

Chapter 1 : How to Pick the Right Wife - Bold and Determined

Edit Article How to Choose a Husband. In this Article: Finding a Potential Husband Making Sure You Are Ready Checking for Long-Term Compatibility Community Q&A Many people will say that you will "just know" if you've found the perfect future husband.

If you pick the perfect man to love, relationships are a breeze. By perfect man, we mean perfect for you. The answer is clear and brutally honest: That is so hard to hear for so many people, but if you believe there is someone out there just for you, picking the first guy to come along has nothing to do with fate, destiny, or true love. Guys are pretty much what you see is what you get. The answer is simple: You need to go deeper. Find out everything you need to know before you let this man into your heart. When you ask a lot of questions and you ask the right questions, you not only get a glimpse of what life will be like with this new perfect man, you also engage him on a very deep level. We need to check in on how you feel. Any man you are considering should be help up to the following questions to see if he really could be the one. Can I spend the rest of my life with this guy? What is his current lifestyle like? Could he be part of your circle of friends? Can you take him along for family activities? Does he compliment your lifestyle and career choice or would he be embarrassing to bring along? Will your friends and family see him as the perfect man? Does he make my life easier? Think hard about this one. The whole purpose of being in a relationship is having someone to share the human experience with. Two people getting together to conquer the world as a team. Is he really part of your team or are you more like his assistant, his bank, or his mother? Does he have a future? Whether in relationships or in business, poor partners make poor partners. Was he hurt by an ex-girlfriend or ex-wife and now he hates women? Bless you for giving him a chance, but you have a truckload of work ahead of you in this relationship. Great relationships are effortless. The more the right man is ready and willing to give his love to you, the happier your life will be. Does he interest me intellectually? Are you guys both on the same page? It sucks dating someone you look down on. Does he understand my emotional needs? Am I attracted to him sexually? Why is this one so overlooked? The trick is to only allow the great guys a chance at your heart and pick the perfect man from the very beginning. Keeping the perfect man You found him, now what? Now we get to the hard part and most fun: How do I keep the perfect man happy and with me? The short answer isâ€œ Be Awesome! We all can use a little help in this department. This system is awesome because it kills all of those nagging little questions: Does he love me? Where are we going with this? Be sure you check out our section on how to be irresistibly attractive. After confidence, you have to take care of everything else. Find out some great tips on handling every aspect of your life. The more well rounded you are, the more captivating you become!

Chapter 2 : Perfect Guy Quiz: What Type of Guy is Perfect For You? - Sexy Quizzes | QuizRocket

If you make a careful and informed choice of the right husband the first time, you might never need to choose again. Knowing what you need most in a partner, what you have to offer and what he brings to the relationship can go a long way in helping to clarify who would make the most worthy partner, suggests couples therapist Teresa Maples in "What Makes Men Husband Material" for YourTango.

