly and pulled her into her embrace. The dust began to fall from the books, and the three people began to cough. This kind of earthquake continued for nearly a quarter of an hour until finally calming down. When the vibration stopped, Molly came up, stuck her head through the door and asked. But erected within the center of the cliff was a gigantic and incomparable arched stone door which internal seemed deep and dark, as if it was an enormous mouth which was choosing the next person it would be devouring.

Make no store of wealth for yourselves on earth, where it may be turned to dust by worms and weather, and where thieves may come in by force and take it away. BBE But make a store for yourselves in heaven, where it will not be turned to dust and where thieves do not come in to take it away: BBE NIV Or how will you say to your brother, Let me take out the grain of dust from your eye, when you yourself have a bit of wood in your eye? Assuredly, I tell you, it will be more tolerable for Sodom and Gomorrah in the day of judgment than for that city! Nevertheless know this, that the Kingdom of God has come near to you. A curse is on you, Beth-saida! For if such works of power had been done in Tyre and Sidon as have been done in you, they would have been turned from their sins, in days gone by, seated in the dust. BBE Everyone who falls on that stone will be broken to pieces, but it will crush whomever it falls on to dust. The second man is the Lord from heaven. On your belly you shall go, and you shall eat dust all the days of your life. For you are dust, and to dust you shall return. In you and in your seed will all the families of the earth be blessed. BBE It shall become small dust over all the land of Egypt, and shall be a boil breaking forth with boils on man and on animal, throughout all the land of Egypt. BBE And make all its vessels, the baskets for taking away the dust of the fire, the spades and basins and meat-hooks and fire-trays, of brass. BBE And he shall cause the house to be scraped within round about, and they shall pour out the dust that they scrape off without the city into an unclean place: BBE And for the unclean, they are to take the dust of the burning of the sin-offering, and put flowing water on it in a vessel: Let me die the death of the righteous! Let my last end be like his! I will send the teeth of animals on them, With the poison of crawling things of the dust. He lifts up the needy from the dunghill, To make them sit with princes, and inherit the throne of glory. He has set the world on them. BBE Now when David had come to the top of the slope, where they gave worship to God, Hushai the Archite came to him in great grief with dust on his head: And Shimei, the son of Gera, went down on his face in the dust before the king, when he was about to go over Jordan, BBE Then I beat them as small as the dust of the earth. I crushed them as the mire of the streets, and spread them abroad. BBE He brought out the Asherah from the house of Yahweh, outside of Jerusalem, to the brook Kidron, and burned it at the brook Kidron, and beat it to dust, and cast its dust on the graves of the common people. BBE NAS Now on the twenty-fourth day of this month the children of Israel came together, taking no food and putting haircloth and dust on their bodies. BBE NIV Now when Mordecai saw what was done, pulling off his robe, he put on haircloth, with dust on his head, and went out into the middle of the town, crying out with a loud and bitter cry. BBE And he took a broken bit of a pot, and, seated in the dust, was rubbing himself with the sharp edge of it. My skin closes up, and breaks out afresh. For now shall I lie down in the dust. You will seek me diligently, but I shall not be. BBE Remember, I beg you, that you have fashioned me as clay. Will you bring me into dust again? The torrents of it wash away the dust of the earth. So you destroy the hope of man. The worm covers them. It has dust of gold. I have become like dust and ashes. Bind their faces in the hidden place.

Chapter 4 : Soylent Green Dust, or, Dust is People : RWBYVisions

Dust and ashes were used as signs of mourning in the ancient world. In fact, Job's three friends offered an example of this early in the book of Job. When they saw Job's suffering, "they began to weep aloud, and they tore their robes and sprinkled dust on their heads" (Job).

What began in with a Bible study of fifteen people gathered in the home of our pastor has grown into a congregation of approximately two hundred. Our church membership comes from very diverse faith backgrounds. Along with those who have just claimed Christ as their Savior, we have those who were raised as Baptists, Methodists, Mormons, Lutherans, and other denominations, as well as those who are thoroughly steeped in the Reformed tradition. This diversity provides a wonderful synergy in our worship services, but it also creates unique challenges. People were asked to enter in silence. A large wooden cross was centrally placed in front. The theme of returning to God was taken from Joel 2: Four readers representative of the various generations within our church participated throughout the service. And also with you. People of God, each year we remember and celebrate the death and resurrection of our Lord Jesus Christ, by which he overcame death and provided for us redemption from sin. Lent is a season of preparation for this celebration, a time of personal and communal renewal and repentance. Tonight we begin a journey that will lead us to the cross and finally to the empty tomb. Tonight we begin with ashes. Ashes are a powerful symbol, reminding us of our mortality and our need for renewal. May God bless us as we strive to walk in the way of our Lord. Rend your heart and not your garments. Return to the Lord your God, for he is gracious and compassionate, slow to anger and abounding in love, and he relents from sending calamity. As we receive the sign of ashes, we are reminded of our own sin and human frailty, and we are called to humility and repentance. We invite you to come forward and kneel to receive the sign of ashes. After receiving the sign of ashes, you may return to your seats. Remember that you are dust and to dust you shall return. Turn away from all your offenses; then sin will not be your downfall. Rid yourselves of all the offenses you have committed. And get a new heart and a new spirit. Why will you die, O house of Israel? For I take no pleasure in the death of anyone, declares the Sovereign Lord. An alternative prayer could be sung with the Kyrie SNC The prayer concluded with the following invitation. Spend some time in quiet confession, writing your prayers on paper. Brief history of Lenten origin and practice. Use open-ended questions for reflection throughout the service: What do you fill yourself with that only provides temporary satisfaction? What are some things you need to empty out of your life? Opportunities for Interaction Sign of ashes—the four readers were spread out in the front of church; the lights remained dimmed. All in the congregation were encouraged to come forward and receive the sign of ashes. Children were encouraged to come forward and receive the sign of ashes from our child reader who was 11 years old. As each person received the sign of ashes, readers repeated these words: We explained that these would be burned into ashes. We commissioned a local potter to come to our sanctuary and set up all the equipment necessary to throw several pots and pitchers as part of our worship service. The pastor sat in a chair off to the side. As the lump of clay was placed on the wheel and the wheel began to turn, the pastor began the service. Finally, 2 Corinthians and Zechariah focus on reshaped living and our call to be holy. Opportunities for Interaction A dry pitcher was smashed to demonstrate brokenness and sin. Clay shards were placed in water and softened for redemption. Potter made something new from the melted clay. Children and youth gathered around the potter for the entire message to see and hear the experiences of the Potter and the clay.
