

Chapter 1 : Rise and Shine song and lyrics from KIDiddles

Now, in I Give You Glory, O God, Bridges offers you the best reasons and the best words for bringing honor to your awesome, incomparable God. In his third powerful volume of the Private Worship Trilogy, this beloved author gives you the encouragement, motivation, and specific guidance you seek for your private, individual worship of God.

Charles Spurgeon calls this the greatest request a man ever made of God. I think he is right. How could Moses have asked for anything larger? If we ask that a mountain be cast into the sea, we are asking for something we ourselves cannot do. But this prayer of Moses stands entirely alone. It is a category unto itself. No other request can be compared to it. We can only understand this request if we consider the context. Moses had just spent 40 days on Mount Sinai communing with the Lord. During those days on the mountain, God revealed to Moses his law and wrote the Ten Commandments on the tablets of stone with his finger. While Moses was with the Lord, the children of Israel grew restless so Aaron gathered gold earrings from the people and constructed a golden calf. The people offered sacrifices to the golden calf and began to engage in wild revelry. The Lord knew all about it and told Moses that he was going to destroy Israel and start over with a new nation that would worship him and not turn to idols. But Moses interceded with the Lord for his stiff-necked, rebellious people. He reminded God of the promise he made to Abraham and he also said that the pagans would say he brought them into the wilderness just to kill them. So the Lord relented and did not destroy the people. Then Moses came down from the mountain. When he saw the people and their wild celebration, he threw down the stone tablets in anger. He burned the golden calf, ground it to powder, mixed it with water, and made the Israelites drink it. Then he called for those who were still loyal to God to rally to his side. The Levites stood with him, and at his instruction, they went through the camp killing the idolaters. Three thousand people died that day. The next day Moses pled with God for forgiveness for his people. He even asked God to blot his own name out of his book in order to save the people of Israel. God told him to lead the people away from Mt. Sinai and toward the Promised Land, but with one significant condition: This is our greatest fearâ€”that when we go, the Lord will not go with us. It happens more often than we think. In our haste to get on with life, we take control of the situation and the results never work out as we hoped. I did that one all by myself. So Moses intercedes with God again. Then comes the great request in verse 18â€”"Show me your glory. Moses will be able to see his back as he passes by. That is more than any man had ever seen before. That is the most Moses could see and not die. And he prayed this way after he had broken the tablets of the Ten Commandments, and after 3, Israelites had died, and after he had interceded with God several times. No doubt the ongoing crisis had drained much of his natural strength. We all have a breaking pointâ€”and sometimes we discover it without warning. There is a lesson here if we care to take it. The mightiest oak tree in the forest looks invincible, but if you hit it in just the right place with a tiny ax, it comes crashing down. The ax may be small but it can bring down a tree in just a few seconds. It is a good thing that God sends us through fiery trials or else we would never see his glory. A year ago the doctors told him he has prostate cancer. In times past he made many mistakes and hurt his own family greatly. Tremendous guilt and pain. He said he works hour shifts and often goes high on the rooftops to pray late at night. It was while reading your book that God and I came to peaceful terms with cancer. Not only that but He gave me ability to see how cancer would be useful in His kingdom and in my life. If he had not had cancer, he would never have discovered these things. We learn more in the darkness than we do in the light. We grow stronger in affliction than when the sun is shining and all is well. It will be the same for us as well. God told Moses he would answer his prayer but not in the way he expected. In a sense, Moses had no idea what he was asking for. The light would blind us and then it would consume us. That alone would be overwhelming to Moses, but at least he would not die. Sometimes when we pray, we ask for things that we cannot bear alone. We want certain blessings but we have no idea of the cost involved. At the end of my sermon, I asked the congregation to pray for me in a special way during the year. On the spur of the moment, I asked people not to come into the sanctuary unless they had prayed for me that day. I told them I felt my need for their prayers very deeply and I begged them to pray for me. Later I found out that my request for prayer unnerved certain people. A few weeks later I repeated that request to the congregation. One lady came up and asked me why I had chosen this particular year to ask for prayer. A few weeks later I came to Word of Life Florida to teach for a week. Just a touch under the weather. After I finished my final message, I went back to my room and more or less collapsed. The next day I got a bit worse. That was in when I contracted mononucleosis. I ended up missing three Sundays preaching because of it. But my record was about to be broken. Later that Saturday I developed a pain that made it difficult for me to stand up. The flu or whatever it was had morphed into some kind of infection. By that night I knew I was in a bit of trouble. Later that day I started on a course of antibiotics that I hoped would help. The next day I was mostly unchanged. Early on Tuesday morning my brother called with the news that our mother had died. Although she had been declining, the timing of her death was a surprise. It hits you harder than you expect. So we rounded up the boys and began making the trip to Alabama for the funeral service. The day after that I spoke at the graveside service. It was cold and a bit windy on that early March day when we laid my mother to rest next to my father who had died 29 years earlier. Over people gathered for the brief service. My high school principal was there, folks from the church where we grew up were there, and there were many old family friends who had known my father and mother many years ago. Perhaps it happened partly because of my sickness, perhaps it was seeing so many old friends after three decades, perhaps it was because we were burying my mother and my father side by side. They just disappeared for a moment. Most of them were in their early 50s then; most are in their late 70s or early 80s now. It seemed as if the three decades in between had just disappeared. All this passed through my mind in a flash while I was speaking. I was standing three feet from where we buried my father. It was as if we buried my father last week, we were burying my mother this week, and next week someone would bury me. I had a tremendous sense of my own mortality, of the quickly passing years. This is where you will be someday. Yesterday my father died. Today my mother died. Tomorrow I will die. Yet decades may pass between those events. But all are certain to happen. I cannot totally explain what I experienced that day, yet it was profound to me and I am still thinking about it.