Contact Author Marriage is a wonderful institution. There is nothing like having the perfect mate to travel along the journey of life. What makes it special is when you have chosen someone that not necessarily shares all the interests you have, but at least respects them and you respect hers as well. Sure, marriage has its challenges. The key is choosing the right mate from the very beginning. By the end of this writing, I hope to have shared a bit of wisdom on how to choose a mate wisely and carefully. Men, understand that women are different. They think differently than we do! They love, unlike men. They hurt, unlike men. Some can be more forgiving; some less forgiving. That is why it is essential that you get to know how she thinks, how she reacts to situations, her values, her upbringing, why she does what she does, etc. Unfortunately, as men, we tend to focus on those visual things that stimulate us and choose based solely on these things see picture above. Physical beauty, wonderful words, affection, and sexual prowess are things that some men signal in on initially. Sometimes, these things become the predominant reasons to begin and continue a relationship. While they are important, they should not be the highest priorities in engaging in a long-term relationship that could lead to marriage. I have talked to men that have been in relationships for over five years and many of them are downright miserable. Some are scared of their mates. Some dread going home to nagging. Many engage in extra-marital relationships because communication and physical activity has diminished. Women may disagree, but many men cheat because they have tried and tried but the spouse does not reciprocate this is not a justification, it is an explanation. Women should not be hurt in relationships and men should not be miserable in them, either. Enumerated below are some tips that should be helpful in finding the right mate for a lifelong, marital relationship - based on mutual respect, love and trust. Do you share similar interests and beliefs? The woman you marry should have many of the same beliefs and interests as you. It means that there should be interests and beliefs you have in common. Does she have a good upbringing? She should be brought up in a loving home or at least have strong values and a good understanding of family life. She should respect others and love her parents. She should have good manners. This type of person will turn on you and make your life miserable. It is best she be left to her other unmarried female friends. Leave them to whine and commiserate over why no man wants to be with them in marriage. Maybe she will finally figure it out. A good wife will have achievements and successes that made her successful long before you came around. When you choose a wife, choose someone who has goals and aspirations in life that go beyond wanting to get married. Marry someone that is well educated. By this, I do not mean someone who has numerous degrees. I am talking about someone that is versatile and can have a discussion on various topics. I know women who have high school diplomas but can have more interesting conversations than those that have doctoral degrees. Is she attractive to you? Again, I am not just talking about looks here. Does this woman attract you? Are you drawn to her? Is her quirky humor something you love and do her dimples make your heart melt? Does she have a sense of humor? Life is not only about work, kids, career, etc. Life and marriage should also include loads of laughter, fun and humor. Laughter and fun should come easy and not be forced. How is she with material things? This is very easy to determine. If she consistently has to have nice things but fails to even provide you with a gift during special times, you need to run away as fast as you can! This person is stuck on herself and will drain you dry financially and emotionally in a marriage. It means that you should carefully watch and analyze her in different situations. Find out if she has any bankruptcies, judgements or a bad credit history. Trust me, she is trying to find this out about you. How was she in a previous relationship? Your emotional, physical and financial security depends on you knowing how she acted in previous relationships, if any. Find out as subtlety as possible. However, you can ask questions in a non-prodding, non-intrusive way. Use humor to illicit answers. If you are listening carefully, watching closely for non-verbal signs, etc. Let her know that you are not the man she was with previously. When necessary, let this be known clearly and unequivocally. Be very clear, if necessary, that you will not be disrespected nor mistreated, in any way. Has she ever cheated? When people are "openly dating," there is an understanding that no commitment is in place. It is understood and agreed by both parties that they will "see" other people. When a commitment is in place, both parties understand and agree that a monogamous relationship is in order. For example, if a teacher gives an exam and clearly states that you cannot use any material to assist, an understanding is in place. If you decide to use methods that go against this understanding, you are cheating whether you are caught or not. If the teacher states that an exam is "open book" and any materials can be used to assist, there is a clear understanding. If you decide to use your book, this is not cheating. Women cheat on their boyfriends and husbands. This is a fact. If it is wrong for men to cheat, it is wrong for women. You need to inquire of your potential wife as to whether or not she has engaged in this type of behavior. An affirmative answer alone should not deter you from marrying her. You need to find out the reasons why and determine if she justifies this behavior or if she is generally remorseful for the deceit. Do not believe the adage that "once a cheat always a cheat. But you have to be very careful and watchful. For emotional, physical and health reasons, you have a right to know if she is exposing you to possible physical DRAMA with another man as well as serious sexually transmitted diseases. Ask pointed questions and be observant. She does not want a potential husband that will put her life at risk. You deserve the same respect! Does she love you? Actions speak louder than words. Some of the best liars are outstanding communicators. If your car stops on a less travelled road, will she get out of bed to come and get you without debate? Does she comfort you when you are sick? Does she side with you when you are right, even at the expense of losing a good friend, who is obviously wrong? Is she supportive of your career aspirations? Does she accept you for the wonderful person you are or is she attempting to change you? Observe how she loves you. Do you have that feeling? More than any quiz, date or trial living arrangement will tell, you can usually know who to choose as a wife just by the feeling you get when you are around her. Men, we have intuition as well. They are a culmination of the experiences you have had with this person since you met. Regardless of what talk show hosts or other relationship-less people have to say, you DO NOT have to marry a woman if you are unsure.

Fulfillment by Amazon (FBA) is a service we offer sellers that lets them store their products in Amazon's fulfillment centers, and we directly pack, ship, and provide customer service for these products.

