Ministering angel definition: a spirit who is believed to look after the needs of a particular person or group | Meaning, pronunciation, translations and examples.

Related Media Introduction Theologians have often viewed angels as a very difficult subject. Because, while there is abundant mention of angels in the Bible, the nature of this revelation is without the same kind of explicit description we often find with other subjects developed in Scripture: Every reference to angels is incidental to some other topic. They are not treated in themselves. When they are mentioned, it is always in order to inform us further about God, what he does, and how he does it. Since details about angels are not significant for that purpose, they tend to be omitted. In fact, this is the title of an article by Dr. An Endangered Species, Malcolm Godwin estimates that over the last 30 years one in every ten pop songs mentions an angel. But that was just romantic fun. Now our culture takes angels seriously, if not accurately. Newsweek is right; modern society, so seemingly secular and hopelessly materialistic, desperately searches for some spiritual and supernatural meaning. If angels can provide it, then angels it will be. These books not only claim encounters with angels, but instruct people on how to contact them. However, this show not only demonstrates our fascination with this topic, but a illustrates a very poor grasp of what the Bible really teaches about angels and about God along with some very definite distortions of Scripture. By these comments I do not mean to discount all the so-called encounters with angels that we occasionally read or hear about. I was about thirteen years old when I had my first encounter with an angel. I was going upstairs to my room, pulling my entire weight on the handrail, when it suddenly came off in my hand. I fell backwards, head first. Halfway into a terrible fall, I felt a strong hand on my back push me upright. There was nobody there—well, nobody visible! Angel stories are always fascinating, and in this essay I address angels: The good angels are the holy ones, the bad angels are the evil ones, which the Bible calls demons, and the ugly angels are demons disguising themselves as good angels. Depending on the Bible translation searched, these celestial beings are referred to from to times in the Bible. References to angels occur at least times in the Old Testament and times in the New Testament. It is out of the this extended body of Scripture that the study presented here will be developed. The Bible will be the authority for this study and not the speculations of men nor their experiences nor what people think sounds logical. A Simple Definition Angels are spiritual beings created by God to serve Him, though created higher than man. Some, the good angels, have remained obedient to Him and carry out His will, while others, fallen angels, disobeyed, fell from their holy position, and now stand in active opposition to the work and plan of God. The Nature of Angels Angels are created beings The fact of their creation is brought out in Psalm There the psalmist calls upon all in the celestial heavens, including the angels, to praise God. The time of their creation is never stated, however, we know they were created before the creation of the world. From the book of Job we are told that they were present when the earth was created Job The agent of their creation is specifically stated to be Christ as the One who created all things cf. Unlike human beings and the animal kingdom created in pairs and who procreate, angels were created simultaneously as a company, a countless host of myriads Col. This is suggested by the fact they are not subject to death and they do not or were not to propagate. They are nevertheless an innumerable host created before the creation of the earth cf. Angels are spirit creatures 1 Angels are spirit beings. Though at times they have been given the ability to reveal themselves in the form of human bodies as in Genesis This suggests they do not have material bodies as we do. Hence, they do not function as human beings in terms of marriage and procreation Mark Angels are not subject to the limitations of man, especially since they are incapable of death Luke Angels have greater wisdom than man 2 Sam. Angels have greater power than man Matt. Angels, however, have limitations compared to man, particularly in future relationships. At the consummation of the age, redeemed man will be exalted above angels 1 Cor. They cannot be everywhere at once. Originally all angelic creatures were created holy. God pronounced His creation good Gen. These are the elect angels 1 Tim. They are not divine and are not to be worshipped see Rev. As a separate order of creatures, they are both distinct from human beings and higher than humans with powers far beyond our abilities in this present age 1 Cor. But as creatures they are limited in their powers, knowledge, and activities 1 Peter 1: The Types of Angels Good and Evil While all the angels were originally created holy and without sin, there was a rebellion by Satan, who, being lifted up by his own beauty, sought to exalt himself above God and rebelled. In his rebellion, he took with him one-third of the angels Rev. This rebellion and fall is probably described for us in Isaiah In other words, there are good angels and there are evil angels. As is clear from Revelation Satan, the leader of unholy angels, is a liar, a murderer, and a thief John Scripture teaches us that he prowls about like a roaring lion in search of those whom he may devour by his nefarious schemes 1 Peter 5: As an angelic being, Satan, along with his demon-like angels who operate under his authority, is supernaturally powerful and brilliant, and he uses all his powers against humanity. Not only is he a liar, a thief, and a destroyer, but that which characterizes him above all else is deception. In his cunning, he disguises himself as an angel of light 2 Cor. More will be said on this below. The Ministry of Good Angels The good and loyal angels are the mighty servants of God who constantly serve him always doing His will. In addition, Matthew Satan, in tempting Christ, quoted That they are ministering spirits who minister to the saints is presented as a general truth of the Bible and should not be restricted to Bible times. Also, Scripture suggests that Michael, the archangel, is particularly involved in ministry to Israel. Concerning the reference to Michael in Daniel One of the chief princes shows a hierarchy among the angels cf. I had been left there with the kings of Persia. The good angel cf. But the battle between good and evil angels over the control of nations continues see v. Regarding accounts of angelic protection, Dr. Kenneth Gangel gives the following account which is similar to others I have heard about, especially with missionaries: A veteran missionary friend of mine now retired tells the story about a woman missionary alone on a compound in northern Africa during a riot by one of the local tribes. She hid in a closet and prayed as warriors advanced along the dusty road toward the houses where the white intruders lived. Amazingly, she never heard them. No one ever entered her building, and there was no evidence of any turmoil. My friend learned later that the warriors, who intended to kill everyone at the missionary compound and burn it to the ground, instead retreated when they found the compound guarded by tall warriors dressed in white and carrying large swords. Another and similar account was also reported by a medical missionary at his home church in Michigan: While serving at a small field hospital in Africa, I traveled every two weeks by bicycle through the jungle to a nearby city for supplies. This required camping overnight half way. On one of these trips, I saw two men fighting in the city. One was seriously injured, so I treated him and witnessed to him of the Lord Jesus Christ. I then returned home without incident. Upon arriving in the city several weeks later, I was approached by the man I had treated earlier. He told me he had known that I carried money and medicine. We waited for you to go to sleep and planned to kill you and take your money and drugs. Just as we were about to move into your campsite, we saw that you were surrounded by 26 armed guards. My Jave friends also saw them and we all counted them. It was because of those guards that we were afraid and left you alone. The man in the congregation told this side of the story: I was preparing to play golf. As I put my bag in the car, I felt the Lord leading me to pray for you. In fact, the urging was so strong that I called the men of this church together to pray for you. Will all of those men who met with me that day please stand? Again we ask, were these angels? While I cannot verify this story, I have no doubt whatsoever that it could be true.

