June Learn how and when to remove this template message In , Jack Kirby left Marvel Comics to work at DC Comics , where he began the saga of the New Gods , an epic story involving mythological and science fiction concepts, and planned to have a definite ending. However, the saga was left incomplete after the cancellation of the titles involved. Kirby began The Eternals when he returned to Marvel. Writers Roy Thomas and Mark Gruenwald used the Eternals in a Thor storyline that climaxed in Thor , [1] resolving those lingering plotlines. Subsequent to the Thor storyline, the Eternals and the mythology connected to them have appeared or been mentioned in numerous Marvel comics. The Eternals returned for a issue miniseries in under writer Peter B. Gillis and penciler Sal Buscema. Neil was starting issue five and told me that he might need a seventh issue. He just had too much story to fit in six issues even with the first and sixth double-sized. Please help improve it by removing unnecessary details and making it more concise. June Learn how and when to remove this template message When the Celestials visited Earth five million years ago and performed genetic experiments on early proto-humanity , they created two divergent races: These experiments also led to the capacity for super-powered mutations in humans. They also performed this experiment on other planets such as the Kree and Skrull homeworlds with similar results. Despite looking human, Eternals are much more long-lived but were not originally fully immortal and that kept them from having much contact with their human cousins. Eternals have a low birth rate; they can interbreed with humans but the result is always a normal human although Joey Athena, son of Thena and a normal human seems to have become an Eternal with long lived properties and powers. The Eternals also developed advanced technology. Long ago, a civil war broke out amongst the Eternals over whether to conquer the other races, with one faction led by Kronos and the other by his warlike brother, Uranos. There they built another colony. Experiments performed by Kree scientists on a captured Eternal led them to go to Earth and perform their own genetic experiments on a group of humans, thus creating the Inhumans. The Eternals now found they could channel large quantities of cosmic energy themselves, granting them near-godlike power. The accident left Kronos in an immaterial state, so a new leader had to be chosen. There he found that a war allegedly caused by the Dragon of the Moon had erupted on Titan and wiped out all but one member, a woman named Sui-San. While Zuras ruled, three new Eternal cities were built. Eventually, an agreement was reached with the gods where some Eternals, such as Thena , would impersonate the Olympians before their worshipers. The Deviants attacked them, but the Celestials counterattacked, resulting in the sinking of Mu and Atlantis , and much worldwide havoc. The Eternals helped rescue many humans. An Eternal named Valkin was entrusted by the Celestials with an artifact of great power for safekeeping. At some point during the early centuries, Ikaris and the Eternals came into conflict with the immortal mutant, Apocalypse. This conflict ended when Ikaris and the Eternals defeated him. Ikaris believed Apocalypse was dead. During the early 20th century, a human scientist made contact with the Uranian Eternals and was taken to live with them along with his young son, who would later become Marvel Boy. Cover of New Eternals: Zuras feared what would happen if the Celestials judged unfavorably. They were forced to dissolve back into Eternals by the Celestials, and the shock of the attack killed Zuras. Before his spirit fully left the material plane, he instructed his daughter Thena to take his people to explore space. They also discovered the existence of the Titanian Eternals. Most seem to have no memory of their own history and abilities, except Ikaris, and no records of their previous appearances remain. Apparently the Eternal known as Sprite , angered at having to remain an eleven-year-old and unable to grow any further, managed to induce collective amnesia in the Eternals as well as distort their perceptions of history. A group of Deviants manage to kidnap Makkari , using him to awaken the Dreaming Celestial. Upon awakening, he decides to judge humanity. The Eternals, realizing that they cannot stop him, leave him be. The Final Host[edit] When Celestials began literally "raining" down on Earth, the Avengers are forced to reunite again and just in time to see the arrival of the Final Host which is composed of Dark Celestials that are each physically unique and were the ones who easily took down their brethren. Unfortunately, when Stark and Strange arrived, there were no signs of life to be found as almost all of the Eternals were dead, with Strange deducing that the wounds were self-inflicted. Only Ikaris was left barely alive and reveals that the Eternals were never meant to protect Humanity as they thought. Instead, they were actually created to "cultivate" them, as the Celestials saw the human population as a useful pathogen, and the only way to prevent the Final Host from unleashing the Horde is the Uni-mind. They live for millennia, do not fatigue from physical exertion, are immune to disease and poison, and are unaffected by environmental extremes of cold and heat. Most cannot be injured by conventional weaponry, and even if they somehow are, an Eternal can rapidly regenerate any damage as long as they are able to retain their mental hold over their bodies; this mental bond can be broken however. In the series it was also stated that Eternals are able to absorb oxygen directly from water, and therefore cannot drown. In the same series, Ikaris was plunged into molten metal and experienced great pain, but no physical injury, which the Deviants attributed to a forcefield which protects Ikaris even when unconscious. It is unclear if all Eternals share this degree of protection. As long as "The Machine" a restoration device of Celestial origin; possibly the Earth itself [27] keeps running, any destroyed Eternal will eventually return, as was the case with Ikaris after he was completely vaporized by a