The first church was built in with wooden walls and nipa roofing. The municipal tribunal was erected later in the year in front of the town plaza using durable materials and thatched nipa roofing. Don Vidal de Arrozal served as its first gobernadorcillo that year. An expediente requesting the transfer of the provincial capital of Pampanga to San Fernando was signed on the August 6, Real Cedula , approving the transfer of the provincial capital of Pampanga from Bacolor to San Fernando, was signed on September 11, This transfer did not, in the event, materialize. In , actions were made to create the town of Calulut. This plan did not materialize, owing to strong opposition from the parish priest of San Fernando. The station was second only to Manila in revenues that year, and was thus the most important provincial station of the Manila-Dagupan Railroad. On June 27 of the same year, Dr. Rizal made a stopover in the town as part of his mission to recruit members to the La Liga Filipina. On September 1, the town was declared to be in a state of war despite its peaceful situation. The revolution was not yet at its height with occasional exchanges of fire in some places in Pampanga. On June 26, , representatives from all Pampanga towns, except Macabebe , gathered in San Fernando to swear allegiance to Gen. Maximino Hizon, who was the provincial military governor and representative of the revolutionary president, Emilio Aguinaldo. On October 9, Aguinaldo and his cabinet visited the town, and were welcomed with so much applause and enthusiastic cheering from the public. He proceeded to the convento which was served as the military headquarters at that time. On May 4, , Philippine revolutionary troops led by General Antonio Luna burned the casa municipal, the town church and several houses to render them useless to the approaching American forces. On June 16, due to the strategic location of the town, Aguinaldo himself led Filipino forces in the Battle for San Fernando. The plan to retake the town proved unsuccessful. Calulut fell to the Americans on August 9. The town of Minalin became part of San Fernando that same year. It would regain its political independence in On August 12, , U. Secretary of War William H. Taft visited the town to get first-hand information and gather ideas for the governance of Pampanga. Owing to the short notice, a bamboo pavilion was hastily constructed for his visit, where he was welcomed with a banquet for people. Taft would later be elected President of the United States. On February 14, , Philippine president Manuel L. Quezon proclaimed his social justice program before a gathering of farmers in front of the Municipal Government building. In , forces of the Imperial Japanese Army occupied the town and placed the municipal government under its supervision. In , the town of Santo Tomas was separated from San Fernando. In , Paterno Guevarra was sworn in as officer-in-charge of the town after the successful People Power Revolution that toppled the Marcos dictatorship that same year. He was later elected municipal mayor. In , Philippine president Corazon C. Aquino inaugurated the Paskuhan Village, the first Christmas village in Asia and the third of its kind in the world. The following year, Mount Pinatubo erupted after over years of dormancy hurling a layer of ash and volcanic debris on the town. On October 1, , Typhoon Sibyl Mameng struck the town. It unleashed floodwaters and mudflows from Mount Pinatubo into the town. The Barangays of Sto. The citizens of San Fernando rallied to save the town by raising funds to build the St. The Pampanga Megadike was constructed the following year, thus preventing further damage to the town. Aquino and Senator Gloria Macapagal-Arroyo launched the campaign for cityhood. On April 27 of that same year, Rep. Oscar Rodriguez filed House Bill No. The town officially became a component city on February 4, following the ratification of Republic Act in a plebiscite from the previous day, making it the 99th city in the Philippines. They could discipline and instill cleanliness by admonishing the public on littering, public disorder, and drunkenness through posted signs of fines and penalties by wayward revelers. Thanks for showing us. Vigan, ascent to Mt. Province-Baguio via Tagudin-Bitalag, beaches of Pagudpud are closer that could be visited that are as good as those I mentioned earlier. Maybe what they need there are restaurants, coffee shops, and even street vendors just to attract people. There is actually an airport at Poro Point but it is not being utilized. I am not sure what happened to the plan of making the airport an international airport? Why not at least have it extended to San Fernando or Bacnotan since Rosario is not that far away. The train which used to run from Tutuban in Manila to San Fernando has been out of commission for the longest time or for good. I think it would be great if it is revived. People would take the train for sure if that happens. I was lucky that I was able to ride the San Fernando-Manila train a few times when was a little kid travelling with my parents to Manila before it ceased operation. It was convenient, fun, and there was definitely more leg room in the train than in the buses we used to take. There is a plan by the Duterte Administration to revive the train system in Northern Luzon. However, it does not go all the way to La Union. It will end in Clark. The system will be a part of a commuter rail being planned for Manila and its suburbs which will end in Clark, Pampanga in the north and Los Banos, Laguna in the south. The southern section is actually being extended all the way to Sorsogon in Bicol. The folks in Southern Luzon are lucky that they will have their train back soon. Construction of the line is due to start soon. This is not fair. What about the San Fernando, La Union line? Paging the congressmen, governors, and mayors of Region 1 particularly the provinces of Pangasinan, La Union, and Ilocos Sur. We do need all these infrastructures in order that investors will come and also so we can uplift the lives of the people in our region Region 1 “ Pangasinan, La Union, Ilocos Sur, Ilocos Norte. We are being left behind by the other regions particularly the other regions in Central and Southern Luzon. Marcos had embarked on road, bridges, and infrastructures building all over the country, and we Ilocanos greatly benefited as everybody else. I too, experienced riding the train. It was a very exciting experience every time I get into it. Unlike riding the bus Zambrano, Binalonan, Pantranco, and Sta Lucia, to name a few , saan mo mga masapul ti agbalon ti liningta nga icklog for lunch. And remember what the american replied who happens to be doing his thing?

These will be a series of one day training events, the first of which is detailed below. In San Fernando City, there are BHWs working in 59 barangays that work as volunteers to help improve health and wellness in their neighborhoods and communities. According to Mayor Ortega, " these are highly motivated, selfless and dedicated people who are working every day to improve life in our city, and we all owe them our gratitude. During the assessment, they visited homes, interviewed residents, and observed sanitation practices related to wastewater discharge and septic tanks. As a result of the survey, a baseline was established that shows the current situation as far as septic tank desludging, as well as the knowledge, attitudes, and practices related to sewerage and septage management. This will include general information on how families can participate in the city septage management program, how to properly use and desludge septic tanks, and how to reduce odors, flies and other nuisances that result in poor wastewater management practices. It will include class room style lectures, and small group roleplaying where BHWs can practice the techniques presented. Schedule of Training Components 9: An eco-tank is now installed in Barangay Poro. We are happy to report that there is lots of new news to share concerning progress on the Sewerage and Septage Program here in San Fernando! First of all, the eco-tanks have finally arrived in Manila and will soon be transported to San Fernando! While bids for the new Septage Treatment Facility STF are still being reviewed by the Technical Working Group for the Sewerage and Septage Program, progress is ongoing and we can expect the contract to be awarded before Christmas, with construction beginning soon after that! Various role-playing techniques will be used to prepare the trainees for a variety of scenarios that they may encounter while delivering promotions and disseminating information throughout the Barangays. It is expected that this initial training session will also prepare the trainees to train BHWs throughout the city who will also deliver septage management information to their Barangays.
