We made the mistake of only adding one day to our cruise ending in Istanbul. A minimum of 3 days should be considered. After a full day walking tour of the Old town we decided to go big and booked a 3 hour dinner cruise on the Bosphorus. We chose the non alcoholic version but many had all you can drink options including beer wine or raki. We were picked up at our hotel on time and shared a van with several others going to the cruise. We entered the boat a little bit before sunset and were greeted with a plate of Turkish appetizers that were very good with a nice basket of bread. The choice of entree was fish, chicken or meatballs. My wife had chicken and thoroughly enjoyed it. I had the fish which was tasty but was the whole fish so you had to work at it. I would probably try the meatballs next time. The cruise heads up the Bosphorus toward the Black Sea. You pass many bridges crossing from the European side to the Asian side and pass many lit up buildings and Mosques. The entertainment included an emcee and 5 dancers that included a Whirling Dervish demo, traditional Turkish dancing and of course belly dancing. The show had several different sections and the emcee kept the audience involved. The best part for me was the flags of all the different countries on the tables with 6 continents represented. We had opportunities to dance together with our own little United Nations. It was a very good value too. By Scott from America Great experience Me and my wife took this trip when were advised to do so from our concierge at the Ciragan palace Kempinski.. The boat picked us up from our hotel pier which was really cool.. We were welcomed by Mr. Alper who is a very nice guy whom explained to us about many things in istanbul.. The show was great especially the bellydancer , food can be better and sitting on deck is a great experience with all those nice buildings surrounding the boot from both sides.. Overall ,one of the best night cruises in Istanbul.. By Rami from Dubai Great night on Labors Day in Istanbul I would like to give this review a 5 because the fact the people were scared to go to Istanbul or to the city. We have never felt so safe in their hands. The entertainment,the food,the pick up from the hotel until we came out we were really looked after. The weather was also good. I am so glad we went to Istanbul. Thank you Bosphorus Tours Istanbul! The view of the Bosphorus was amazing! We went almost all the tourist attractions: Of all the activities we have done, our dinner night on the Bosphorus was the best night we had. The program is very nice, the staff are extremely kind and helpful, and their customer service is great. They make their personal responsibility to help. By Diya Atiyaa from England Birthday visit I visited turkey for my birthday, went on the cruise was lovely amazing atmosphere and they made us feel so welcome and also sang happy Birthday to me and gave me a lovely cake was amazing will go there again definitely. Sarah from New York Excellent services I had the chance to try two tour from them and I was very happy , every thing was done by the phone and WhatsApp Very well organized and on time I took private day cruize with the family and the kids , they were very happy with the trip And took the night cruize with the show It was very entertaining By Dr. We hired the Bosphorus Tours for all our tourist excursions in Istanbul. Even though the tourist companies in Istanbul are notorious for ripping you off but Mr. Tugrul at Bosphorus Tours was a an absolute delight! Despite being out of station, he guided us through various options with packages which easily beat the commercial companies by HALF! His team was professional and warm. Each expedition was worth every penny paid. To top it off, I forgot my mobile in one of their buses after one of the tours and the driver actually found it and got it back to our hotel within an hour! They are extremely helpful, responded fast and helped with my special requirements for a custom cake. I emailed them what I wanted and they made it happen: The boat is great, food was good, drinks keep coming and the show is nice. The best part was the celebration of the birthday. They brought the cake with all the sparkling candles and the presenter announced her special day. The show kept on going after. To sum it up, it was a memorable evening for all of us, I can highly recommend them for a tour. By Andras from Hungary Qualified tour services on the Bosphorus! We are international law firm located in Istanbul and welcome regularly international