For more information, please go to the website or email quest unitedplanet. World Connect is devoted to improving the health and wellbeing of women and children undeserved and under-resourced communities worldwide, and it is currently has several volunteer openings with its Kids-to-Kids program as well as a development internship opportunity. For more information, please see the website. Each of these programs meets an aspect of our holistic model to strengthen the health and economic development of communities. Volunteers can join a brigade through a Global Brigades chapter on their university campus or workplace, or start their own Global Brigades chapter. Love Volunteers is a travel organization, working in 27 developing countries to provide international support to local NGOs. We work directly with local teams to help develop their organizational models and supply volunteers who can help with everything from teaching English to administrative tasks or undertaking field research. We strive to offer volunteers extremely competitive program fees on a non-profit basis as we recognize the real value is having volunteers help local people at a grassroots level, rather than charging high fees that often never reach the local community. We have local coordinators in each country that we work with to help volunteers find opportunities that complement their goals. Visit the organization website for more information. As one of the 17 members of the International Oxfam confederation, Oxfam work with people in more than 90 countries to create lasting solutions. For more information, please go to the website or email info oxfamamerica. For more information about global community engagement opportunities, please submit an e-mail to scee tamiu.