Chapter 2 : What does it mean to glorify God?

In I Will Follow You, O God, he equipped you to respond in fresh, authentic ways to the God you came to know better in your times of worship. Now, in I Give You Glory, O God, Bridges offers you the best reasons and the best words for bringing honor to your awesome, incomparable God.

Oh how I adore and praise Your name! I love You Lord, for who You are! I thank You for loving me and providing everything I need even before I ask. You are indeed the King of Glory! My God is awesome There is none like You, Lord. You are awesome in every way. I stand in your presence today Father, allowing Your Holy Spirit to saturate my heart and soul. Your love is so amazing. You quench my thirst. I bow before You and lift my eyes to You as in your presence I find refuge. You strengthen me Abba Father. In the name of Jesus, I open my eyes to see and my ears to hear, so I will receive what I believe. There is none like You Lord. Click To Tweet 1 Chronicles Declare his glory among the nations, his marvelous deeds among all peoples. Give praise to the Lord! He rescues the life of the needy from the hands of the wicked. Because He is at my right hand, I will not be shaken. I honor You, Father God, with all that is within me. I surrender my life to Your will. You are my God! I trust You Lord Jesus and know that I am safe in your arms.

Chapter 3 : [Download & Lyrics] Dansaki Re - Chi-Gospel | Simply African Gospel Lyrics

Now, in I Give You Glory, O God, Bridges offers In I Will Follow You, O God, he equipped you to respond in fresh, authentic ways to the God you came to know better in your times of worship. Now, in I Give You Glory, O God, Bridges offers you the best reasons and the best words for bringing honor to your awesome, incomparable God.

Chapter 4 : Psalm I will praise You, O Lord my God, with all my heart; I will glorify Your name forever.

Lyrics to "We Give You Glory" song by James Fortune & FIYA: We give you glory We give you glory We give you glory oh God We give you glory We give you glory We James Fortune & FIYA - We Give You Glory Lyrics | calendrierdelascience.com

Chapter 5 : I Give You Glory, O God Jerry Bridges WaterBrook

We give you glory We give you glory We give you glory Oh God 4X Hallelujah Hallelujah Hallelujah Oh God 2X For you have fought for me Defeated death for me.

Chapter 6 : We Give You Glory Lord chords by BIWT - Worship Chords

A Great Way to Start the Morning! Jerry Bridges has two other books like "I Give You Glory". All 3 are excellent! ("I Exhalt You, O God" and "I Will Follow You, O God") The books are broken down into 3 to 4 page chapters.

Chapter 7 : GOSPEL LYRICS: MORE OF YOU LYRICS BY WOMEN IN PRAISE

I do NOT own any rights to this song. Credits go to James Fortune.

Chapter 8 : Lyrics Search glory

I will give thanks to You, O Lord my God, with all my heart, And will glorify Your name forever. King James Bible I will praise thee, O Lord my God, with all my heart: and I will glorify thy name for evermore.

Chapter 9 : Show Me Your Glory | Keep Believing Ministries

DOWNLOAD PDF I GIVE YOU GLORY, O GOD

Our new desktop experience was built to be your music destination. Listen to official albums & more.