There are a lot of silver paints and each one has its own special look and sheen. Some are easier to work with than others. The paint you use is important – some can look a little thin and cheap. Here is a list of some of the better quality paints! There are no sample sizes. Quayside and Silver Leaf paint colors are popular. Silver Leaf has a brass accent and has a slightly tarnished look. This spray is a paint and primer in one and looks like steel. Spray thin even coats for the best coverage without drips. Design Master Super Silver from Michaels. You can see what some of these paints look like, side by side, at Painted Furniture Ideas. How to Paint Furniture Metallic Silver? Painting furniture with metallic silver paint can be incredibly easy or very time consuming. You will probably need one small jar of MS Metallic paint as it spreads easily and goes along way. Oliver and Rust Remove hardware. Add 2 coats of primer to your furniture and allow to dry. Use a foam roller for the last coat to reduce brush strokes. Wipe it over the piece, then remove. Repeat until you have the finish you desire. If you prefer an aged look, less shiny and more depth, the aged metallic look is next. Creating an aged metallic silver paint look by painting wood furniture can take time and paint, as you layer different silver paints until you get the finish you want. Its recommended that you spray paint furniture for a faster and even result. There is a faux version further down this post. Its faster but the results are no where near as beautiful as this piece. Time for a makeover. If a piece is in good condition prime your furniture without sanding. If not, sand well, because every dent will be exaggerated when painted with metallic silver paint. Avoid using a sander on hand carved detailing; instead hand sand with steel wool to keep the detail in tact. Spray paint with several light coats until you achieve a good even coverage. For the best result, spray paint several light coats. Paint again, this time applying a metallic paint, with a specialty metallic paint roller. Using a regular brush can leave brush marks; giving a scratchy, less than even result. Roller several coats of the paint. Make sure you apply it to corners and carved areas. Sand with very fine sand paper if you have bumps or brush marks. Spray paint your hardware with very light coats of paint to match your piece. Fast Aged Silver Painted Furniture This technique from Petticoat Junction has less steps; fewer layers of paint for a less aged look in much less time. Apply 2 coats of Zinsser Primer in gray. Brush the piece with Caromal Colours Toner wipe off with a dry rag in random spots. Find the full tutorial here. Another beautiful piece from Petticoat Junction is this trolley. The toner ages your furniture and cuts the shiny silver look without hiding it. There are always shortcuts to get a look. This look from BHG adds paintable wallpaper to the front of this chest to add texture and interest. The wallpaper selected looks like pressed or tooled metal. Remove the drawers and hardware. If you stack the drawers, you can easily align the wallpaper pattern for a seamless look. Cut the wallpaper to size. BHG Glue the wallpaper to the front of the drawer using decoupage medium on the drawer front and the back of the paper. Allow to dry according to instructions. Paint over the paper with a base coat of silver paint. Allow to dry then glaze with a pewter glaze to give an aged or antique. Seal the surface with a coat of decoupage medium. Depending on the quality of the silver spray paint or silver furniture paint you choose, your furniture could look incredibly expensive and glamorous or like plastic silver covered furniture. Cheap silver spray paint may look attractive but it may not give you the result you want. You might cover your cheap look with a glaze or clear wax, but it pays to investigate and know the look you are going to get from the start. Get samples if possible and look at dried samples before you decide or buy. Try this look on lamps, ottoman trays or bedroom nightstands.

Chapter 2 : Find Your Color | Benjamin Moore

Enter your mobile number or email address below and we'll send you a link to download the free Kindle App. Then you can start reading Kindle books on your smartphone, tablet, or computer - no Kindle device required.

You can spend hours in the paint section comparing swatches and trying to find the perfect match. Thankfully, a wave of paint-color apps is making the task easier by letting you paint your wall virtually or match a paint color to a photo. Even better, these apps are free and Android- and Apple-compatible. Here are some of the hottest paint apps available. Users can upload photos and get advice from a color consultant via live video, audio, or e-mail. The app also provides how-to videos to help get your project off the ground. Two major complaints about this app: The color-match function lets you take a picture or select an existing one from your library, and the app will match that color with an existing Behr color. A notable detail is that you may get different color-match results for the same color sample. Mind you, these colors are extremely similar, but you should always put some on your wall first and look at the real paint color you are trying to match before making a purchase. The Behr app also lets you save projects, colors, pallets, and paint calculations so that you can come back to your work later. Paint My Place Paint My Place is the only app in this roundup that is not connected to a major paint company, so you can explore across three brands: The "painting" part is a little difficult because you either have to use your finger to spread the color, which make it difficult to be precise, or use the fill function, which also has a tough time staying within the lines. I tried "painting" a photo of my kitchen wall and got paint all over my table and also left a large unpainted space around the chairs. Of course, this function is designed to give the user an idea of what a color is going to look like—you can focus on the details later—but I found myself extremely distracted by my messy on-screen paint job! A major downside to the app is the ads. The paid version of the app suggests colors for the space in your photo and allows you to work with multiple colors. The app is available only on Apple devices. Color Capture By Benjamin Moore The app will match the colors in any photo and also show the next four closest shades. Color Capture and Paint My Place were tied as the highest-rated four stars of all the apps we compared in iTunes. As you are scanning through the various Benjamin Moore colors, you can save, e-mail, post to Facebook, or tweet out the color you find. Why not let your social-media followers help you decided between two colors? Many users noted that the colors look much different on the screen than they do in person. This is fairly universal with digital paint samples. The app also allows you to click on a certain color to match, and the palette will include a selection of complementary colors. You can view each color in a room example.