He is the first one whom she addresses for any joys or sorrows. Every girl dreams of her prince charming, the perfect guy for her who will take her into her magical dream world full of love. She wants him to be the best for her. And pleasing a girl is not as difficult as all you guys think. All they care for is a little attention, love and care. This list will surely help you to woo your beautiful wife or that pretty girlfriend of yours. We girls love being pampered like little kids. And a guy who pampers his girl every now and then can never go wrong with the relationship. Pampering makes girls happy. If your guy pampers you, it means your happiness is all he cares about. Pampering does not only include buying gifts. It can be small little gestures like writing a love note, getting a rose, surprising your wife with cupcakes, singing a song for her, dancing on her favorite song with her, cute text messages, making bed tea for her or anything else that will get a smile on your girls face. Trust me, these small little gestures tell us girls how thoughtful you guys are and make us fall in love all over again. Good sense of humor A guy with a good sense of humor is like a jackpot! Who would want to have boring conversations with their partner? Everyone wants a good laugh now and then. Hence, sharing inside jokes, that little giggle or that hilarious loud laugh becomes so much fun. We love guys who can make us laugh and adds a spark to the relationship. Humor gives the relationship a new dimension and keeps it fresh and healthy. Does your hobbies with you. If your husband takes out time to accompany you to do your hobbies, then you may be the luckiest girl in the world. Not only hobbies, going out with you for everyday work such as grocery shopping, or just going for a jog with you could be done too. These little things mean a lot for all the girls as it implies you want to spend most of the time with her and want be with her what so ever the case may be. Volunteering in doing things with her gives her a sense of belonging. All we girls do. But the case is not the same with guys. All guys do not love kids. According to me, a guy playing with little kids is the sexiest thing ever. At some point of time, you would surely want a family. And a guy who loves kids always makes a good father. He may not show his love to kids like you do. Girls do all the cheek pulling, talking in a squeaky voice and calling cute names to kids, guys generally do not do that. Look for signs how he reacts around kids playing. Does he get irritated and shout often at kids? Supportive A good husband is a one who supports you through your good and bad. He should listen to you and guide you to the right path and support your decision. Be it your career move or any other personal or professional decision, he should support you. It means he does not think you are on the right path and wants to be a good counselor to you. Dependable One of the many qualities all the husbands must possess is being dependable. Your girl should be able to depend on you for any work she asks for help with. The thing may be as little as grocery shopping or even a big event as planning a party altogether. If your girl can depend on you for each and everything, you are going perfectly right in your relationship. Makes you a better person. Relationships are about learning from each other. If you improve as a person and become a better person as you spend time with him, he is the right guy for you. It does not mean you change all together as a person, it means improving little everyday habits like eating your meals on time, becoming punctual or any other good habits you can grab from your spouse. After all, your life is meant to improve not worsen day by day. No one out there is perfect. Not only in terms of beauty, but also in terms of nature. It gives girls a feeling that their husbands love her for who she is and can appreciate her what so ever may be the situation. A relationship is about give and take. A good husband should sometimes compromise things to make his wife happy. Doing this once in a while makes her feel that she is your number one priority. Faithful It is a quality which both the persons in a relationship should possess. Be faithful to her. Do not cheat on her, ever. Being faithful to each other increases your trustworthiness altogether and makes your relationship long lasting. She should never have to worry about you cheating on her every time you go on a night out with your friends. A faithful husband does not mean your hubby should be restricted from talking to other girls. Rather it means, your hubby should never look at any other girl the way he looks at you. Any misunderstanding should be sorted out that day itself. He should be able to understand your problems, your difficulties, what you are trying to explain to him and communicate freely without any barriers. He should take out some time to talk to you. This is only possible if you put your ego aside and communicate with your partner. Trust Trust tops this list because any relationship is life less if it deprives of trust. Trust is the building block of a relationship. The stronger the trust gets, the stronger gets the relationship. This is the most important quality a good husband must possess. He should be able to trust you on each and everything and at the same time be trustworthy too. He should not spy on you or be suspicious of you. If you both can trust each other blindly, I am very sure your relationship is a perfect one.