clients and colleagues all over the world. We booked a tour from the Bosphorus Tours Istanbul for our guests last September who provided our guests with a well qualified service and very pleasant time during the tour with quality of service, food and music. We thank them a lot and seeking another opportunity to our forthcoming guests at end of March. We were 70 people and were considering different companies, but I am really happy that we chose this one, since they were really helpful and professional. They were very flexible with the amount of people and the payment, since we were not sure exactly how many people we were going to be. Furthermore, they tried to help us all the time and answered phone and email immediately, being available any time we wanted for showing us the boat or for letting us time to decorate it. I think they adapt to any kind of budget, occasion, objective of the cruise or special requirements, so I think it is the best option for renting a boat. Furthermore, the day of the party they were very punctual and everything happened according to what we agreed, helping us organizing and letting us doing whatever we wanted. I would really recommend them if you are looking for a cruise or a private event without any doubt!! Furthermore, they had the best prices among all the companies we considered. By Marta from Spain delicious food, great entertainment, Bosphorus dinner cruise I booked this cruise online, i was not asked to pay in advance, that was a simple way of booking the tour. As promised I was picked up from my hotel on time. There was a welcome cocktail on boat.. The international singer was the best, he made every one happy and have good time during the cruise. The amazing views of the sights from the boat were breathtaking. Anyone visiting Istanbul must do this cruise. By Atike from Romania Bosphorus Trip It was top class, with people from 18 nationalities taking cruise together. Very good arrangement, hassle free and friendly gesture. The guide was quite considerate and explaining well and taking good care of the crew. The Bosphorus cruise was ultimate.. Turkish delicacies were well served. They greet you with your respective nationalities. Traditional dance performances , belly dances By Akbar from Tunisia The experience was excellent. Thank you to all the team who made our experience unforgettable. Performances are top notch, food is good, host is hilarious, you got to see Istanbul at night from cruise which is matchless, and on top of that you can interact with so many people coming from different regions and religions. The best thing is the staff and facilities. By Asif from Turkey Bosphorus dinner cruise and Turkish night show - best of Istanbul As every visitors of Istanbul, we wanted to do a cruise on Bosphorus. After searching a while, we decided to attend the Bosphorus nights cruise and now we are ensured ourselves that we had made the right choice! We were seeking for the best tour company that offers good value and good service level. We came across the Bosphorus Tours Organisations company on the internet. The pictures, information on their site seemed reliable to us and we contacted directly with them. We got a response in 30 min. This was a good start but not the best at least. We were even not asked to give our credit card information. They just sent a reservation confirmation e-mail covering pick - up time from our hotel etc We were at our hotel lobby prior to the appointed pick - up time and were picked up on time. The boat was big and elegant. Welcome cocktail was a good start. The we had buffet dinner, the buffet was rich and we all love the meals a lot. And the Turkish night shows started, the star of the night was the belly dancer By Biboo from England Excellent I went to the tour with my family and it was worth every penny i paid. It started with proper dinner , with many musical dances and belly dance. It was a constant entertainment throughout the tour. I would highly recommend everyone to have this tour. It was organized highly professionally. The staff prearranged the hotel pick ups and there were no delays, the food was good great way to try the Turkish kitchen through their Mazza dish, for the main dish they offer you three options chicken, fish and beef, i did tried the chicken and it was yummy and moist , the host was funny and his sense of humor and his jokes were the highlight of the evening. The staff were very friendly, bottom line highly recommended. The dancers are good. The staff is friendly and the food is also not bad.

