They influence thoughts, feelings, actions and states of mind. Even little words often have big meaning. Whether you want to land your dream job, improve your friendships, save your marriage or retain your employees; the words you choose can make all the difference. The simplest little words, which we take for granted, have the power to hurt or heal, to inspire or discourage, to help or to hinder. The list below includes 18 examples of little words that have big meaning in the most positive way. Thank you Because every single one of us longs to feel appreciated, words of gratitude make the heart sing. I forgive you We all screw up. Unintentionally, we may hurt our friends, children, co-workers, and others. Words of forgiveness heal the heart by lifting the crippling burden of guilt. The only thing that beats saying the words I love you is showing love through action. I was wrong Few words have the power to ignite the flame of forgiveness like the unselfish, courageous admission of wrongdoing. In times when we feel alone, misjudged or isolated in our beliefs; an understanding friend is much appreciated. I see your point. Fear may disease the mind, but words of safety are a part of the antidote. I admire you Having someone look up to you, think highly of you, or aspire to follow in your footsteps is motivating beyond belief. I support you When making a tough decision, which may or may not be the best, it means the world to know that someone is on your side no matter what. Few things top the feeling that comes with knowing that you stand out in an exceptional way to someone. Even those who appear to have life under control need someone dependable in their corner. Great job Great job. Words of praise and recognition inspire us to do more, to work harder and to feel a sense of pride. You matter We all want to feel that we are important to someone or something other than ourselves. To hear that you are valued by another person, particularly at times when you feel useless or insignificant, is extra special. Chapter 2 : The Big Words of Christianity

The little book demonstrates how the small words in the Bible are some of the most potentially powerful ones in sending God's message to our lives.

Chesterton The Big Words of Christianity. View Online For I have given them the words that you gave me, and they have received them and have come to know in truth I have to read and re-read what he has written in order to figure out what the correct spelling should be and this discover what he is actually trying to say. Do they mean bare or bear? If they mean bear, which bear do they mean? Afterall, if they mean bare they could mean: But then, if they meant bear they could mean: The only way you could determine what your child means would be to read the context of what they had written. Just understanding that words in the Bible are generally equivocal they need be read in context , should help the Bible reader to insist on reading the Bible in books not bits. This simple principle should scold those unprofessional Bible teachers who promote contrary Bible interpretation methods such as the Law of First Reference where it is thought that a Bible word is always defined by its first use in the Bible. It should also temper those who place too much credence on doing Word Studies as this method tends to divorce a Biblical word from its context. While most of the Bible is simple to understand but difficult to live up to for example, Philippians 2: Today, we speak different languages to the Biblical authors. This presents translation challenges. We also now use different idioms, metaphors, currencies, measures and descriptions of time. This demands a little effort to understand what the Biblical writers meant. How many Bible readers know what a Biblical "talent" is, for example? When it comes to understanding the Bible, simple interpretations often end up becoming simplistic instead. A simplistic understanding of Scripture overlooks important facts which often innocently leads to a misunderstanding of the text. For example, in Galatians 5: A simplistic understanding of this expression says this as describing a Christian who sins. But this cannot be what the text means. The context of the Epistle to the Galatians is salvation by grace rather than by works. To fall from grace is instead to fall into works and legalism. The other thing that requires the Bible to be read with care is its usage of very precise big words. Unlike the general words of the Bible, which are equivocal, there are some very deliberate and selectively used words that are unequivocal. There are some big words in Scripture that actually look deceptively small. For example- "Love" is perhaps the biggest word in the Bible. We live in a world where people "make" love when what they may actually mean is that they "fornicate". We use this word in ways that are quite foreign to the way the Bible uses this word. Biblically the word love is either of three Greek words: Therefore, this "big" word is not unequivocal. The Bible reader must consider the context to understand the way in which this word is being used. This idea is carried over into our moral condition before an infinitely holy God. We all miss the mark of His target of moral and spiritual perfection. As Dr Tony Campolo said in his book, "Speaking My Mind", that he warmed to the idea of there being no Hell, the only problem he had was that the Bible says there is! This is especially so if the big word is unequivocal it can only mean one thing. Scripture very carefully uses such big words. Perhaps the word that most aptly sums up how God feels about sin and what level of justice is required to appropriately deal with sin is: Now imagine being really really angry about something you hate. How ever angry you can imagine getting, you are still only experiencing an infinitesimal amount of how angry God feels about, and how much He hates, injustice caused by sin. The closest word we have in English to describe this emotion is: Propitiation is God unleashing His fury and wrath upon someone so that His need for justice is satisfied and the guilty can receive mercy. This word does not occur in the Old Testament. Instead the