Chapter 2 : Angels for You: The Ministering Angels

The most exalted angels are but ministering spirits, mere servants of Christ, to execute his commands. The saints, at present, are heirs, not yet come into possession. The angels minister to them in opposing the malice and power of evil spirits, in protecting and keeping their bodies, instructing and comforting their souls, under Christ and the.

The words "ministering spirits" at once recall the "ministers" and "winds" expressed in Greek and Hebrew by the same word as "spirits" spoken of in Hebrews 1: To the English reader it may seem that those who in Hebrews 1: It is not really so, for the words properly mean,. The last word, "salvation," expresses the divine purpose indicated by all the prophecies that have passed under review. The chapter has been occupied with promises of the Christ: Pulpit Commentary Verse A final expression, adduced in contrast, of the position and office of the angels, as seen above. Matthew Henry Commentary 1: They looked upon them as mediators between God and men, and some went so far as to pay them a kind of religious homage or worship. To prove this, several passages are brought from the Old Testament. On comparing what God there says of the angels, with what he says to Christ, the inferiority of the angels to Christ plainly appears. But, how much greater things are said of Christ by the Father! It is declared how Christ was qualified for the office of Mediator, and how he was confirmed in it: Only as Man he has his fellows, and as anointed with the Holy Spirit; but he is above all prophets, priests, and kings, that ever were employed in the service of God on earth. Another passage of Scripture, Ps Christ will fold up this world as a garment, not to be abused any longer, not to be used as it has been. As a sovereign, when his garments of state are folded and put away, is a sovereign still, so our Lord, when he has laid aside the earth and heavens like a vesture, shall be still the same. Let us not then set our hearts upon that which is not what we take it to be, and will not be what it now is. Sin has made a great change in the world for the worse, and Christ will make a great change in it for the better. Let the thoughts of this make us watchful, diligent, and desirous of that better world. The Saviour has done much to make all men his friends, yet he has enemies. But they shall be made his footstool, by humble submission, or by utter destruction. Christ shall go on conquering and to conquer. The most exalted angels are but ministering spirits, mere servants of Christ, to execute his commands. The saints, at present, are heirs, not yet come into possession. The angels minister to them in opposing the malice and power of evil spirits, in protecting and keeping their bodies, instructing and comforting their souls, under Christ and the Holy Ghost.