Istanbul - Weather forecast It can be cloudy, rainy, or even snowy in Istanbul Istanbul has a temperate oceanic climate which is influenced by a continental climate, with hot and humid summers and cold, wet and occasionally snowy winters. Istanbul has a high annual average rainfall of mm which is more than that of London, Dublin or Brussels, whose negative reputation Istanbul does not suffer , with late autumn and winter being the wettest, and late spring and summer being the driest. Although late spring and summer are relatively dry when compared to the other seasons, rainfall is significant during these seasons, and there is no dry season as a result. If there is a negative reputation that Istanbul does suffer from, it is the high annual relative humidity, especially during winter and summer with the accompanying wind chill and concrete-island effect during each respective season. Summer is also the driest season, but it does infrequently rain. Showers tend to last for minutes with the sun usually reappearing again on the same day. Although rarely below freezing during the day, high relative humidity levels and the wind chill makes it feel bitterly cold and very unpleasant. Snowfall, which occurs almost annually, is common between the months of December and March, with an annual total snow cover of almost three weeks, but average winter snowfall varies considerably from year to year, and snow cover usually remains only for a few days after each snowfall, even under intense snow conditions. Late spring late May to early June and early autumn late September to early October are very pleasant and therefore the best times to visit the city. During these periods it is neither cold nor hot, and still sunny, though the nights can be chilly and rain is common. For visitors an umbrella is recommended during spring, autumn and winter, and during the summer to avoid the sun and occasionally the rain. Although the umbrellas they provide are a little shoddy, going rate is only TRY5 â€”about USD3- per umbrella though you can find much better umbrellas for that price at shops if you look around a bit. Also take note that due to its huge size, topography and maritime influences, Istanbul exhibits a multitude of distinct micro-climates. Thus, different sections of Istanbul can experience different weather conditions at the same time. Visa requirements[ edit ] You probably need a visa to enter Turkey, which can usually be obtained online. Check if this applies to you, and apply in advance, at evisa. Do not rely upon any other website, even here at Wikitravel, as the rules may change suddenly as the security situation in Turkey evolves. Also some websites charge extra for no additional service. Some travelers are not eligible for an evisa and must apply for a conventional visa via their local Turkish Embassy. However these same travelers who are otherwise ineligible with solely their citizenship may be eligible for an eVisa if they hold a valid visa or residence permit for Schengen, USA, UK or Ireland. However you should always go directly to official websites to check visa requirements and it is recommended you visit Government of Turkey e-Visa website to learn more about Turkish eVisas. Apply at the same time as you book your trip - your 90 or other day visa validity will start from your stated arrival day in Turkey. Print it out and keep it with you, as well as a soft copy on your phone. As well as checks when flying, it could be demanded at an internal police check. In theory you are permitted to arrive at Ataturk airport without a visa and use the visa office or machine to apply there Visa on arrival. However this is only available for certain nationalities. IST , 20km west of the city centre. From the airport, there are various options for getting into Istanbul: There is no night fare in Istanbul anymore - the price would be the same at midnight or midday. At the bus stop of your final destination, be wary of taxi drivers that come up to you or are overly friendly. Follow locals to a corner where most of the taxis are picking up customers. Then, there is the metro Just follow the signs , which will take you directly to the Otogar bus station or to numerous stops within Istanbul Aksaray in the city centre is the last stop, transfer stations for tram heading for deeper into old city is available at Zeytinburnu and Aksaray. It is possible to be at your bus departing from Otogar within less than one hour after landing by taking the metro. Actual travel time on the metro from the Aksaray station to the Airport station was 35 minutes and cost TL 2. Obviously allow more time if you need to transfer on the way to the airport and keep in mind that you will have to pay for the transfer. When entering the metro station, you need to buy a jeton token for TRY4. This will get you on the red metro line towards Aksaray. Note that the jeton token here is different than the first one. The trip from the airport to Sultanahmet takes about 45min. This is much faster and cheaper than a taxi, which could take up to 2 hours if there is a lot of traffic. The boat runs from 7am to 9pm. No matter how long you travel, it costs 1 token per trip. Food and drink at the airport may cost up to five times more than in the city proper, like in other international airports. If you are travelling on budget and plan to spend some time at the airport, it may be wise to bring your own meals from town instead of buying them there. Be aware that last ferries are between 10 and 