List of Franklin characters The main character of the series is Franklin Turtle himself. All episodes and movies focus on Franklin as the main character. Almost all events are presented directly from his point of view with some exceptions. There are no stories in which Franklin is not present, though sometimes certain other characters may take more of a focus. Turtle and his little sister Harriet. Turtle are presented as gentle and loving parents who provide direction and guidance for Franklin, as well as reasonable discipline when needed. His sister, Harriet, was born in the film Franklin and the Green Knight and was featured in stories in the fifth and sixth season of the program. Sam has a mom and a dad but they let her stay in Woodland so she could visit her Godmother, Lucy. Most of the married couples in Woodland have the two people the same age. And there are most couples in Woodland have married twin siblings. His other close friend is Snail, a garden snail who considers Franklin to be his best friend. He is taught by Mr. Owl was called away on a family emergency. Other characters are seen on the show with less frequency, sometimes only appearing in one or a few episodes. Woodland[edit] Franklin and his friends live in a small, animal-resident village in eastern North America known as Woodland. The village is small enough that most residents know one another and meet on a regular basis. There is a small shopping district, some roads with very little traffic , and at least one community schoolhouse. Oakwood School ๑๕๓ The schoolhouse in Woodland where Mr. Owl works at and where Franklin goes to school. Shopping District ๑๕๓ Woodland is known to have a robust shopping district with an ice-cream shop, Mr. Franklin and his friends sometimes travel here with their parents, with each other, or even by themselves. At the time, Franklin was afraid of heights, but got over his fear at the end of the episode after he helped a tiny bird. Franklin and his friends would then use it for their activities and to hang out. In the episode "Franklin Plays It Safe", it got destroyed due to falling out of its tree when the branch that was holding it broke. However, a new one was built at the end. Pond ๑๕๓ Franklin and his friends often hang out by the pond, which is attached to a stream. They sometimes go swimming, sit by the pond, or participate in various activities. Woods ๑๕๓ Woodland is surrounded on at least one end by forests. A character named Gopher who appeared in the movie Franklin and the Green Knight is known to live here. They journeyed deep into the woods where they met several characters and found magic cherry blossoms. Oakwood Ravine ๑๕๓ Located within the woods and connected distantly to the playground. The only area in Woodland that is shown to contain poison ivy. Franklin and Bear went on a hiking trip in the trail once. They expected to find monarch butterflies in the meadow, but found caterpillars instead. There is a pond here as well. Franklin and Bear try to skip stones in it, but the stones sink. Village Park ๑๕๓ Kids go to skateboard here. Playground ๑๕๓ For the younger kids such as Harriet and Beatrice. It has a slide, swings and monkey bars. Harriet, Kit, and Beatrice all enjoy playing here. Tamarack Play Park ๑๕๓ An amusement park area never seen on the programme, but referenced. When Franklin is unable to travel there with all his friends, he creates "Turtle Play Park". Thrill Hill ๑๕๓ A steep hill that the big kids in town like to skateboard down. Franklin ends up skateboarding down it accidentally and then is dared to do it again. At first he agrees, but ends up not taking the dare. The name may be a reference to the song. Sports and games[edit] Baseball is seen more often in earlier seasons, with only sporadic appearances in later episodes. Hockey and soccer are favoured as sports to play. Once, when Franklin and Bear went to sign up for football, spaces had run out, so they were signed up for basketball instead. It is featured in several stories, including one in which Skunk is taught by Franklin and Bear how to play. Franklin also gets to meet a couple of his professional hockey heroes in the fifth and sixth seasons of the programme. In addition to sports, the characters enjoy a number of games and activities. Harriet and Beatrice enjoy playing tag and hide-and-seek. And Franklin and his friends enjoy playing knights. Development[edit] The development design of Franklin the Turtle for the animated TV series character, was the achievement of Canadian Animation artist and Illustrator Kurt Lehner, which he worked on during his time at Nelvana Studios in These designs were studies taken directly from the Franklin the Turtle book series itself. Though Lehner

did not continue to work with the "series" design team which was hired after the development process, at that time he was given the privilege of also designing Beaver, Rabbit and Skunk as well. Franklin and many of his friends had new voice actors in these new adventures, including award-winning American actor Grant Eubanks. These new stories saw Franklin facing a flood, worries about the old treehouse, and earning a badge in a group called the Woodland Trailblazers. For the sixth season Funbag and other animation studios joined in the development of Franklin. The most recent movie in the series is Franklin and the Turtle Lake Treasure. Format[edit] Franklin is traditionally animated with some computer aid, especially in the later seasons. The Franklin DVD and video releases include individual stories grouped together as part of a theme, rather than complete episodes. Many of these scenes featured Otter, a character who left the series early in the first season and was only seen once more in later seasons. Differences in the colouring of the cartoon can be spotted from season-to-season. The more recent feature films, most noticeably Back to School with Franklin have a somewhat different look from the television series. The film Franklin and the Turtle Lake Treasure had considerably higher production values, with more colour differentiation between the various turtles, higher quality animation, an overall brighter look, and beautifully painted backgrounds. It also aired on Nickelodeon as part of the Nick Jr. It even aired on Noggin now Nick Jr. Reception[edit] The show was well received by critics and parents. Joly Herman of Common Sense Media stated in a review, "Franklin is a show that takes for granted respect for elders and vice versa. Franklin ultimately sets a good example of responsible TV programming, and it is a rare show that celebrates the innocence of childhood. Franklin page set for February 13, It also premiered in the Singapore on Mediacorp on February 15, In other media[edit] Books and movies[edit] Franklin television stories are mostly based on books in the original Franklin Adventure series. Usually written by Sharon Jennings, these adaptations are shortened versions of what is seen on TV and may contain non-canon material. Koala introduced as a teacher to Franklin and his friends. In , a new touring show, "Franklin and The Adventures of the Noble Knights", was developed, and is currently touring in France. The show is also produced by Koba Entertainment, and presented by Paquin Entertainment. This show toured in Canada in A soundtrack CD featuring the songs from the programme is now available.
