

Chapter 1 : - Hello Daisy! (Little Petals) by Mandy Ross

Follow Daisy through her day in this enchanting book, and learn simple facts about the environment of a familiar garden flower. As you turn the pages in these tactile board books, the fabric petals magically fold and unfold.

I have since purchased and used the Hana-Ami flower loom. It comes with basic instructions. To make the daisy motif blanket, you can use the join-as-you-go method. Just follow the last-round instructions the green and JAYG using this diagram. You can find lots of flower loom instructions and ideas here. Oh, how I want a purse made from these daisies. Alas, I could not find anything. So, just as in the case of the chain-link , I came up with a crochet daisy motif pattern that will fit my needs. Incidentally, I am now also fixated on getting a flower loom. Crochet daisy motif center: I used a 4 mm hook, resulting in a 4 inch motif. First, with color A yellow in this example chain 2 and make 6 single crochet into the second chain from your hook the very first chain. Join to the first sc with a slip stitch. Yarn over, insert hook into first sc, yarn over, pull up a loop twice. You will now have 5 loops on your hook. Yarn over and draw through all loops on hook first sc 2 together made. Do the same into each sc around sc 2 together in each sc. Join with a sl st to first stitch. Cut yarn and weave in ends. Join color B white in this example to the inside loop of one of the sc. In the photo below, I have the hook in the outside loop as an example of what NOT to do haha. After you have joined color B, chain 12 as shown in the photo below. Notice that the nubbin is pointed away. Essentially, you are working into what seems to be the wrong side of your work. Slip stitch into the same loop you started in to make the first petal. Chain 12 again and sl st into the same loop. You now have 2 petals in your first loop. Slip stitch into the next loop, ch 12, sl st in same loop, ch 12, sl st in same loop around until you get to the end. Slip stitch in first loop and finish off color B. Join color C green in this example to any petal. Chain 1, sc into the same petal, chain 4. Sc into next petal, ch 4 around. Join with a sl st to first sc. Finish off and weave in your ends. These motifs will be easy to join together as you work. Also, here is a blanket pattern diagram!

Chapter 2 : DAISY TUTORIAL – CURLED PETALS | laurenskraft

Hello Petal Flowers Shop Now We are a little flower shop located just off the corner of the Princes Highway and Daisy St in Fairy Meadow, just north of the Wollongong CBD.

And this is the paw that he reaches out with. Clever cat this one. Ok so now on with the tootie you are here to see. This is another daisy, this time made with a die from My Favorite Things called Plentiful Petals and is just a gorgeous die. But this style of shaping works just as well with any daisy shaped flower as you will see from some other examples later on. Ok so as you know I have a bigshot and these are the three petal dies on my All Purpose Mat and one cutting pag below. Now just a little trick I learned a while back that you may not be familiar with, but you will love if any of your dies want to keep the diecut and not give it up easily. See that roll that roll of paper, right?? That is wax paper, you know the lunchwrap stuff, is waxed on one side. So tear yourself off a pice of it, I use a steel ruler. Lay it over your dies, wax side down. Lay your cardstock for cutting over the wax paper. Then put your cutting mat over the top. Mine is fairly ratty and when it bends a little more it will be out quick smart. But I use mine for a long long time and let them almost get non see through before I toss them. I find sometimes I need to shim a little more when they get chopped up like this, but they still work, yes the back of your diecut will get marks on it, but it is the back and no one sees it, so save yourself money and let your mats last as long as possible. Another thing about bent and marked mats, is that with Sizzix original and Bigz, they can be as marked and twisted as can be and still cut perfectly. I use old mats for those all the time and for cutting things like foil and tin cans. Ok enough on that now, get onto the flowers please. See how they just popped away from the dies with the wax paper on them??? Now this works with bare dies as well as the dies with ejection foam on them, they get the foam squished down and you need to replace it – not so with wax paper!! But just flick it between your fingers and it will separate easily. This beats the poking and banging to get diecuts out of dies, especially thos intricate ones that we all love the look of, but hate the separation issues that come with the cutting. So how cool is this??? I love my die cutter and my dies and I really am thankful for wax paper!! Ok so now I have cut all these flowers so I will show you how to put them all together to make such pretty flowers. Did I tell you my favourite flower is the daisy? Now take an inkpad or sponge and ink the edge of the petals. Keep inking right around the flower, each petal needs the tips done. This is how your petal should look, or something like this, you may like more colour or less colour than I do, there is no right or wrong amount, just colour as you like. You could also do this with chalks or any other colouring medium you have Now do the same to the 3 different sized petals you need to make the flower. Now take the flower in your hand and fold up the petals toward the centre. Go right around the flower doing each petal. I tend to do the petals in twos!! This is how they should look now. To curl the petal down, place the bone scorer behind the petal almost at the base and draw up the petal, just like curling ribbon, but be a little gentle. See it is just my mini bone scorer. Hee Hee, not likely!! I can use him on another flower, maybe one with more layers. So you end up with 3 different sized petals, coloured and curled. Just so you know how much work I have to do, all of these need to be done€. So now just get some white glue PVA and start with the biggest petal. A drop of glue on the non stick mat. A tiny amount of glue on the centre of the flower, add the middle size flower, then glue in the centre and add the smallest flower. Add a big dollop of glue in the centre and add a rhinestone. My rhinestone is about 1. Well that is the purple ones done, now for the lime ones. These are great for flower scatters on party tables.