11pm, yet the E10 continues throughout the night. A pricier option is the Havatas bus connects this airport with Taksim in the city centre for TRY14 Aug and takes about an hour and a half closer to two or more in heavy traffic. If you arrive in the middle of the night, you can move to the departure hall after passing customs and rest on very comfortable seats – you will even find coin-operated Japanese massage chairs. Various private operators offer internet bookable shared minibuses to central locations – a good choice when arriving late. The meter will show c. TRY75, plus there is c. Note the security screening is before the check-in counters, so add some extra time to make the cut-off times 45 minutes for international, 30 for domestic. By train[ edit ] There are no mainline trains in central Istanbul. Trains to Europe via Bucharest or Sofia historically ran from Sirkeci station, but this line is disrupted by the Marmaray project and by other work in Bulgaria. There are replacement buses from Sirkeci, at the usual departure time of 10 pm, to link with the westbound train, and returning from the incoming train around 8 am often very late. The project has been interminably delayed and as at no completion is in sight. Sirkeci was also the terminus for international trains to Thessaloniki and regional trains to Edirne and these too are suspended indefinitely though a daily train runs between Halkali and Edirne. So the station has no trains, but the ticket office remains open. Also just outside is the escalator down to Sirkeci Marmaray station, for the metro across the Bosphorus. Sirkeci Station in busier times You probably need a visa in advance to enter Turkey by train – see the note on visas in the section on Ataturk airport. Trains east to Ankara and beyond historically ran from Haydarpasa, Asian side of the Bosphorus, but this closed in The simplest way there is by Marmaray line under the Bosphorus then metro to Kartal, then bus or taxi the final 5 km to Pendik station. Allow at least 90 minutes for all this, and note that the first metro of the morning will not get you to Pendik in time for the first Ankara train at 6. Also Pendik is convenient for Istanbul Sabiha Gokcen airport 10 km, taxi or bus so consider this route if you intend to fly in and immediately head east. Road transport for Pendik sets down, and picks up to return towards city centre, on the north side of the station. Walk through the subway to south side and turn right for the ticket office, platform access and other station facilities. Haydarpasa Station has closed For timings and reservations strongly recommended see Turkish railways website at tcdd. For destinations in eastern Turkey, take the YHT to Ankara and change, but see that page for disruptions to those services, expected to last till For Adana, travel via Konya. The international trains to Iran, Syria and Iraq are suspended indefinitely, but the train to Georgia may resume in It is not known when the YHT line might be completed from Pendik into the centre of Istanbul, nor whether there will be a single central terminus or separate European and Asian stations as before. But the Marmaray line was designed to take mainline passenger and freight trains as well as the metro. By bus[ edit ] Most buses and coaches terminate at the colossal Esenler Otogar, about 10 km west of the city center, located on the European side. The station can be easily reached via the Otogar stop on the M1. Companies may also have courtesy minibuses or taxis which will allow you to easily access the center of the city. The terminal is huge and each company has a separate office. The area can be a tourist trap with people wanting to help get you to the right office -- for a fee. It is easiest if you know who you want to travel with when you arrive. Some bus companies selling online tickets from their individual webpages. Buses stop for rest and needs usually every 4 or 5 hours. Rest duration is 30 minutes. The port is ideally located close to Sultanahmet and Taksim. Cruise ships often dock close to downtown. Passengers not on tours will find taxis readily available at the port entrance, and modern streetcars a short walk away. By car[ edit ] Traffic in Istanbul can be manic; expect a stressful drive because you will be cut off and honked at constantly. The city currently holds more than 1,, automobiles and there is a strong demand for building of new or alternate highways. The city, lying on two different continents and separated by the Bosphorus, is connected by two bridges. The bridge on the south, closer to the Marmara Sea, is called the "Bosphorus Bridge". Both are toll bridges, and you must pay a fee to cross. Since , the Bosphorus Bridge toll stations do not accept cash, and payment must be made using electronic cards, either manually KGS or automatically via a transponder mounted on the front of the car OGS. On weekdays, drivers should be aware of potentially hour-long traffic jams on the highways leading to both bridges, particularly heading west in the mornings and east in the evenings, since most people live on the Anatolian side but work on the European side. There is a great shortage of parking in Istanbul, and existing lots are quite expensive. You will see many cars parked on the sides of the road, in front of garage doors even. Drivers unfamiliar with the city should also be aware that street signs are rare. It is a common thing to pull over and ask for directions, something the natives and taxi drivers do quite often.

