Myself and the rest of the crew at Made Legit Media are incredibly grateful regardless of your decision to donate or not. Yes, YOU, beautiful person! Because you are here, at the very least we are aware that word of our project is being spread. That, to us, is what it is all about: We strive to create something beautiful and unique, something true to original story arcs as well as new tastes that have yet to be explored in a film adaptation of this character, something that people will be proud to have been a part of and contributed to. For that, again, we thank you. My spider senses are tingling. However, even though I will ignore the plot, I will announce major characters as well as other key characters that will be advancing this story. Currently this series will include the following characters: Other characters will show up, but will play minor roles in the grand scheme of the series. Also, bear in mind that some of the characters mentioned above will reprise in the future and do in fact hold more weight than what it may seem in this current upcoming season of the series. We dream of incorporating even more Spider-Men than Peter and Miles. In light of semi-recent endeavors by Sony Pictures, I would expect nothing less. Let me reassure you; the characters and story are in the hands of fans that care. This operation is not-for-profit and fan driven. The product following post-production and editing will rise and meet or exceed all expectations. Before I close this out, let me also remind each of you reading this that the Pilot episode for this series is NOT the first episode. It will have similarities, but there will be exceedingly larger plot expansions and twists to the actual series. In addition, allow me to remind you that the Pilot episode was achieved with NO budget. Should Made Legit Media achieve its goal for funding, the quality of footage you see will only excel and reach a higher caliber. You can follow me at: Again, on behalf of Made Legit Media, we thank each of you in advance for your donations and appreciate your support for this incredible project. That being said, we are an experienced group and have successfully completed and released every film we have started. Questions about this project?
