Anyway, follow Vivi to the chocobo stables after speaking to No. Board the Blue Narciss and sail southeast, docking on the beach there then trekking to the desert with four quicksand pools on it. This is the one furthest north. Save your game with Moguo first and go inside. Your next destination has an anti-magic field in place so magic of any kind will be unusable. However, it would be wise to leave a melee fighter or two preferably Freya and Amarant in the palace; they will prove their worth later. There are also enemies called Armstrongs that are quite nasty so watch out. Go there for frogs if you want. Talk to the airship and one of the twins will sell you items. Be sure to stock up on Vaccines! This dungeon is crawling with monsters called Epitaphs, which release mirrors of characters even those not in your party whenever you do anything to it. Go right to meet Stiltzkin before proceeding. Go back to the first room. Collect a Remedy from the chest under the stairs to the right then go up for a Rising Sun, Head left to the next room to activate a switch. The chest in here has an Elixir. Return to the first screen and through the lower left door. Next look at the right one before heading down to examine the two at the bottom. The chest upstairs contains a pair of Feather Boots by the way. Head out via the top left stairs and examine the large orb halfway along the path for next part of your history lesson. After that, follow the path further around to return the room where you saw the planet hologram. Leave and enter the previously sealed blue door. Watch the strange scene. After the scene, head back to the save room, and walk around to the other side. Head through the door, and ride the elevator to another room. Make sure everyone has Clear Headed equipped. Edit Boss Battle - Ark.