Chapter 4 : How to Choose the Perfect Watch for Your Husband

You just have to pick the one that is close to your husband's taste. Also, remember the fact that expensive doesn't always mean the best. So, just choose the one that looks good to you and buys a robust casual watch which will last longer.

How to pick a wife. Advice for single men. JudgyBitch, hungry for some family time, ends up sitting at our dining room table, a plate of something warm and delicious in front of him, children cavorting silly and funny all around, a cat curled up under his feet and a glass of something fortifying at hand. Women who like being First Officer and are happy to have a Captain who takes the main responsibility for the crew. How much does she weigh? People come in all different shapes and sizes, and there is no wrong or right shape. It will not get better. Whether you prefer the softly rounded or the slender, the athletic or the sturdy, a stable weight goes hand in hand with a stable mind. Look at pictures of her over time. Wildly fluctuating weight is a sign of mental disturbance, and that is just what you do NOT want. How much does she care about her clothes? A pretty country dress, blue jeans and t-shirt, yoga pants or metropolitan chic. First of all, it can cost a shitload of money to keep a fashion conscious girl in circulation. Second, someone who invests a lot of time thinking about herself and what she looks like is not likely to be spending a lot of time thinking about YOU. And fuck that right there. Check out her closets. Are they stuffed to the seams with clothes and shoes and boots and accessories? Not what you want. Does she care if you are hungry? Young women today have very few domestic skills, a sad result of growing up with mothers who preferred cubicles and frozen pizza to a kitchen and fresh bread. Those skills can be learned, however, and all it takes is practice and desire. She can learn how to do those things. A woman who will bring you take-out, or heat soup from a can or pick up some bread and cheese from the bakery because YOU are hungry is on the right path. Caring about you starts with caring about what and when you eat. Does she have a loving family and close friends? There might be a good reason she has no friends. I prefer the company of men. There are plenty of women I hate and would not voluntarily spend one second with, but I also have a group of like-minded ladies who walk through life with me and I LOVE them to pieces. A woman who prefers the company of men over all women has a problem with lack of male attention. Give her a miss. Does she have an inner life? Whether that involves reading or analyzing baseball games or volunteering at the animal shelter, it means she has some capacity to consider the needs of others. Become a familiar face and you might find a willing conversational partner and then take it from there. Does she like children? The slightest hint of not liking children should send you running for the hills. The failure to see children everywhere as little people deserving of love and guidance and patience and tolerance is fatal flaw. Does she want a big wedding? In certain cultures, big weddings are an expectation and par for the course. UPSGuy would have been happy to elope, but her cousins would have killed her. So a big wedding it was, but in general, the desire for a big wedding is a hint that you have found a Princess, and not in a good way. You are an accessory and not much more. Princesses expect life to treat them royally simply by virtue of being born and they have little concept of what their duties and responsibilities are in relation to the kingdom. Ditch the Princess and look for a Queen. A Queen is different. She understands that she has obligations and that her privilege comes with a price, which she is more than willing to pay. A Princess will see you as a Daddy, who ought to take care of her and indulge her every whim. A Queen knows you are the King, and commands alongside you. A word about the dress, though. A big creamy taffeta and silk confection can be had for a couple hundred dollars and that is a lot of money, but if you can afford it, it will melt her heart and make her feel like she is living in a dream. Does she wear sensible shoes? Ok, this one is a personal peeve. I just think a girl in sensible shoes has her head on straight and knows that sometimes life will throw you a curveball and you need have your feet on the ground, solidly and be ready to catch or get the hell out of the way. It means practical, comfortable and affordable. Just what your wife should be. So there you have it. What to look for in a wife. Where to find her? Hell if I know.

Chapter 5 : 10 Qualities A Man Will Have That Make Him Perfect Husband Material | Thought Catalog

4 Ways to Pick Great Gifts for Your Husband's Personality. I've long been fascinated with personality traits. So much of what we do, how we react to certain situations, were based on predispositions.