Exotic Mixture of East and West. Once prominent in the history of Christianity, the 5th century hosted important consul meetings here, but there are few reminders of that age. It is one of the improved districts of Istanbul over the last century, and fashionable area to promenade along the waterfront in the evenings, especially around the Kalamis marina and "Sahilyolu" between Fenerbahce and Bostanci. Those who spend all their time in European part of Istanbul, miss out on what great places exist in Asian Istanbul and Kadikoy must be somewhere at the top of that list. The pace of life alone makes Asia a worthwhile and what is more nice is as this part of this city is not Touristy, so you may not see tourist traps. When you take a ferry from Eminonu to Kadikoy. Ferries leave in every minutes. You will see Kadikoy port after 25 minutes. The old historical theater building will be the first spot you can catch on arrival. Just step out the ferry and now you are in Asia. Sorry no welcome sign.. Once you are in Kadikoy, Walk to the right, on to the second port old one and when you are there turn yr back to the sea and walk to the front. Soon you will see the narrow streets of Kadikoy, you can walk along to the Kadikoy market, a nice and cozy place. You will see small roads with many nice shops. Walk to left and right and up and down. You will like to be in Asia. Try to get to Altiyol Square, from there take the road uphill. Bahariye Street is closed for car traffic and only a tram rides there. There are many nice budget shops and nice cafes. While you are going up the Bahariye street, look for the "Sanatcilar sokagi" where many nice handmade stuff, nice silver wears are being sold on a small open-air market. In Kadikoy there is an old historical tram that runs between Kadikoy and Moda. It is the second nostalgic tram after the one at Taksim Istiklal street. Moda is one of the nicest districts of Istanbul. As the tram makes a ring you can get on this tram and make a full tour. You can see Kadikoy market, You can see altiylol, You can see Moda and come back to where you have started or where you want to get off. A visit to Kadikoy market can not be completed without a visit to "Ciya restaurant". It is definitely the best restaurant that you can find historical Turkish dishes and several nice recipes with a quiet reasonable price. If you plan to visit Istanbul, watch out this new activity which has started on September 15th. Watch Istanbul up above meters in a Balloon. Turk Balloon is the project name and Kadikoy Municipality is arranging this activity. A huge balloon which can carry up to 30 people at one time is rising up meters above the sea level. The balloon moves only up and down. If you take a ferry from Eminonu to Kadikoy, it will take you to Kadikoy ferry port in 25 minutes.. There you need to walk around meters to the Sea bus port to the right side.. Due to the size of the Balloon you can see it easily. The balloon is operating from So windy and rainy days they do not operate. It has nothing to do with the Capital city of Iraq, Baghdat. Bagdat caddesi is located on the Asian side of Istanbul. The main street of the residential area. A one-way street full of shopping malls, Restaurants, Coffee shops, Elegant stores, Luxury car dealers, Banks and many many more. The street is a bit like narrow looking of Champ Elysee. Bagdat caddesi is also a good place to tour around and make window shopping. There are quiet number of shopping alternatives at the street. All famous brands have their brand shops and also some smaller shops with very reasonable cheap prices. Street sellers are also available and they are credited from the municipality. Many people call bagdat street as a big open air shopping mall. And that shall be the reality. While touring on the street sometimes you can also spot open air Fair shows. Bagdat street from one end to the other is around 10 km, however the main spots are between Suadiye district and Erenkoy district.