Chapter 3 : 'A ministering angel shall my sister be' - the meaning and origin of this phrase

To minister is to serve, or act as a subordinate agent. So a ministering angel is a kind-hearted person, providing help and comfort. What's the origin of the phrase 'A ministering angel shall my sister be'?

A Second Visitation Then it happened again! Last Sunday we had another visit by an angel that appeared in the doorway where we meet. Again we went through the same corporate process for the people to discern its presence and test it. What followed was a great time of ministry that included ministry by this angel. But there was also a sense of expectation. Someone then observed that they saw an angel. So I came forward and I saw the angel walk over to me and stand behind me. I had no idea how bound and immobile I had become. Even the ones on my hands and feet came off at once as they fell to the ground. I was set free! Amen and glory to the most high God! Lisa normally dreads public speaking as it makes her extremely nervous. But after being set free from the expectation of men, she gave her message freely and easily as if she had been speaking fluently before large crowds for years. Now we know what her call is! God is certainly moving in our midst and in this season, there is an increase of angelic activity. Although it is not uncommon for angels to show up at my home, conferences or Church meetings, I confess that I never paid much attention to them. To me, the presence of angels is normal Christianity. Sometimes they come with a brief message or to full an assignment, but like Jacob's ladder, they usually just come and go. This is the first time that we stopped to recognize them corporately and test them. Because of this, we are seeing the power level at our meetings increase greatly. This is the season we are to learn how to work with ministering angels in the church. They just need to be acknowledged and invited to participate in the work of ministry with the members of the Church. This includes every born again believer, not just a select few. Every member of the Church is to participate in ministry. Are you born again and filled with the Holy Spirit? Then you are qualified to work with angels. Look for your ministering angel that the Lord has sent to you. Or ask and you shall receive.

Chapter 4 : Angels: "Ministering Spirits" | calendrierdelascience.com

Ministering angels are sometimes sent to guide, comfort, protect, and instruct the Lord's servants and other faithful individuals in times of need. Angels who minister in our behalf—whether seen or unseen—may include departed loved ones who are aware of our circumstances and are concerned about our welfare.

Angels are still working in the Kingdom today as they have done all through the Bible and all through the acts of the apostles. I believe the supernatural, including angels, is meant to be a normal part of our lives. Angels are ministering spirits sent to minister to you the heirs of salvation and minister with you. Angels have an important part to play in your life and ministry. I am not happy unless everyone receives the inheritance Jesus provided for us. Of course the devil would love for us to miss out. Below are some Biblical Scriptures and references to show you how the angels ministered to people. Throughout the Bible, angels brought messages, delivered instructions, prophesied, rebuked a prophet or two, stirred the healing waters, opened prison doors, etc. Angels Bring Comfort When Sarah sent her maid Hagar away, an angel was sent to find her, to comfort her and give her a promise concerning her son, and also to give her direction to return to Sarah Genesis The second time that Hagar was cast out, the angel again went and spoke to her, comforted her and provided water Genesis There are many times when distress comes our way and we wake up with the words of a song or hymn going around and around in our minds. Sometimes the angels sing you those words or speak Scriptures into your ears. Many times this happens as we are waking up, because our minds are less "busy. Angels carry out the commands of God. When David saw the angel standing with a sword between Heaven and earth, he and the elders repented. Then the angel told David to set up an altar to the Lord. The angel helped David also in his repentance. When God sends you out, His angels go with you to help you accomplish the purposes of God. If God instructs you to move to another town or city, the angels will help you sell your house, find another, and even help you find a job. I believe we can often hinder the activity of angels by our negative speaking. If God sends His angels to help us receive a healing, we can talk ourselves out of it by our negative words. He refused to let go until he received something from God. Jesus once said, "The Kingdom of Heaven suffers violence and the violent take it by force" Matthew Your adversary, the devil, as a roaring lion, walks about seeking whom he may devour 1 Peter 5: He will make sure there is a good crowd in your life. A crowd is not necessarily evil things; you can have a good crowd, but it is still a crowd that can separate you from the Lord Jesus. Your busy life, TV, sports, hobbies, even good works can prevent you from really being in touch with God. It takes time to sit in His presence and listen to His voice and tell Him how wonderful He is. There are times when Jesus wants your undivided attention, and the crowd in your life will take all of your time. You find you are diverted and distracted from your real destiny and purpose. Ask the Holy Spirit to reveal your crowd to you, then you can push past it all and touch His presence in a wonderful way. As you follow the directions of the Lord, He gives His angels charge over us and they will even help organize your move from and to your new location, be it a church or a town. When Balaam did not see the angel, the donkey did! Sometimes when we pray for our wayward loved ones, the Lord sends an angel to protect them from themselves as He did with Balaam. Angels Encourage You When the Midianites oppressed the children of Israel and made them impoverished, the Angel of the Lord was sent to Gideon while he was trying to hide wheat from the oppressors Judges 6. The Angel of the Lord who came to strengthen Gideon addressed him, "The Lord is with thee thou mighty man of valor" verse Now Gideon in the natural was certainly no "mighty man of valor" but because the Lord was with him, the whiny, grumbling, complaining man became a mighty man. In Him we can be strong and do mighty exploits. Feeling sorry for yourself as Elijah did will make you want to curl up and go to sleep. Sleep is good and necessary for our health, but it can also be a form of escape. The angel came and found him even though he ran so far out of the way. He rose up and ate the cake and drank the water and then he went right back to sleep! Once again the angel touched him and said "Arise and eat Ornan also saw the angel and allowed David to buy the threshing floor according to the instruction of the angel. In Psalm 35, David speaks of the Angel of the Lord chasing those who are his enemies. Then Zechariah witnessed a conversation between the angel and the Lord, and then further on in Zechariah 2, the angel talked with another angel. The second angel gave a prophetic word to the first angel to give to Zechariah. Zechariah had an unusual experience with the activity of angels. We must learn to obey the voice of the Holy Spirit when He gives instruction - it can save our lives. Angels Help with Healing The water at the pool of Bethesda was stirred ever so often by an angel and healing came to those who stepped into it John 5: Many times I have seen the angels helping to minister in healing meetings. Then Gabriel was sent to Mary to prophesy the birth of the Savior Luke 1: Another angel told Cornelius to send for Peter Acts Angels Bring Protection An angel gave Paul a message of hope for the people in the ship when he was being taken to Italy, and the ship was in danger Acts Angels are sent to protect us. Well, there are some Biblical Scriptures and references to show you how the angels ministered to people. I have many angel stories of my own, including the revelation angel who came to my house and gave me honey. I am mentioning this because as I write this, I am smelling such a strong aroma of honey. I also have a new CD-set called " Faith and Angels " which has much more teaching about angels and their part in the Church and in our lives.

