

Chapter 1 : Definition of Teaching Excellence - Schreyer Institute for Teaching Excellence

This diagram shows the USC Center for Excellence in Teaching's structure and offerings. Click the icons and text for more information about CET's services and resources.

Attributes of an excellent teacher An excellent teacher is viewed as one who contributes positively to the learning environment by providing exceptional energy, keen interest in students, and extraordinary strengths in the following five roles:

Subject matter expert Possesses thorough knowledge of subject matter and demonstrates a contagious enthusiasm for it; goes further than the standard textbook materials; researches and develops important and original thoughts on the subject specialty; thinks about the discipline, analyzing its nature and evaluating its quality; follows regularly intellectual developments in the discipline and related fields; takes strong interest in broader issues, and is intellectually admirable.

Excellent communicator Demonstrates effective oral and written communication; demonstrates good organizational abilities and planning skills; helps students learn to use effective communication skills; listens attentively and is available and approachable; utilizes teaching tools appropriately and effectively; simplifies and clarifies complex subjects that result in provocative insights; bridges language and cultural barriers.

Student-centered mentor Makes student learning the highest priority; experiments willingly to affect student learning; strives to stimulate each student to learn through a variety of methods and encourages and invites active student participation; helps students connect learning experiences and facilitates development of self-knowledge; conveys to students that they must reach beyond facts to the understanding and application of concepts; instills a desire in students for life-long learning; inspires them to higher intellectual levels and does not give up on students; connects with students easily and is understanding and personable.

Systematic and continual assessor Develops and uses appropriate student outcome assessments to continuously improve student learning experiences in keeping with stated course objectives; employs a systematic approach to assess teaching, keeps the class material fresh and new, makes appropriate changes where indicated and sets clear objectives that indicate the kind of thinking and acting expected of students; creates an environment that invites constructive student feedback to the instructor; adapts teaching style to accomplish the objectives of successful student learning; recognizes own limitations and shortcomings, confronts and learns from them; advocates learning over testing.

Definition of Teaching Excellence. What the Best College Teachers Do. What Makes a Teacher Great? The Chronicle of Higher Education, 50 16 A. Alfred State University Retrieved June 29, , from <http://www.alfred.edu/~teaching/>

To Foster Excellent Teaching. Retrieved March 30, , from <http://www.pennstate.edu/teaching/>

Penn State resources Hyman, D. A Multidimensional Model of Scholarship for the 21st Century. The Pennsylvania State University. Retrieved March 30, Working Together for a Better Learning Community. Undergraduate Faculty Teaching Awards. Please direct inquiries and comments to the Webmaster. The Schreyer Institute for Teaching Excellence is committed to making its websites accessible to all users. Please send comments or suggestions on accessibility improvements to site@psu.edu.

Chapter 2 : Altobelli University – Excellence in Education

The Collegium Award for Excellence and Innovation in Teaching: is an annual award that recognizes outstanding teaching as well as a faculty member's commitment to growing and improving as a teaching scholar. It is the only teaching award at Wittenberg that is awarded by the faculty itself.

Excellence in teaching A View from the Former Chair Teaching is the cornerstone activity of our mission. I would like to highlight a particularly strong recent group of awards, and thank our faculty and residents for their outstanding contributions to excellence in teaching. Teaching awards The Department of Medicine has a stellar record of cultivating outstanding teaching, and countless honors and awards have been bestowed on our faculty. We have 12 faculty members who have won the School of Medicine Distinguished Teaching Award four times, designating them Teachers Superior in Perpetuity. Karen Stout, professor Cardiology was named the Turck award winner. The Turck Award celebrates Dr. Marvin Turck, who has been a faculty member in the division of Allergy and Infectious Diseases since and has been recognized for his teaching, clinical work and scholarship. She will receive the award in the fall. Zachary Goldberger, assistant professor Cardiology , received the 32nd annual Paul B. He was chosen by the medicine residents in recognition of outstanding clinical teaching and for exemplifying scholarship, humility, compassion, and integrity. Distinguished teaching awards The graduating medical class of selected Drs. He has taught the Internal Medicine third year clerkship for many years. Stern teaching awards Drs. This award provides protected time for one year for junior faculty members to hone their teaching skills while working with senior faculty mentors. Outstanding teacher award Dr. Evans Awards are presented to the second-year medicine resident and the graduating student who most clearly reflect the qualities of warmth, understanding, and concern for human welfare exemplified by Dr. Evans, who was chief of medicine at the Seattle VA and departmental vice chair for many years. Medicine Resident and Intern Excellence in Teaching Awards The following were honored in recognition of outstanding commitment to teaching and mentoring medical students: Angene will be starting her internal medicine residency in primary care next month at the University of Colorado. Future educators Doug Paauw gave the commencement speech to the graduating class. You must guide your patients down a dark, narrow path, with dangers on either side, with wisdom as your source of light. We gain this wisdom through experience. Some of those experiences are painful ones, but the difficult times make us a better doctor. He has been the director for student teaching for the Department of Medicine since Among his numerous awards and accomplishments over the years, Doug has received the Evans, Beeson, and Turck awards, the UW Distinguished Teaching Award, and many national awards. He was elected a Teacher Superior in Perpetuity in Curiosity, compassion, and courage. He also said that what you need to be a doctor is in your heart, not in a notebook. I am very proud of our many, many faculty who are recognized locally, regionally, nationally, and internationally for excellence in teaching. A View from the Chair William J.

Chapter 3 : Center for Excellence in Teaching and Learning : University of Rochester

Excellence in Teaching – Academics – Schools and Colleges – School of Education – Excellence in Teaching Campbellsville University began the Excellence in Teaching Award Program in with assistance from Mr. Earl Aaron and the Ward, Cundiff, and Aaron Memorial Fund.

Chapter 4 : USC Center for Excellence in Teaching

The "Excellence in University Teaching Award" recognizes a faculty member with a record of exceptional teaching. The due date for applications is November 12, Eligibility: Full-time faculty members with a minimum of three years experience at USM are eligible.

Chapter 5 : Center for Excellence in Teaching and Learning – Minnesota State University, Mankato

The Center for Excellence in Teaching and Learning at the University of Rochester.

Chapter 6 : Institute for Excellence in Teaching and Learning | Chapman University

Charleston Southern University > Center for Excellence in Teaching ABOUT US The mission of the Center for Excellence in Teaching (CET) is to promote and encourage teaching excellence in the academic environment where faculty are comfortable seeking the help or advice from their peers.

Chapter 7 : Ten faculty members earn awards for excellence in teaching | The University of Kansas

Teaching is the cornerstone activity of our mission. I would like to highlight a particularly strong recent group of awards, and thank our faculty and residents for their outstanding contributions to excellence in teaching.

Chapter 8 : Center for Excellence and Innovation in Teaching & Learning | University of New Hampshire

Explore teaching ideas that are new to you, new to a few, new to many, or new to all. Diversity Sustain inclusive learning environments where students feel a sense of belongingness and can thrive.

Chapter 9 : Center for Excellence in Teaching - Charleston Southern University

Thanks to a financial gift from the College Football Playoff Foundation (calendrierdelascience.com), money is available for grants to be awarded to teachers in under-resourced schools who are attending the Excellence in Teaching Conference at the University of Notre Dame October