Chapter 3 : Hello Petal Flowers (@hellowpetalflowers) â€¢ Instagram photos and videos

Find great deals for Little Petals: Hello Daisy! by Mandy Ross (, Board Book). Shop with confidence on eBay!

Daisy Simple white daisies are very pretty when you put a bunch of them together. They compliment the colors around them so well, too. Technically, these daisies are pretty much the same as the garbera daisies I did last year, but I did put a bit more effort into making the petals this time. You can just use plain white clay for the petals, but I decided to do a faint light green gradation to go with white. The gradation tutorial is found here. First make a tiny log with your clay, about 2mm diameter. Flatten the log so that that it is about 1mm thick. Slice off about petals less than 1mm thick. The number of petals on a daisy varies on the flower. Now flatten the petals with the tip of a tooth pick. Try making the tip of the petal a bit pointy. Make a tiny ball with some left over clay, and start planting the petals on it. I used the tip of the toothpick for this process. Now, get a small yellow ball of clay out, and gently press in the middle of the flower. With the tip of a needle, make a texture on the yellow clay. After the petals have completely hardened, use the curve of a toothpick, and slightly curl the petals. Next, flip the flower over, and glue on a small ball of green clay. If you are using an oven bake clay, make sure you use glue that works with your brand. With the tip of a needle, draw some vertical lines along the ball. Pole a tiny hole with a tooth pick, and let this new addition harden. I always find it very interesting how flowers suddenly look a lot more realistic once the stem is on them.

Chapter 4 : I'm a Little Daisy | Laptime Songs

Note: Cover may not represent actual copy or condition available. Stock photo.

Form a Daisy Circle. Make a fairness bracelet. Girls must use fair share of beads. This is part of following the Girl Scout Law. What do you know about being honest and fair? Ask if there ever was someone who broke the rules and how did that make them feel. We also are being honest when we tell the truth. Have a garden story time. Discuss questions from adult guide. Garden Scamper game page 53 of the adult guide. Daisy Meetings Curriculum Parents- we will be earning petals at a fast pace. Girls color and decorate their Color Me! Girls can also color the Responsibility Page. You and the girls join hands in a circle. The group moves on the count of 1 toward the inside of the circle while holding hands. You can also do Goodbye. Have the girls sit in a circle. Let them know this is their Daisy Circle. Girl Scout Promise page 37 in the adult guide. Welcome to the Daisy Flower Garden. Ask girls to share their colored pictures of the arrival activity of the garden girls: Cora, Campbell, and Chandra. Let them know these garden friends will be with us throughout our journey through the Daisy flower garden. Give each girl a wide craft stick to decorate and help her put her name on. Also provide two cans such as coffee cans that girls can help decorate. When the cans and sticks are complete, you have an easy way to get girls to help with any chores related to meetings. At the same time, encourage all the girls to be part of the clean-up process. Get in the Friendship Circle page 45 in the adult guide Attachments.

Chapter 5 : Little Petals: Hello Daisy! by Mandy Ross (, Board Book) | eBay

Little Petals Nursery Reborn Baby Dolls, Helensvale Gold Coast. K likes. Reborn Baby Dolls for Adoption.

Chapter 6 : Daisy - Mimi's Little Sylvanian Town

Hello Daisy! (Little Petals) Mar 1, by Mandy Ross and Annie Kubler. Board book. $ (14 used & new offers) 3 out of 5 stars 1. Olivia The Orchid Fairy.

Chapter 7 : A Quilt for a Little Girl " Hello Petal | Quilting in the Rain

Hello Petal Flowers, Fairy Meadow, New South Wales, Australia. 2, likes 5 talking about this 84 were here. Flowers for the ones you love. Hand.

Chapter 8 : Stitch of Love: Patterns: Crochet Flower Brooches

A little bit later he mowed the lawn. I like the idea that those whispering petals mingled with the grass to make to make our garden a little sweeter. So Happy February to one and all, and I hope this post is a friendly reminder to take time out to smell the roses.

Chapter 9 : 'Daisy' poems - Hello Poetry

*Hello everyone, Let me tell you a bit about my hair first off, it's an absolute pain in the ar*e and secondly, it's high maintenance and thirdly, it's an absolute pain in the ar*e (repetition was intended). However with a bit of tender love and care it 'can' be the complete calendrier delascience.com year I had my hair permanently straightened at a salon for a.*