Barnes' ministering angel transports him to the beginning of time and the cosmos when humanity was but a twinkle in God's cosmic eye. Savior's Day Secondly, as outsider stories (nurses are in control); the nurse as a ministering angel or autonomous professional.

Ministering of Angels Jump to: Angels who minister in our behalf—whether seen or unseen—may include departed loved ones who are aware of our circumstances and are concerned about our welfare. Faith is a critical element in the ministry of angels. Who are these angels? Such personages may be spirits—who have not yet been born into mortality or have lived on the earth but who have not yet been resurrected—or beings with tangible bodies who have been either resurrected or translated. Doctrine and Covenants Many additional scriptures illustrate that the term angels may refer both to spirits and to resurrected or translated beings. Faust said, I would like to say a word about the ministering of angels. In ancient and modern times angels have appeared and given instruction, warnings, and direction, which benefited the people they visited. We do not consciously realize the extent to which ministering angels affect our lives. Their ministry has been and is an important part of the gospel. Angels ministered to Joseph Smith as he reestablished the gospel in its fulness. Oaks said, We cannot overstate the importance of the Aaronic Priesthood in this. All of [the] vital steps pertaining to the remission of sins are performed through the saving ordinance of baptism and the renewing ordinance of the sacrament. Both of these ordinances are officiated by holders of the Aaronic Priesthood under the direction of the bishopric, who exercise the keys of the gospel of repentance and of baptism and the remission of sins. In a closely related way, these ordinances of the Aaronic Priesthood are also vital to the ministering of angels. When I was young, I thought such personal appearances were the only meaning of the ministering of angels. As a young holder of the Aaronic Priesthood, I did not think I would see an angel, and I wondered what such appearances had to do with the Aaronic Priesthood. But the ministering of angels can also be unseen. Angelic messages can be delivered by a voice or merely by thoughts or feelings communicated to the mind. As explained earlier, through the Aaronic Priesthood ordinances of baptism and the sacrament, we are cleansed of our sins and promised that if we keep our covenants we will always have His Spirit to be with us. So it is that those who hold the Aaronic Priesthood open the door for all Church members who worthily partake of the sacrament to enjoy the companionship of the Spirit of the Lord and the ministering of angels.

Chapter 6 : The Ministry of Angels - Elder Jeffrey R. Holland

When Adam and Eve willingly stepped into mortality, they knew this telestial world would contain thorns and thistles and troubles of every kind.