Different questions are asked about each type. The topics covered for each are listed below. Beyond these three realms, the participants are also asked some questions pertaining more broadly to their finances. Specifically, participants are asked to report the sources of their income, level of financial responsibility e. Specific information obtained for regular paying and under-the-table work The distinction between regular paying jobs and under-the-table jobs was not made until version As a result, for all cases completed prior to version Starting with version Participants that held a regular paying job during the recall period were permitted to report up to four different jobs within any given month. Specific information about each job was then obtained. It is important to realize that variables collected about each type of activity can use different units of analysis. Some questions are asked about specific jobs which an individual may hold for a very short or very long time , while others are asked about particular months whether an individual held a job that month. Still other questions characterize the recall period. These individual items are then summarized to reflect income-generating activities in terms of unique jobs, across all jobs, for community jobs only and for institutionally based jobs only during particular periods. The following variables are available. These are variables that a the participant reports regarding overall job activity during the whole recall period, or b were calculated by examining the data on the jobs reported. For each unique job: Variables summarizing the recall period: Specific information obtained for income generated by illegal activity Participants are also asked if they obtained money doing illegal activities during this period. At the recall level: For each month of the recall period: This can be found under the "Gainful Activity" section of the Calendar codebook. Monthly Data Characterizing the Recall Period As a standard practice, the specific calendar information will be accompanied by four variables which describe the recall period. This information is important for the user to consider when attempting to use data characterizing the recall period e. In addition, this information is useful if the user is viewing events from a developmental perspective. The actual number of days in each month that is represented in the calendar data. The calendar month and year mapped to the recall month e. The subject age at the time of the interview is available in the "Demographics" codebook, available under "Measures". A marker indicating whether each month of the recall period is a community or institution month, where an institution month is defined as a month where the subject spent eight or more days across the following type of out of community placements: These setting types are described in detail in the "Out of Community Placements" codebook, available under "Calendars". In addition, each dataset includes five variables which describe basic information related to the interview. These are explained in full detail in the "Interview Information" section under "Measures". These variables include the completion status of the interview, the date of the interview, version number in which the interview was conducted, the number of months in the recall period, and the number of days in the recall period. Specifically, individuals are first asked to recount salient events which occurred in the recall period e. This approach thus creates an integrated view of activities in all of the domains examined, has firm roots in the science of how people remember events and life situations Bradburn, Rips, and Shevell, ; Belli, , and capitalizes on these processes to generate accounts of past events. On a practical level, it provides researchers with a richer set of data points. Instead of simply getting a summary measure of life changes over an extended recall period, the monthly life-calendar places these changes at specific points in time, opening up the possibility of examining sequences of events and potential causal mechanisms within individuals Fals-Stewart, ; Mulvey, et al. Conversion of data to linear months The monthly Pathways data, in its raw form, is not suited for some kinds of analytic approaches e. Each time point interview allows for a maximum of eight or 14 months in the recall period, depending on the follow-up wave eight months was the maximum for time points and 14 was the maximum for time points This means that there is a corresponding variable in the dataset reflecting events occurring in each of those months through a maximum of 14 months the outer limit of any of the possible months covered. If however, the recall period did not include the maximum number of months as is most often the case, there will be variables with no data. The recall length is set by programming code based on the current date in relationship to the date of the previous interview see "Interview Information" under Measures for a more detailed description of how the length of the recall period is determined. However, the programming code did permit the interviewer to "reset" by hand the length of the recall period. This was done infrequently, but in some instances it created a situation where we obtained two reports of the same month. For example, follow-up 6 covered months January to June and the interviewer resets the follow-up 12 recall period to start with June leading to two different reports for the month of June. A series of data cleaning decisions described in the "Making and Spending Money Calendar Documentation" were implemented to correct these situations but we note them here because they are relevant to the conversion of the data to linear months. The "linear months" data set-up corrects these two situations. In this format, variables that were place-markers for months not covered in the recall period are eliminated and situations where there were two reports for the same month are corrected. Thus, "linear month 8" actually represents eight calendar months from the baseline and "linear month 16" is actually 16 months past the baseline interview. A specific list of variables available in the linear format is provided below. Also provided is a "map" to link the linear month back to the recall period and month in which the information was originally collected. This is important to know when recall-level data is being used in conjunction with the monthly event calendar data.

