A merry little Christmas now. Above thy deep and dreamless sleep The silent stars go by; Yet in thy dark streets shineth The everlasting Light; The hopes and fears of all the years Are met in thee to-night. For Christ is born of Mary, And gathered all above, While mortals sleep, the angels keep Their watch of wondering love. O morning stars, together And praises sing to God the King, And peace to men on earth. How silently, how silently, The wondrous gift is given! So God imparts to human hearts The blessings of his heaven. No ear may hear his coming, But in this world of sin, Where meek souls will receive him, still The dear Christ enters in. Where children pure and happy Pray to the blessed Child, Where misery cries out to thee, Son of the mother mild; Where charity stands watching And faith holds wide the door, The dark night wakes, the glory breaks, And Christmas comes once more. O holy Child of Bethlehem! Descend to us, we pray; Cast out our sin and enter in, Be born in us to-day. And wild and sweet the words repeat Of Peace on earth, good will to men. They looked up and saw a star Shining in the east beyond them far, And to the earth it gave great light, And so it continued both day and night. Refrain And by the light of that same star Three wise men came from country far; To seek for a king was their intent, And to follow the star wherever it went. Refrain Then entered in those wise men three Full reverently upon their knee, And offered there in his presence Their gold, and myrrh, and frankincense. Refrain Then let us all with one accord Sing praises to our heavenly Lord; That hath made heaven and earth of naught, And with his blood mankind hath bought. I learned a whole lot different, When my Mother sat me down, And taught me to spell Christmas this way: The horse knows the way to carry the sleigh Through white and drifted snow. Over the river and through the woods, Oh, how the wind does blow. It stings the toes and bites the nose As over the ground we go. Over the river and through the woods To have a full day of play. Oh, hear the bells ringing ting-a-ling-ling, For it is Christmas Day. Over the river and through the woods And straight through the barnyard gate. It seems that we go so dreadfully slow; It is so hard to wait. And all of this happens, because the world is waiting. God bless the master of this house, Likewise the mistress too And all the little children, That round the table go. Pat-A-Pan Willie, bring your little drum; Robin, bring your fife and come; And be merry while you play, Tu-re-lu-re-lu, Come be merry while you play, Let us make our Christmas gay! When the men of olden days To the King of Kings gave praise, On the fife and drum did play, Tu-re-lu-re-lu, On the fife and drum did play, So their hearts were glad and gay! God and man today become More in tune than fife and drum, So be merry while you play, Tu-re-lu-re-lu, So be merry while you play, Sing and dance this Christmas day!

Steve Nakagawa Animation Director: Osamu Dezaki uncredited Animation: This edition contains the full dialogue and song audio of both specials. The track listing is as follows: Be Prepared To Pay The CBC holds broadcast rights in Canada. The special also airs on Freeform in some territories. Sequels[edit] Frosty returned in several sequels: Narration is provided by Andy Griffith Durante had suffered a stroke that had forced his retirement in and eventually killed him. Jackie Vernon once again reprised his role as the voice of Frosty. Animation is produced by Topcraft in Japan. As the special takes place in the late winter, it makes no mention of Christmas the original song likewise did not mention Christmas. While the Frosty specials were 30 minutes long, and the Rudolph specials were 60 minutes, this ambitious special was feature length, at 97 minutes long minutes on television, including commercials. This film features Frosty and his family as supporting characters. This is the only other Frosty cartoon to mention Christmas or Santa Claus in addition to the original. The characters, setting, voices and animation by Bill Melendez are vastly different. Despite this, it is shown with the original special every year on CBS and was even included as a bonus on its DVD release. John Goodman provides the voice of Frosty in this special, and Jonathan Winters serves as narrator. Also in contrast to the original specials, the special avoids all mention of Christmas despite the special portraying the beginning of winter and has an environmentalist theme, as Frosty works to stop a corporate executive whose product wipes out snow packs with one spray. Funny, as Patrick starred in a Nicktoons crossover short called "Patrick the Snowman" before this. Tom Kenny also plays a role in this film.

The lyrics to Frosty the Snowman describe how a group of young children bring their snowman to life with the help of a magical hat. The snowman and the children then go on to have a series of adventures before he is forced to say goodbye. The Television Special Once the Frosty song became an overnight sensation, it was only a matter of time before media executives decided Frosty needed his own television special. In 1970, the Rankin-Bass company produced a 30 minute animated television special based on the song. This program featured the voices of comedians Jimmy Durante as the narrator and Jackie Vernon as Frosty himself. Writer Romeo Muller, who also worked on the Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer program, was given the responsibility of adapting the song for television. The Frosty television special was unique in that it marked the first use of traditional cell animation for the Rankin-Bass company. In addition, the company hired greeting card artist Paul Coker, Jr. Coker would later go on to become famous for his work as an illustrator with MAD Magazine. After the original Frosty television special became a Christmas classic, several sequels were produced: Frosty was a happy snowman, with a corncob pipe, a button nose, and eyes of coal. The children who built him found an old silk hat, which had magical properties. As soon as they placed the hat on his head, Frosty came alive and began to dance. Frosty realized that, because the sun was hot, he had a limited amount of time before he melted. He invited the children to run and play with him. The children and Frosty played chase around the town square. He leads them through the streets. They pass a policeman who yells "Stop! He tells the children goodbye and comforts them by saying he will return. Karen is the child that finds the magical hat, which originally belonged to a magician named Professor Hinkle. Once Hinkle discovers the magic powers of the hat, he repeatedly tries to get it back. Frosty, Karen and the children are concerned about Frosty melting. They decide that Frosty should go to the North Pole where he can never melt. Karen and Frosty stowaway on a refrigerated train car. On the same train is Professor Hinkle who is still trying to get the hat back. While on the train, Frosty notices how cold Karen is becoming. The forest animals build a fire to keep Karen warm but Hinkle arrives and extinguished the fire. As they flee Hinkle, Frosty and Karen discover a greenhouse. Karen to get warm and Frosty to avoid Hinkle. The magician, however, locks them in the greenhouse. At this point, Hocus Pocus arrives with Santa Claus, but it appears to be too late. Frosty has melted in the greenhouse. Santa, however, explains that Frosty is made of Christmas snow and therefore cannot melt away completely. Just then, a cold wind blows through the greenhouse and Frosty comes back to life. Hinkle arrives again and demands his hat. Santa convinces Hinkle that he should give Frosty the hat. If he does, Santa promises a special present in his Christmas stocking. Hinkle departs to write his Christmas list. Santa returns Karen to her home and takes Frosty to the North Pole. The show closes with a scene from the following Christmas. All the characters are parading through the town square, singing "Frosty the Snowman. Another fun Look & Find book with detailed illustrations that tell lots of stories. The items you're looking for on each page are different this time (rather than looking for the same items on each page like in the "Find the Gifts" book), which makes it take a little longer, I think and doesn't keep.