This is the step that often gets missed or overlooked. The problem was simple: I was choosing the wrong men. This is where the problems develop. This is where all the questions and tears and doubt and uncertainties and fears start to consume you. This is just a glimpse into the confusion that ensues when you choose the wrong guy. The start of a relationship can oftentimes color our lenses and sometimes lead us down a bad path and into a toxic relationship. You meet someone, something clicks, and suddenly it feels like a force outside of you has taken over. You try to think about other things but nothing works. You ruminate over every detail of your interaction with him—what he said, what you said, what his body language said. You think about the things you wish you had said. You check your phone constantly to see if he called or texted. If he does, your stomach drops, your heart races, you want to leap off your seat and shout for joy. The high continues as you venture into a relationship, and it becomes even more intense. You never quite know where you stand with him. The uncertainty keeps you on your toes, constantly on alert for something that looks like a bad sign or an ominous foreshadowing. This emotional rollercoaster is as thrilling as it is exhausting. The worst possible thing that could happen is him leaving. You may check his Facebook profile, but only for a few minutes. You go out a few times, not expecting much, but soon enough your interest and attraction begin to grow. Which relationship do you think has a stronger chance of survival? Instinctively, you would say the second one. In real life, you would fall for the first. In movies and romance novels, love is this grand, all-consuming force that takes you over in the most dramatic of ways. Unhealthy Relationships Start With a Pull Relationships that start from a place of pure, unadulterated passion can seldom survive unless they have some substance and depth of connection to stand on. It can lead to great sex and feelings of euphoria, and you may come to understand why they say love is a drug, but no matter how intense and all consuming, that sort of thing is seldom sustainable long term. When you feel a strong and sudden pull towards someone else, the kind that causes you to turn him from mere mortal to deity-like being, something sinister is usually at play. Imago is Latin for image, and the theory essentially states that we unconsciously seek partners who reflect the image of our primary caregivers so that we can try to heal lingering wounds inflicted by them by working through issues with someone in their image. These relationships present the opportunity to heal ourselves and become whole again, but they also pose the risk of continuing to pour salt into open wounds. How it pans out is something like this: When we meet someone, we immediately sense everything about him, especially the way he makes us feel again, this happens unconsciously. If your unconscious finds something familiar in that person, something that reminds you of an unresolved hurt from the past, it will light up and push you towards that person. You may also unconsciously seek out partners who have some quality that is underdeveloped in you. Infatuation Being infatuated sounds like a grand, romantic thing, but it can actually be quite dangerous. Infatuation causes you to fall in love with an image rather than an actual person. It causes you to put someone on a pedestal and overlook his flaws. You rely on his approval so desperately that you also become a bit needy. You lose your sense of worth because it becomes so wrapped up in how he feels about you. Healthy Relationships Build Slowly Healthy relationships usually begin with mutual interest and attraction that grows over time. This is the complete opposite of unhealthy relationships, which usually start out with a grand light show that quickly simmers into ash. If you can internalize this, it will change the way you date forever. The most important trait to develop is objectivity. Your heart can lead you into all kinds of bad places. Your heart convinces you that the heart wants what the heart wants and who are you to deny your heart? It makes you do things that you later look back on and wonder, what was I thinking? It does have its benefits, but that comes later. The best way to do this is to try to go slowly. Ease into the relationship instead of diving in head first. This will create an environment for you to allow your level of interest and attraction to grow steadily over time, rather than flooding you all at once in a big emotional tsunami. If you spend all your time with him, you risk overlooking critical information about who he really is and if the relationship is built to last. It is imperative to have a foundation of compatibility, shared goals and interests, and common values. Before you emotionally invest, it is wise to determine if you are fundamentally compatible. And the best way to do this is to go slowly. When you first meet someone, you want to spend every minute of every day with him. Either way you have to date smart. If you just met or just started seeing someone, I strongly advise that you try to limit how much time you spend with him early on. Try to not go on more than two dates a week or engage in marathon texting sessions that go all day. So many girls make the mistake of getting caught up in how the guy feels about them rather than focusing on how they feel about him. You can avoid falling into this trap by doing regular reality checks. Make sure you see him and the situation clearly. The best way to do this is to make sure you can recognize his flaws. Why It Matters When you get in over your head, you may convince yourself that something like him wanting to live only in the country and you wanting to live only in the city is not such a big deal. In every one of these situations, the couple believed that things would magically just work out. Imagine how much time and effort they would have saved and heartbreak they would have avoided had they been dating with their heads instead of their hearts from the beginning. The common thread in most of these cases is that these women are choosing men who clearly are not husbandâ€”or even relationshipâ€”material and hoping that by some chance the men will suddenly transform into the knights in shining armor they want. Trust me, I know all too well how enticing those damage cases can be. The problem with these damage cases is that they often have a lot of the qualities we want, but not the ones we actually need. That was clear to me and everyone around me very early into our relationship. Doing so made all the difference. Suddenly the damage cases who were once oh so appealing did nothing for me. He loves your good qualities and accepts and embraces the bad without making you feel guilty for having flaws. You can share your true self and be vulnerable and feel safe doing so, knowing that if anything it will make him feel even closer to you. A partnership will sometimes require sacrifice and compromise. Life is unpredictable and unexpected. A guy who is husband material will be there for you when you need him. He will be in it with you; he will be your partner in whatever happens and will weather the storm with you, even though he might prefer to stay in the sunshine. He considers you when making decisions, both big and small. A relationship is a partnership, not a dictatorship. Factoring you in shows that he respects you and that he wants to create a life with you, not simply envelope you in his world. He is growth oriented. No one is perfect; we all have flaws. In a relationship, his behavior affects you and vice versa and sometimes his less developed traits will have a negative impact on you. A growth-oriented guy will want to work to strengthen his character. He has similar beliefs and values.