Data Issues The follow06 through follow36 timepoints allow for a maximum of 8 months in the recall period, while follow48 and later will have a maximum of 14 months. Note that while variables for months 9 through 14 are included in the datasets for follow06 through follow36, these are essentially place markers and in no instance will any case have data for these months until the follow48 period see description above. The under-the-table calendar was added to the interview in version 1.0. The first case that received this calendar appears in the follow48 timepoint. For all cases with versions earlier than 1.0, under-the-table work cannot be distinguished from regular paying community-based jobs. At this version, we can assume that all jobs reported on the legal work calendar are regular paying jobs as a result of the introduction of the separate under-the-table calendar. Note that jobs that disappear from the legal work calendar starting with interviews completed with version 1.0 could instead be an under-the-table job that is now captured on the under-the-table calendar. For both legal and illegal work, the number of weeks worked within a month was not directly reported by the subject. Instead, this value was derived from a coding scheme which should be thoroughly understood by the investigator to be sure that the investigator agrees with the coding decisions. Details regarding the coding scheme are available upon request. An error in the interview programming code made it possible for the subject to either skip the calendar completely, or to exit without fully completing the calendar. Cases with this issue are noted with a missing value code of Data missing: Items available regarding making and spending money

Regular paying legal jobs and under-the-table work Because the legal versus under-the-table distinction was not made until a later version, we have computed four versions of each variable at the recall and monthly level. Some are available for all versions of the interview while others are only available for version 1.0. These variables combine regular paying community based jobs reported on the legal work calendar with information reported on the under-the-table calendar. These variables are available for all versions of the interview. For versions up to 1.0, these variables contain information related to institution jobs reported on the legal work calendar. Note that this includes only regular paying jobs; all under-the-table work is community based. The institution job distinction is made in the hand-coded "community or institutionally-based marker" indexed by unique job. These variables contain information exclusively on regular paying legal jobs held in the community, and are available for versions 1.0 through 1.5. These variables contain information exclusively on under-the-table work reported on the under-the-table calendar, and are available for versions 1.0 through 1.5. For an overview and a detailed list of the questions included with this calendar please select the link s. In addition to providing an overview of the "flow" of the calendar and a detailed listing of the questions, this document notes version issues i. The table below gives you an overview of issues related to each construct noted above and it also provides you with the page numbers within our detailed document that address each of these constructs. ## Chapter 6 : Bosphorus Ferry Cruise - The Department of Wandering

Former US President Barack Obama and his family haven't slowed down since leaving the White House. Here's how the Obamas make and spend their money.

Food Travel You can create your own ideas by taking hints from what I share. I create better ideas when I work on my passion finance, travel, and marketing. Focusing on your passion is more important than chasing money. Once you start, you will automatically learn the next steps. Idea 1 Comedy club Comedy videos easily go viral. There are a couple of stand-up comedians like Kapil Sharma and Amit Tandon who have become celebrities now. The young talent is waiting for their turn. There are thousands of comedians who are looking out for a channel to show their talent. You can help them by building a comedy club online. Idea 2 Funny video library Funny videos of kids, puppies, and cats are all over YouTube and Facebook. Can you make a library where people like me can pick the right video for their content marketing needs? You can make money by selling the licence to startups for using the video. The creator of the original video can earn money as commission. If you are a dancer and would like to teach people, start online dance classes. Can you make nine short videos that can teach me some simple dance steps for the upcoming family function? The internet is democratising all industries, which means that individuals and organisations no longer have total control. Anyone like you and me can become the owner of an online TV show and compete with branded channels like Star TV. There is a lot of scope if you can build an audience for reality shows online. It must be a micro niche that you are passionate about. Facebook must be where you begin if you are going to make an Indian-audience-centric business. You must also have a website and discussion forum. At a later stage, move to a mobile app. Idea 6 Music school This is a no-brainer! If you have the passion for teaching music, start an online school for it. You can start with a free YouTube video channel where you upload a couple of videos to help people learn music. You can make a good business out of a music school if you deliver high-quality lessons to your audience. Idea 7 Party organiser There are many ways to look at this idea. Any experienced entrepreneur will advise you to focus on one group in the initial days rather than building something for the whole industry. Idea 8 Low-cost viral video maker I will be your first customer if you can help me create viral videos at a low cost. You must start making videos