particle accelerator as part of a series of "experiments" performed upon him by the Deviants. This same cosmic energy can be channeled for a number of superhuman abilities. All Eternals are potentially capable of: The limits of their strength can be increased as a result of years of focusing some of their energy towards that purpose. The extent of this ability can vary from one Eternal to another. Forcefield generation providing invulnerability to harm. In addition, groups of Eternals, as few as three at a time, [27] can initiate a transformation into a gestalt being called the Uni-Mind, a vastly powerful psionic entity that contains the totality of the powers and abilities of all the beings that comprise it. Some Eternals choose to focus on a particular power in order to increase their effectiveness with it. Sersi, for example, has developed the power of transmutation farther than any other Eternal. Additionally, some Eternals choose to focus their cosmic energies into other, non-standard abilities. Ikaris, for example, channels cosmic energy to greatly enhance his senses, while the Interloper uses his to generate fear in others, and Makkari uses his cosmic energies for superspeed. Furthermore, Eternals are compelled to attack and neutralize any being that attempts to engage any Celestial with hostile intent [31] – this compulsion extends even to the Dreaming Celestial, whom the Eternals were forced to defend even as they feared that the newly awakened Celestial would destroy all life on the planet. Ikaris rather sardonically describes himself as "a humanoid-based repair and maintenance unit left behind by unknowable alien gods to make sure that the earth is still here and in good shape when they get back. We are the court of last resort for humanity and for all living things on Earth. Countries are lines in the sand, empires rise and fall. We will still be here tomorrow, and a hundred centuries from now. Please help improve this section by adding citations to reliable sources. Unsourced material may be challenged and removed. The Hurricane and Mercury, two characters of Timely Comics, the predecessor of Marvel, were retconned as being guises of the Eternal Makkari. Thematically, the Eternals were similar to another Kirby creation, the New Gods – another group of ancient godlike beings in an epic struggle with their opposites, with humanity caught in between. Based on the quotes that follow, I had a few questions: And what causes a child not to be well born? Rome, Greece, Babylon, Egypt and many other nations owe their downfall to the breaking of the sacred covenant of marriage. The anger of a just God was kindled against them for their immortality. And then to think that we are not only privileged, but also commanded to assist our Father in the great work of redemption by giving to his children, as we have obtained these blessings ourselves Every child has the right to be well born! Every individual who denies them that right is guilty of a mortal sin". To be denied the privilege of mortal bodies forever is the greatest curse of all. These spirits can have no progress, no hope of resurrection and eternal life! Doomed are they to eternal misery for their rebellion". When a man and a woman are married and they agree, or covenant, to limit their offspring to two or three, and practice devices to accomplish this purpose, they are guilty of iniquity which eventually must be punished. Unfortunately this evil doctrine is being taught as a virtue by many people It has even crept in among members of the Church and has been advocated in some of the classes within the Church It should be understood definitely that this kind of doctrine is not only not advocated by the authorities of the Church, but also is condemned by them as wickedness in the sight of the Lord. Smith has said in relation to this question: Those who have taken upon themselves the responsibility of wedded life should see to it that they do not abuse the course of nature; that they do not destroy the principle of life within them, nor violate any of the commandments of God. The command which he gave in the beginning to multiply and replendish the earth is still in force upon the children of men. Possibly no greater sin could be committed by the people who have embraced this gospel than to prevent or to destroy life in the manner indicated. To prepare tabernacles for them; to take a course that will not tend to drive those spirits into the families of the wicked, where they will be trained in wickedness, debauchery, and every species of crime. It is the duty of every righteous man and woman to prepare tabernacles for all the spirits they can Moreover, may we not lose our own salvation if we violate this divine law? Smith said in June I regret, I think it is a crying evil, that there should exist a sentiment or a feeling among any members of the Church to curtail the birth of their children. I think that is a crime wherever it occurs, where husband and wife are in possession of health and vigor and are free from impurities that would be entailed upon their posterity. I believe that where people undertake to curtail or prevent the birth of their children that they are going to reap disappointment by and by. I have no hesitancy in saying that I believe that is one of the greatest crimes of the world today, this evil practice. Those who wilfully and maliciously design to break this important commandment shall be damned. They cannot have the Spirit of the Lord. Husbands and wives refuse to take upon themselves the responsibilities of family life. Many of them do not care to be bothered with children. Yet this commandment given to Adam has never been abrogated or set aside. If we refuse to live by the covenants we make, especially in the house of the Lord, then we cannot receive the blessings of those covenants in eternity. If the responsibilities of parenthood are wilfully avoided here, then how can the Lord bestow upon the guilty the blessings of eternal increase? It cannot be, and they shall be denied such blessings. The wicked cannot inherit eternal life. Virtue of birthright can be transferred. Committing adultery the second time leaves on unforgiven. One should be placed on probation for years.