Chapter 6 : How to Pick a Really Good Husband | HuffPost Life

Enter your mobile number or email address below and we'll send you a link to download the free Kindle App. Then you can start reading Kindle books on your smartphone, tablet, or computer - no Kindle device required.

Trust me, I know all too well how enticing those damage cases can be. The problem with these damage cases is that they often have a lot of the qualities we want, but not the ones we actually need. He loves your good qualities, and accepts the bad. Without making you feel guilty for having flaws. You can share your true self and be vulnerable and feel safe doing so, knowing that if anything it will make him feel even closer to you. A partnership will sometimes require sacrifice and compromise. Life is unpredictable and unexpected. A guy who is husband-material will be there for you when you need him, he will be in it with you, he will be your partner in whatever happens and will weather the storm with you, even though he might prefer to stay in the sunshine. Considers you when making decisions, both big and small. A relationship is a partnership, not a dictatorship. Factoring you in shows that he respects you, that he wants to create a life with you, not simply envelope you in his world. No one is perfect, we all have flaws. In a relationship, his behavior affects you and vice versa and sometimes his less developed traits will have a negative impact on you. A growth oriented guy will want to strengthen his character and work on it. Common beliefs and values. If he is going to be your life partner, you have to make sure you both are on the same page when it comes to issues that matter. This can refer to religion, core values, lifestyle preferences, where you want to live, whether you want to have children. He views you as his partner. The relationship is something more than just you and him together, you and him are a team. And as that team, you are both individually stronger than you could be on your own. He sees you as his equal, as someone of great value who he can grow with, not someone who is there to feed his ego, give him validation, be his emotional crutch, be there to satisfy his needs. He respects everything about you-your thoughts, ambitions, opinions, the things you say, the company you keep, your job. He is willing to put effort into the relationship. If there is a problem, he wants to find a way to solve it, he wants to work harder, to be better, to be his best self. The important thing to keep in mind is that people have different ideas of what it means to put effort into a relationship. Even about tough issues and even if one person is upset with the other. You know he respects you and will see what you have to say as valid and important. Every relationship will face its share of obstacles. The only way to emerge from the tough times better and stronger is to work through them together and this starts with open communication. You feel safe being open and honest with him and are not afraid of him violating that trust or using anything against you. You trust that he cares about you deeply and would never intentionally hurt you. He wants to marry you. When a guy is ready to get married and meet a girl he thinks he can spend his life with, he knows pretty early on. If he still feels like he has wild oats to sow and is still drawn to the single, bachelor, party boy lifestyle, he is not marriage-minded and you are setting yourself up for disappointment. If what you want is a serious, lasting commitment, make sure he is on the same page before you do anything. This post originally appeared at A New Mode. Want more writing like this?