Old Testament word is: The Old Testament pre-illustrates the truth of the New Testament. It dramatically portrays propitiation and atonement in a ritual ceremony called Yom Kippur. Described in Leviticus 16, on this most holy day, two goats were presented to the High Priest. Lots were cast for which goat would be made the sacrificial offering for the sins of the people. The goat not chosen to be sacrificed by the short straw then witnesses the High Priest lay his hands on the head of the doomed goat and pronounce the sins of the people be upon you. It then witnesses its fellow caprine have its throat slit. As the bloodied and slain goat was lifted onto the Brazen Altar, the blood-splattered-yet-living goat would be released to flee through the open gate into the wilderness. This is where the expression "Scape Goat" comes from. It is a picture of us on Judgment Day before God. Two things become immediately clear: But we are not standing before God alone. As God pronounces judgment against us, the One standing beside us steps in front of us to take our punishment and bear the wrath of God. The One standing beside us is Jesus Christ. He was the Yom Kippur Goat. We who have accepted Him as our propitiation are like the goat that is allowed to escape. And this Old Testament illustration serves to illustrate another big word of the Bible. If you turned up to our appointment and I said to you, "Justify yourself! To justify yourself is to give a good enough reason to be considered innocent. What can we possibly say before God to justify ourselves? The only satisfactory answer is: For the judgment following one trespass brought condemnation, but the free gift following many trespasses brought justification. It is one of the distinguishing hallmarks of Christianity. Without being spiritually regenerated you can not be a Christian. Jesus used this term in different words when He told Nicodemus that he be born-again John 3: This is why becoming a Christian is not merely an intellectual exercise. Neither is it merely turning over a new leaf morally. The Bible teaches that regeneration is not the result of anything we do. It is entirely the work of the Holy Spirit gracing a spiritually dead person. To be spiritually dead is to be separated from God by sin. But your iniquities have separated you from your God; And your sins have hidden His face from you, So that He will not hear. Have you been regenerated? It means to purify. Most Christians use this word to talk about their Christian growth. In this sense, sanctification means to grow holier or spiritually purer. But now that you have been set free from sin and have become slaves of God, the fruit you get leads to sanctification and its end, eternal life. But this may not be the most accurate usage of this word in the New Testament. It seems that sanctification has two aspects. Firstly, there is its judicial aspect. In the eyes of God the reconciled, regenerated adopted child of God is sanctified made holy by virtue of Christ. This sense of sanctification is therefore a past event. The second sense of the word is the practical aspect. This sense of sanctification is therefore a present event. For this is the will of God, your sanctification: The biggest word in Christianity is grace. Why would a God who demands our happiness and complete joy and that we be at peace with Him and others, be so furious when we replace true happiness for idolatry or peace with others for selfishness? This is partly because this is mutiny in the highest order. It is like saying to God, "You are inept at running the universe! You are the biggest loser in the cosmos! You do not deserve credit for anything! I know more than You. I want nothing to do with You -Your words - Your will - or Your ways! Spiritual deadness ranges from denying there is even a problem this is called lying - 1John 1: No matter where a person is on this range of spiritual mutiny and treachery, they are completely unable to rectify their situation and find peace with God. But God has chosen to rescue His enemies.

Two Little Words with a Big Impact 1. I try to find the best in every situation. As a veteran teacher, I know that praise can be a huge motivational tool. I generously sprinkle uplifting comments around my classroom like I am fertilizing flowers. Each new school year brings a garden variety of students, and they all blossom with praise and encouragement. I know how to thank my grown kids, my grandkids and my husband for a job well done. I toss compliments to the unsuspecting if it appears someone needs a lift. I also yo-yo my positive comments right back when I use the word that makes my preschoolers giggle – BUT. When one of my students attempted to print her name, I oohed and ahed. That is a great A, and your letter, D is nice and tall, but your letter, E should be short; can you erase it and try to make it shorter? She tried to live up to my expectation. I thought I was helping, preparing her for kindergarten, showing her the difference in size between upper case and lower case letters. I listened to her. I could hear her slowly deflate. Recently I visited my son and his six-year-old little boy and six-month-old daughter. I scooped up my grandchildren and bragged. He babysits while my daughter-in-law works weekends. I told him he was a great father; I praised him for his devotion to his family. He beamed as though he was a little boy, and then I flubbed. I told her how beautiful she looked. I was thrilled he had lightened my work load. I told him how wonderful he is, and I used that naughty word again. I lose a pound; I eat a chocolate; I gain a pound. The bar on my treadmill makes a nice rack for hanging laundry. I vacuum on weekends. I am going to refrain from using the B word. I think I can do it, and I am going to give it my best. I know it will have a positive effect on others. BUT if I mess up, I will try again, and again, and again to remove that naughty little word from my vocabulary. I resolve to replace it with the word AND. This is a resolution I intend to keep! Therefore you shall obey the voice of the Lord your God, and observe His commandments and His statutes which I command you today. Cursed is the