Email God never leaves us alone, never leaves us unaided in the challenges that we face. When Adam and Eve willingly stepped into mortality, they knew this telestial world would contain thorns and thistles and troubles of every kind. Perhaps their most challenging realization, however, was not the hardship and danger they would endure but the fact that they would now be distanced from God, separated from Him with whom they had walked and talked, who had given them face-to-face counsel. But God knew the challenges they would face, and He certainly knew how lonely and troubled they would sometimes feel. So He watched over His mortal family constantly, heard their prayers always, and sent prophets and later apostles to teach, counsel, and guide them. But in times of special need, He sent angels, divine messengers, to bless His children, reassure them that heaven was always very close and that His help was always very near. Indeed, shortly after Adam and Eve found themselves in the lone and dreary world, an angel appeared unto them, 2 who taught them the meaning of their sacrifice and the atoning role of the promised Redeemer who was to come. Time in this setting does not allow even a cursory examination of the scriptures or our own latter-day history, which are so filled with accounts of angels ministering to those on earth, but it is rich doctrine and rich history indeed. Usually such beings are not seen. But seen or unseen they are always near. Sometimes their assignments are very grand and have significance for the whole world. Sometimes the messages are more private. Occasionally the angelic purpose is to warn. But most often it is to comfort, to provide some form of merciful attention, guidance in difficult times. Our present day is filled with global distress over financial crises, energy problems, terrorist attacks, and natural calamities. These translate into individual and family concerns not only about homes in which to live and food available to eat but also about the ultimate safety and well-being of our children and the latter-day prophecies about our planet. More serious than theseâ€”and sometimes related to themâ€”are matters of ethical, moral, and spiritual decay seen in populations large and small, at home and abroad. But I testify that angels are still sent to help us, even as they were sent to help Adam and Eve, to help the prophets, and indeed to help the Savior of the world Himself. And so such ministrations will be to the righteous until the end of time. As Mormon said to his son Moroni, who would one day be an angel: Or has he withheld the power of the Holy Ghost from them? Or will he, so long as time shall last, or the earth shall stand, or there shall be one man upon the face thereof to be saved? Then] all things shall work together for [our] good, if [we] walk uprightly and remember the covenant wherewith [we] have covenanted. They are a time to be believing and remember our covenants. I have spoken here of heavenly help, of angels dispatched to bless us in time of need. But when we speak of those who are instruments in the hand of God, we are reminded that not all angels are from the other side of the veil. Some of them we walk with and talk withâ€”here, now, every day. Some of them reside in our own neighborhoods. Some of them gave birth to us, and in my case, one of them consented to marry me. Indeed heaven never seems closer than when we see the love of God manifested in the kindness and devotion of people so good and so pure that angelic is the only word that comes to mind. Elder James Dunn, from this pulpit just moments ago, used that word in his invocation to describe this Primary choirâ€”and why not? With the spirit, faces, and voices of those children in our mind and before our eyes, may I share with you an account by my friend and BYU colleague, the late Clyn D. I do so with the permission of his wife, Marilyn, and their family. Referring to his childhood on a large Idaho farm, Brother Barrus spoke of his nightly assignment to round up the cows at milking time. Because the cows pastured in a field bordered by the occasionally treacherous Teton River, the strict rule in the Barrus household was that during the spring flood season the children were never to go after any cows who ventured across the river. They were always to return home and seek mature help. But when young Clyn arrived at the pasture, the cows he sought had crossed the river, even though it was running at high flood stage. Knowing his rare night at the movies was in jeopardy, he decided to go after the cows himself, even though he had been warned many times never to do so. I felt that I could redeem myself only by bringing the cows home safely. Maybe then my father would forgive me. I was wet and cold, lost and afraid. When I finally looked up, I saw through my tears a figure dressed in white walking toward me. In the dark, I felt certain it must be an angel sent in answer to my prayers. I did not move or make a sound as the figure approached, so overwhelmed was I by what I saw. Would the Lord really send an angel to me, who had been so disobedient? When neither I nor the cows were to be found, he knew I had crossed the river and was in danger. Because it was dark and time was of the essence, he removed his clothes down to his long white thermal underwear, tied his shoes around his neck, and swam a treacherous river to rescue a wayward son. In doing so I am testifying that God never leaves us alone, never leaves us unaided in the challenges that we face. Often enough that distress can be of our own making, but even then the Father of us all is watching and assisting. And always there are those angels who come and go all around us, seen and unseen, known and unknown, mortal and immortal. I will be on your right hand and on your left, and my Spirit shall be in your [heart], and mine angels round about you, to bear you up.