Chapter 7 : For Men: Choose a Wife Wisely and Carefully | PairedLife

Joan Hunter is a compassionate minister, dynamic teacher, an accomplished author, and an anointed healing evangelist. Joan is the daughter of the Happy Hunters, Charles & Frances Hunter.

My husband Randy and I were 23 years old. Thirty-five years ago we knew nothing much except we loved each other. But looking at this young bride, I give her kudos for one thing. She knew how to select a mate. To that end, I have 8 thoughts for any women out there not sure if their guy is husband material. Contributors control their own work and posted freely to our site. If you need to flag this entry as abusive, send us an email. Newlywed couple walking on beach I came upon my wedding picture recently, taken June 7th, To that end, I have 8 thoughts for any women out there not sure if their guy is husband material Pick a funny man. The first time I met Randy we were 19 and sitting in our college cafeteria. He made me laugh That was my first impression of him. Almost 40 years later, he still makes me laugh It will sweeten the good times and soften the bad. Pick a sweet man. The first time Randy arrived for a date he gave me a little bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums. Even now, Randy still brings me flowers. He knows how much I love having a fresh bouquet in my Connecticut kitchen. I love that he does that. Pick a man who loves music. Our marriage has always had a great soundtrack. Pick a smart man. One of the things I love about our marriage is the snappy dialogue. Whatever our mood and circumstance, we always have interesting conversations and that keeps life intriguing. Pick a good man. While I can be prickly and snarky, Randy always takes the high road. He sees the best in people. He never holds a grudge. He treats everyone with dignity and respect. He could strike up a conversation with a mailbox. I wish I had his openness. Pick a strong man. What a great example to our two sons. What a great example to me. Pick a passionate man. Randy has many interests like music, wine, and alas What can I say? Things could be worse. He could also enjoy amassing snakes or antique surgical equipment. Pick a good father This is most important. I knew Randy would be a good father by the way he treated our first cat Floyd. I adopted Floyd to jumpstart Randy into wanting kids. It worked like a charm. I got lucky and I know it. I found my best friend early in life and we got married and somehow kept it together. Did I miss anything? What makes your marriage work? Laurie Stone writes from the woods of Easton, CT. You can also find her on Facebook.

Chapter 8 : Everything You Need To Know About Choosing The Right Guy | Thought Catalog

Pick a strong man. For the past 35 years Randy's risen countless mornings and gone to his corporate job with aching joints and a body that doesn't always feel great.