One the you can be certain about, though, is what color you want your new car to be. You can buy a car with the right look for you by "trying on" different paints with your digital image editing software.

Hyundai Paint Codes Infiniti - Always on the drivers door jamb. Easy to match up with our colors. Infiniti Paint Codes Jaguar - Usually on the drivers door jamb, but in older models, it can be under the hood, trunk, etc. Jaguar Paint Codes Kia - Usually on the drivers door jamb, but in older models, it can be under the hood, trunk, etc. Next is the color code 1C8. At the end is the trim code, in this case FB13 which is not part of the color code. Our site lists many of the two tone combinations so take a look at your year, make and model. Lexus Paint Codes Mazda - On the drivers door jamb, but in older models, it can be under the hood, trunk, etc. Mazda Paint Codes Mercedes - Located by the radiator. Right in the middle of a bunch of numbers. We get more emails from Mercedes owners due to the confusing color code markings. First look at the colors shown on our site and write down the the most probable color codes. Now, try to find this grouping of numbers on your vehicle. Some Mercedes have DB in front of the color code, but most do not. Mercedes Paint Codes Mini - Usually underneath the hood by the strut towers or by the driver door hinge. Mitsubishi Paint Codes Nissan - Always on the drivers door jamb. Again, determine the most likely code by looking at the colors on our site and then try to locate this code on your vehicle. Porsche Paint Codes Subaru - Usually underneath the hood by the strut towers. Subaru Paint Codes Suzuki - Puts their color codes all over the place so check the diagrams we have on our site. Suzuki Paint Codes Saab - Usually on the drivers door jamb. Saab Paint Codes Scion - Usually on the drivers door jamb. Scion Paint Codes Toyota - Has the color code on the drivers door jamb in the format i. Toyota Paint Codes Volkswagen - Hidden around the spare tire on a paper tag and can often be loose or folded over. Volkswagen Paint Codes Volvo - Usually underneath the hood towards either side. Door jambs, underneath the hood, trunk lid around the spare tire and occasionally in some very unlikely places!

Interior colors Typically interior colors are a vinyl paint in late model vehicles.. Older vehicles with metal interiors use the same paint used on the exterior. Interior colors are not color coded on the vehicle anywhere so you have two choices. You can borrow our color books or you can also go by a body shop with interior color chips and have them tell you what color code you have. Once we know the color code, we can make the paint. However, the VIN does not give us your color code! It only gives us any paint formula variance in an existing color code. Make sure you have found the color code on your vehicle. Chapter 4 : 5 Free Paint Color Apps | My Home My Style

If you're like me, you have a hard time visualizing how various colors will look in your home. I can look at all the paint samples I like as well as examples of rooms painted in various colors, but I still have a hard time visualizing how the colors will look in my home.

Enter these five apps, which can do almost anything from matching an exact color in a photo to putting the paint on your walls before you buy. Not all paint color apps are created equal. In fact, using a combination of these apps is probably the best way to narrow down which color is right for your room. The Photo Match feature is quite accurate. It gives you an almost spot-on color of wherever you click in your photo, plus it gives you two other shades of that color so you can find the perfect match. With the Preview Colors feature, you can choose an example photo of a furnished room, then choose up to four colors to apply to the room. To fill the room, select your color then tap on the part of the room you want that color to be. The Behr app also includes a comprehensive Paint Calculator. Besides being able to enter the dimensions of your room, you can include whether or not you have vaulted ceilings, and factor in an amount of touch-up paint. Using your mobile device, focus the camera over anything – a photo, an object, a room – and the app will create a full palette of five colors based on the colors included in the viewfinder your camera. Since it can take a little bit for the viewfinder to focus on the object and pick up the main colors, it cycles through many options of palettes. Simply tap on the screen anytime a palette pops up that you might like, and it automatically saves it while it continues cycling through potential palettes. Under the Top 10 Collections category, Glidden provides their top 10 paint colors used for different rooms and for different occasions, from popular kitchen colors, to "Feels Like Home" colors. After you choose a color, you can click on Find Products to determine what type of paint is best for your project. With Paint My Place, you can take a photo of any room and "paint" the walls to see a preview of what they would look like in a certain color. With the free version, you can choose colors from three brands of paint. First choose your brand, then choose a color range, then a specific paint color within that range. When applying the paint to your photo, there is a fill option, but you can also use a smaller paintbrush to fill in missed spots and spots around furniture. Browse through hundreds of colors that are conveniently grouped into color families for you. You can add colors to the bottom color bar and save them as your own palette, or tap on one color in your color bar to have the app suggest a palette for you. You can enter the room size based on the exact dimensions of the room, or simply select small, medium, or large. It also takes into account how many doors and windows the room has.
