I thought it would be a great way to start the year by creating a Tool Guide for crafters young and old alike.. Have you been searching for the right paper flower making tools? You are at the right place below are listed the top tools required to make paper flowers. I love to use the following tools for many of my large and small projects. Here is the List of My Top 5 tools that you can rely on! Fine steel Scissors I have used and gone through tons of scissors and one of the best ones I have come upon to get fine details in flowers is a simple barbers scissors! I got mine at my local grocery store Shoprite here in CT. I have felt frustrated with my scissors many times and by researching many and going through many I have come upon this one! Fiskars Scissors My most trusted scissors for cutting thicker paper and cardstock is this. I think I virtually have this scissors in every step out of my book "How to Make Paper Flowers" Again I have cut tons of paper with this! Scorer Initially I was not much of a fan of a score board but when I started to origami boxes, this has proven this extremely useful to get clear and crisp score lines. Bamboo skewers During my craft journey I never used to use these until I started to work with clay, clay techniques do involve using bamboo toothpicks. So it happened by chance that I had only bamboo skewers on me after a season of grilling: My mom used to use small thicker wire to roll the edges of paper as seen in my DIY videos but I think the bamboo definitely has taken over that in my research! Wire cutters To tell you truth I hate cutting wire! Great on the hand -the other takes a toll on your hands! Especially with 18 gauge or more stem wire. I have found it great to cut the stems of a bouquet that extend at the end and you want trim it at the end. It is only great for wire cutting but.. Glue gun A great glue gun is essential! I started using the mini glue gun from Michaels because it could achieve fine work. The large is great for large work but a stand is essential. Use only in a well aired room and keep kids away due to smoke inhalation and burns. Make sure to buy a dual or a high temp to do large projects. For my new Year Resolution is to reduce my social media to the minimum I felt it was tapping my creativity and family time..