If you will get married then this article is for you. We will not review whether or not you should get married but we will review how to pick the right wife. Picking the right wife is of utmost importance. Marriage is a life-long commitment and requires a great deal of forethought. Getting married without a plan and without any forethought is a terrible decision. Getting married is a business decision. Marriage is a contract between two entities. Those are inventions of TV and movies. Marriage is an exchange of resources. Your wife shall provide A and you will provide B. No businessman who wants to stay in business will sign a contract in an emotional state of mind and no man who wants to stay married will sign all of his power away just because he loves her. It takes rational, clear-headed planning and thinking to pick the right wife material. There are only two reasons a man should ever get married: We will not talk about this except to say that a political wife is for show and show only. For this article we will assume the reader falls into the first category. There is absolutely no other reason to ever get married. Love is not a reason to get married. When you get married you sign all your power over to your wife – it must be of some benefit for you to do so. That benefit is to grow old with your family. The goals of a marriage should be: Be honest about what you want: We all want a sweet, nice, joyful, feminine woman who treats her man like a King. Bullshitters will suck up to the dregs and say the opposite in a futile attempt to get some action. These poor suckers get shit on the most and never understand why. Women hate suck-ups as much as they hate stepping in dog poop on the street. To a woman, a male suck-up is less than human. There is no denying that marriage is a very, very bad deal. When you get married you immediately give your wife all the power over your money and your children. If your wife is to decide she wants a divorce she can have all the benefits of being married and none of the drawbacks. Divorce is theft from the man. She can live off of your paycheck via alimony and child support and she can keep your children and raise them in a single-mother or step-daddy household. She has the complete and full support of Papa Government behind her. In the eyes of the law she can do no wrong and you can do no right. And there is nothing you can do about any of that. Steps should be taken to minimize the chances of divorce. You must take extra special precaution to choosing the right wife so you can avoid the possibility of a financially devastating and family ruining divorce. When to get married: The best time for a man to get married is after 30 years of age. At that age he has had a long time to live life, earn money, think of what he wants in a wife, and settle down a little bit. The ages of are the wild years but after the 30 year mark men will tend to settle down. Now remember, 30 years old is the starting age to think of marriage. Anytime between is a good time to tie the knot. We have spoken about the need for a good woman here. In the following section we will look at how to determine good women from bad women. The top 12 rules for picking the right wife to maximize a happy life and minimize the chance of divorce – 1 She should be young. You want the most amount of years with your wife having a tight, young, firm body. After 30 it goes downhill fast. Never take a woman already in her bad years. Women do not age well. Single women over the age of 30 have wasted all their pretty years having a lot of random sex and now they want to find a sucker who will take care of them without having to give him any of her good years. A young body is especially important for bearing children. At 30 years of age a woman is already 15 years past her child-bearing prime. But I like talking to smart women. A dumb 20 year old is a dumb 30 year old. The difference is that the 30 year old dumb woman is a lot more bitter and has a whole lot less to offer. No step-mommies and step-daddies. Children from single mommy homes cannot be healthy. A mother simply cannot raise healthy children alone or with step-daddies. You want an emotionally healthy wife. Women who grew up with divorce have too much baggage, use sluttiness as a way to get attention from daddy, and will not know how to act in a proper family setting. Throw her back in the water and go fishing some more. To make a marriage work, both the man and wife must think of divorce as no option at all. Every woman will gain a few pounds when they settle with a man. What is unacceptable is a woman blowing up to whale proportions. If a woman was once very fat, lost the weight on crash diets and ultra-gym sessions, that weight will ALL come back plus more when she gets married. If she has to constantly diet and go to the gym she is about to blow up like a balloon when the ring is on her finger and the vows are spoken. You must pick the natural body type you like. She should have a pretty face. When her body goes the only thing that will be left is her face and you will have to see it every single day. A woman who gets pig-fat after marriage is a disgrace to herself and her family. She must be aware of her image and keep her body trim for you. Women will always gain a few pounds after marriage, but there is a difference between a few pounds and one hundred pounds. This is going to be the mother of your children and the keeper of your house. Two income households leave the raising of their children to expensive day cares and schools, and then mommy goes to work so they can afford to pay for day care and babysitters. The only reason to get married is to have a family. But I want a career woman. No woman wants to work but it takes some of them a long time to figure that out. How many 45 year old married female lawyers or other professionals do you know? The women who work in middle age do so because they have no choice and they whine about it every day of their life. They would give anything to leave their jobs and take care of their family instead. No woman truly wants to work. She cannot be a drinker or a smoker or have any tattoos. She cannot have a party girl past, a sordid past, and she cannot have gone out more than a couple times drinking. You cannot turn a whore into a housewife. The more sexual partners she has had the more likely the marriage will end in divorce. Are you saying all party girls, smokers and drinkers are sluts? The fewer sexual partners your wife has had, the better. The ideal wife should be a virgin. The more sexual partners she has had the more likely you are to be divorced in about 6 years and lose most of your money, possessions, and your children. If you think she needs help or that you are helping her and she is changing then you are being foolish and you are being played. Always pick a good girl. That means a virgin or close, family oriented, pleasant, eager to help, a smiler, and patient. When a woman is in love she will change herself to please and conform to you. Her new favorite food will become steak and eggs, she will enjoy watching all six Rocky movies with you, and she will do things to please you she has never done or liked before. Women are not men and should not be held to the standards of men. A man who changes his views on the whims of a woman is a sissy. A woman who changes her views on the whims of a man is a woman who is in love. Women marry up and men marry down, since the dawn of marriage. If she looks down on you she will leave with your money and your children.

Chapter 9 : How to Train Your Husband or (How to Pick Your Second Husband First) () - IMDb

If you're trying to find the right husband, make sure the guys you date want to get married. If your relationship is getting serious, ask about his future hopes and dreams. If he doesn't include marriage in his answer, ask him about it.