one who treats his father or his mother with contempt. We accept your judgments. But God, we know that your way is the right way. And by your grace, we will obey. There have been times that I have thought of what I might do if met this kid in a dark alley, when no one could witness my response to his rude behavior. But God, we know your way is the right way. Our Father in heaven, hallowed be Your name. Your will be done on earth as it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread. And forgive us our debts, As we forgive our debtors. And do not lead us into temptation, but deliver us from the evil one, for Yours is the kingdom and the power and the glory forever. Lord, we believe that you will answer our prayers according to your infinite goodness, infinite power and perfect will. And every time He was urgently trying to get our attention. Unless you are born again, you can never get into the Kingdom of God. Unless one is born of water and the Spirit, he cannot enter the Kingdom of God. He wants us to know beyond the shadow of a doubt that we must turn away from sin, and trust in Jesus Christ as our Savior and Lord. It is one of the names that God has chosen for Himself. In Revelation 3 Jesus called out to the lukewarm Christians of Laodicea. Jesus wanted them and us to be on fire for Him. He was also a committed Christian. And in the dark of night on Oct. We use a lot of big words when we talk about God. He is all-powerful, all-present, and all-knowing. Where do these words come from? Here are some of the ways the Bible helps us understand our awe-some God: For as the heavens are higher than the earth, so are my ways higher than your ways and my thoughts than your thoughts. His nature and plan are infinitely beyond human understanding. God is infinitely different from us in His thoughts and ways. Because God is holy Leviticus By clicking the plus sign, we can dig into the second layer of notes to read: The transcendent nature is not like people and infinitely above people. The immanent nature is intimately present with people and among people. His nature as uncreated and separate from His creation is a fundamental concept distinguishing a biblical understanding of God from other philosophical or religious theories, such as pantheism or monism. We serve a God that thinks about our lives, our world, and his creation on a completely different level than even the smartest human has the capacity to think. But we can ask him questions and pray that he points us to something we can understand. Have you not heard? The Lord is the everlasting God, the Creator of the ends of the earth. He does not faint or grow weary; his understanding is unsearchable. But the thunder of his power who can understand? Elsewhere, God speaks in a whisper 1 Kings He never discovers anything, he is never surprised, never amazed. There will always be more of His wisdom to understand, more of His power, more of His holiness, more of His love. We will never fathom Him, and we will never tire of Him. Through all eternity, we will look upon Him and marvel at the endlessly creative, wonderfully gracious, uniquely righteous, timelessly beautiful, unsearchably glorious, infinitely loving Maker and Ruler of all. Job uses a similar phrase but with a different emphasis. Fear not, you are of more value than many sparrows. Faith does not make clear all mysteries, but it is consoling to believe that a loving God knows the answers. He is close enough to separate one hair from another and give each one a number. Fear not; he is close. He is interested; he cares. Be of good courage, and speak the truth whatever the cost. And before you were born I consecrated you; I have appointed you a prophet to the nations. The FSB has a lot to say on this one verse. In Immersion Bible Studies: Deuteronomy , Jack A. But of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil, thou shalt not eat of it: But this was just the beginning. Prophecy must be fulfilled. Let me tell you how to teach your message. Satan has greatly convinced the vast multitude of SDA, that it does not mean what it says. Just like he did in the original trickery in Eden! In other words, Satan does not want you to read it as it is written, rather side step certain words and make a different meaning. I mean God is not stupid if He wanted the message to say that there was to be a multitude of Elijahs to come-He would have said that! As many of you know we have posted about how God will set up a pre-millennial kingdom in Israel very shortly. Daniel 2 was one of the prophecies that brother Houteff, under Inspiration unlocked for us. Many of us know that Daniel 2 has traditionally been interpreted as showing Christ coming to the earth as the stone destroying the evil kingdoms of the earth. This is true but not as we have mistakenly been led to believe. Christ, through His servants, the , do this. However Satan has fooled many in this interpretation. After describing how the stone comes from the mountain and destroys the existing kingdoms ten toes Dan 2: But the vision does not say that. Those who rightly divide His word are safe from these deceptions however. He is to come before the great and dreadful day of the Lord. Satan well knows this and has prepared for a long time to mislead here. He does his old Eden simple word trick again! In Jezreel letter, no. We as intelligent humans certainly know that when something is the very last, there is nothing concerning that subject, thing or person that would come after it. Well, we would hope. But not according to the deceiver! He has done an ultimate deception here. You see, Satan knows that Davidians are the ones to fear, for they know the truth as it is in the prophecies and therefore if he can trick them somehow, someday, he will make a big dent in the Elijah message. Sadly, some DSDA have fallen for this trick. Just as he did in Eden. Satan has them around, so one must read the original writings by brother Houteff to be safe. Fortunately these people are the minority among the DSDA and if one is walking upright with the Lord, the Spirit of Truth will guide you and keep you from stepping into such deception. Little words may mean BIG things to us.