yourself in the initial days and later on hire good video makers. Video demand is increasing every day, and all startups will have to create a lot of videos in the next few years. Can you come up with a fixed-price video startup? Rs for a second video if the client gives the concept storyboarding , images, and text. You just have to execute. Rs 2, for a second video if you do everything yourself. Deliver the video in 24 hours with the promise of two revisions in the next 24 hours. If you are able to execute the idea well, you can go viral with thousands of projects in your hand. They accept failure even before starting. Do you know that we lost Rs 15,00, in my first startup? I decided to work even harder to get the success. Business model There could be many business models in the entertainment industry. Depending upon your aspirations and risk-taking capacity, you can make good money from advertisements pay-per-click and pay-per-view , selling services and affiliate products. In the long run, your business model would be a partnership with big brands, celebrities, production houses, and TV channels. Money potential A single guy can make about Rs 50,â€”1,00, with a dedicated effort of one year. A team of three to four people can make more than Rs 5,00, in less than one year if they execute the projects with perfection. You can have a multi-crore annual revenue if you become an influencer in the entertainment industry like TVF. Cricket I have not picked sports as the category because Indians love cricket, not sports. Cricket remains in the air throughout the year. When you are starting something for a business purpose, you must start in a business where you can get customers throughout the year. You pick your favourite player and make a fan club for him. Read the details of businesses to get more inspiration. Idea 10 Regional sports club India is a country of diverse cultures, and this a reality the IPL, with its regional teams, has cashed in on. Yes, there is a business model if you can execute. Idea 11 News and trends The name explains it all. Pick the latest cricket news, curate interesting facts around the news, and become the next cricket news channel. You will get thousands of readers from Facebook without spending any money on marketing. Idea 12 Facts and surprises Slightly different from the ordinary news, go for some interesting facts about the players, their lives, and the game as well. Your content can go really viral if you execute it well. If you are really passionate about cricket, then the ideas will come naturally to you. In the cricket season, you could make a lot of money through the ads. In the long run, you can sell cricket equipment on your website. Partnerships with sports brands can make you a real businessman in the industry. All you need is a regular flow of cricket fans on your website. Money potential Revenue from ads will be similar to the entertainment industry. A single person can execute the whole project with a dedicated effort of one year. You can make your living comfortable by earning a handsome amount. If you are able to make the business a big success, it will make you several crores per year. The Indian audience spends a lot of time on Facebook and Twitter for political discussions. What can you do? You can join the madness and create a yet another Facebook page to defame one political party and give benefit to your favourite party. Or, you can become the legitimate source of well-researched news and information. You can write your own opinions about political facts. Go and read a lot of stuff about the history of political movements to become an authority on the subject. You can win the hearts of Indian audiences without being biased to any party. Be prepared to face the heat from political parties if you share any fake news or try to manipulate facts. Run your business with your own responsibility. I am just sharing an idea. Execution will be at your own risk. You can build a platform to influence the government to fulfil its promises. You can keep track of the promises, get latest information on the progress, and keep the readers updated. Idea 14 Curating the news There are different types of media and everyone puts the news out in a different way. You can curate the news from different channels. The reader might be happy while looking at the opinion of all the channels and political parties in a single place. Idea 15 App mobile or web to check fake news There is too much information available on the internet. Fake news becomes a big problem for everyone. Can you come up with a system to validate if the news is genuine or fake? Business model Since the industry is highly volatile, you will get a lot of traffic from social media. Invest 80 percent of your time in building your Facebook page if you want to be successful. The easiest way would be to earn money through display ads. At a certain point, you will become an influencer and you can get partnerships with corporates and NGOs to sell the targeted products and services to your audience. Even a single guy can handle such a business and make around Rs 60,â€”80, with one year of dedicated effort. A monthly traffic of one million is not difficult. At later stages, there is no limit on how much you can earn. Please share your ideas and I will include them in the list. Startups and marketing Content marketing is the core of the success of my online business. If you have experience in startups or marketing, you can find a lot of ideas for new businesses. You can help so many entrepreneurs in starting their business, setting up marketing, increasing sales, hiring, and project management. Idea 16 Passive income ideas and execution I am working on this topic I have gone through the phase of starting one product startup from scratch, then joining a funded startup as the marketing co-founder, working on many freelance writing and marketing projects. Last year, I resigned from a job where I was heading content marketing.
