Garmin nuvi 40LM Car owners that are not satisfied with the performance or features of a GPS-enabled smartphone are likely to go for a Garmin nuvi car GPS product because Garmin offers decent service and quality products. Because Garmin GPS products are so focused on navigation, these gadgets can be significantly more affordable than high-end smartphones. Smartphones can do a lot of things but a dedicated car GPS device is recommended for safe and efficient car travel. Garmin has no problems in delivering quality products but consumers that want basic and effective GPS solutions want to spend the absolute minimum. Unlike the other Garmin products with confusing model names, these new budget products are easy to spot. The Garmin nuvi 40LM is one of the few models that use 2 digits for the model name. No cutting-edge features can be found in this GPS device but it is a product of good decisions by Garmin to keep the price low. It has a simple design with a 4. This could be an issue as there are already some older Garmin products like the Garmin nuvi that also strive to provide the basics at an affordable price. However, that Garmin device had a smaller screen. The features of the Garmin nuvi 40LM are more in line with the Garmin nuvi LM but that device launched at a higher price. The Garmin nuvi 40LM already comes with 5 million points of interest but several months later, the some of the data could be outdated. These updates are completely free with no subscription required. The rest of the features are pretty standard with the same basic two-icon interface on the home screen. Two icons may not seem like a lot of features to play with but it makes the Garmin nuvi 40LM extremely easy for just about anyone to use. Need to plan a route? The experience certainly feels better than any smartphone equipped with a GPS feature. This is great for any driver that frequently uses highways because it guides drivers to the right lane once the exit on the route is nearby. The junction view has detailed graphics so it is possible to see signs like the speed limit clearly. This is pretty much all the Garmin nuvi 40LM has to offer. The only thing that would have been nice as a feature is the ecoRoute feature that is found in the older and slightly more expensive Garmin nuvi This feature calculates fuel-efficient routes which could potentially save money. Another nice thing about going for a GPS device with few features like the Garmin nuvi 40LM is that it should be very easy for people that never used a GPS device before to learn how to operate it.
