Library The worlds of Star Wars are full of countless alien species, each stranger and more fascinating than the last. Constable Zuvio must get to the bottom of things when a faithful droid commits a bank robbery in "High Noon on Jakku. I loved them all and I was excited to find that they were now in a book instead of digital only ebooks. The four other stories can be purchased as separate ebooks and are free on kindle prime and unlimited. High Noon on Jakku This is a cute, fun, and simple bank robbery mystery. The characters were my favorite. I loved this quote: CZ-IG5 stared at the blaster he was holding in his stiff white hand. Anyone who knew the droid well would have thought he looked sad. I think Landry Q. This story was a mix of murder mystery and a Star Wars food competition the likes of Chopped on Food Network to find out who the murderer is. All Creatures Great and Small This, by far, is my favorite story in the collection. Bobbajo is a story teller who is briefly seen on Jakku in The Force Awakens. One of his stories even has a very cute tie-in to Episode IV. The kids in the story expect the constable from the first story, High Noon on Jakku, to help them. Like the other stories, it has a fun twist at the end. I enjoy how all these short stories get straight to the action and this one is no exception. The faces on the cover of this story the two little guys with furry yellow heads look familiar to me for some reason. True Love Unkar Plutt stars in this story and is the most recognizable character from this collection. Every day was the same-which was just how Unkar Plutt would have liked it if he actually liked anything. Which he did not. Aliens Pg The constable from the first story shows up again. Even expecting a twist, it was still surprising to read what happened. I liked the prequel tie-in to this. The characters in this story you can actually see in the movie. They are the pirates that Finn wants to join in The Force Awakens. Aliens on a Post-it I post reviews like this on Instagram. Be sure to follow me there! Walker is a New York Times bestselling author of comics and books. He also co-created a Saturday morning cartoon called Scary Larry. He likes castles and robots and also pop-tarts. Most days he hangs out with his wife and his cats and pushes buttons on a keyboard until stories somehow happen.

Chapter 2 : Books similar to From Far Away, Vol. 05

From Far Away, Volume One is a lovely little shoujo manga by Kyoko Hikawa. The art is simple, yet imaginative and skilled. The story is about a shy junior high school girl named Noriko who accidentally finds herself in a strange and fantastic land.

Story[ edit ] Noriko, an ordinary schoolgirl, has slipped into a mysterious world of magic and flying dragons, which is in chaos due to the ancient foresaying of The Awakening. Every kingdom in the world is in search for the Awakening as they believe that it has the power to control the Sky Demon, the most destructive monster. Noriko meets Izark, the lonesome warrior, and accompanies him. Izark was born with a mysterious power that makes people hate him and causes him to travel alone. He came here in order to change his fate by trying to kill the Awakening only to find out that the Awakening is Noriko. He decides to take her to his old and only friend Gaya. Noriko has no clue about his illness as well as his frustration with her, but tries her best to nurse him. Racheff, the young ruler of Rienca, sends his best warrior Keimos to search for the Awakening. Finally Keimos catches up with them, and he and Izark start to duel in which Izark won. The story continues on about Izark and his transformations, and his growing love for clueless Noriko. Noriko also realizes her feelings for Izark and a battle between Light and Dark commences as Racheff, Leader of Rienca, tries to take over. He is the reincarnation of the greatest evil, the Sky Demon. He is much stronger than the average person. He can jump higher, run faster, and also summon fire and wind. Ever since he was small, Izark was shunned by his mother, who called him a monster and rejected having given birth to him, which in turn results in his insecurity about being the Sky Demon and does not easily trust others. Noriko was the first person to really open up to him, as she did not know of his being. He quickly comes to care for Noriko, and the feeling soon turns into undeniable love, but because he believes himself to be an abomination, he hides his feelings because he thinks he can only hurt Noriko. She is an ordinary, slightly unconfident girl, who was transported to a strange world by a bomb explosion. Izark was the first person she met and taught her to speak his language. Noriko did not know that she was The Awakening, who was wanted by many countries. Many neighboring countries believed that by capturing The Awakening, they could also control the Sky Demon. Noriko falls in love with Izark quite early into the story. In the past, she was a soldier of the Gray Bird tribe, which was forced to disband. She taught Izark swordplay, allowing him to control his inner demon better. Izark trusts Gaya to look after Noriko for a short period in the manga. She has a twin sister named Zena. Barago Initially a guardian of Lord Nada, whose primary source of entertainment is to gather strong men and make them fight. He likes to tease Izark and Noriko. Jeida De Girene An ex-leader who is persecuted for his opinions. He and his sons were jailed by Lord Nada and tries to escape from Zago. He was ordered by Racheff to search for The Awakening. Noriko met him while trying to escape from miscreants. Although she is blind, she can see the future through her guardian stone, a precious item of her deceased mother. She is an exceptionally powerful Seer, despite the fact that she is a young girl. Then he and his villagers help Noriko and Izark in their journey. He usually can only be seen by Noriko. Doros A mistreated chimo breeder who works for Racheff. He realizes that he is deceived by Racheff and betrays Racheff, helping Noriko to escape. He keeps the two chimos that Racheff spared. When he is defeated by Izark, his mind is consumed with revenge, as he cannot accept being inferior to any man. He would have been killed by Izark had Racheff not interfered and taken him out of the battle to safety. Through the power of the darkness, he becomes a monster when fighting seriously, but in the end he is consumed by the same darkness and dies. He has an incredibly dark childhood. He greatly resented his mother and purposefully killed her by pushing her off a flight of stairs. Witnesses to the event believe that it was an accident. Tazasheena reminds him of his mother and therefore, Racheff dislikes her, as well. She betrays Mokumen as its appearance disgusts her. She does not like to be ignored or put down by Racheff and his Seer. Noriko learns that she is The Awakening from Tazasheena.
