Mother Nature, Father Time (Tales of Medicine) by Robert A. Norman; Brenda Fewox. North Shore Pr, Paperback. Good. Good reading book. Trade size paperback.

This image derives from several sources, including the Grim Reaper and the misattribution of Cronus not Chronos as the Greek Titan of human time, reaping and calendars, or the Lord of Time. Time in his allegorical form is often depicted revealing or unveiling the allegorical Truth, sometimes at the expense of a personification of Falsehood, Fraud, or Envy. This theme is related to the idea of veritas filia temporis Time is the father of Truth. In popular culture[edit] Father Time is an established symbol in numerous cultures, and appears in a variety of art and media. In some cases, they appear specifically as Father Time, while in other cases they may have another name such as Saturn but the characters demonstrate the attributes which Father Time has acquired over the centuries. Currently in the collection of the Museo de Prado in Madrid, Spain. Currently in the Wallace Collection , London. Time Reveals the Truth: Time Reveals the Truth, a c. Time Revealing Truth, late seventeenth- or early eighteenth-century painting by Sebastiano Ricci Belluno. Father Time appears in the fairy tale themed short story, written by L. Entitled "The Capture of Father Time". That Father Time was captured by the son of an Arizonian cowboy named Jim because of his foolishness. Time also referred to as "Chronos" appears in several of the books and is the main character of Bearing an Hourglass. For most of the series he appears as a middle-aged man in a blue robe which has the power to age to oblivion anything which attacks him and bearing an hourglass which he can use to control the flow of time and move himself through both time and space. He is freed from exile and sent to Earth on the condition that he teaches two people on Earth the true importance of time, a teenage girl who does not wish to live anymore, and a dying old billionaire who wishes to live forever. Father Time also appeared in C. Notable in the logo was that Father Time had switched out his traditional hourglass for a watch. Comics, magazines and periodicals[edit] Father Time made numerous appearances in the classic comic Little Nemo in Slumberland , both as a general representation of time and as a symbol of the new year. The scythe and the hourglass are referenced by the character Johannes in Ordet. Father Time appears as one of the main characters in Histeria! The Escape Clause portrayed by Peter Boyle. He appears to be made out of clocks and wears a purple hat. He is known as the master of time, and is depicted as a child, young man, and old man in a constantly changing cycle. He also has a variety of timekeeping devices on his person, and wields a staff that can be transformed into a scythe. He first appeared in the special episode "The Ultimate Enemy".

Share This is a myth, meaning it is not real, and does not support the beliefs of any group. It was solely for the Entertainment of the reader. Mother Nature ruled the Earth. She controlled the weather and growth of all animals and plants. She noticed that she would need help, so she created Summer and Winter, her first two seasons. At first, they got along, but soon, they began to argue. Seeing this, Mother Nature created Fall, to keep peace between the quarreling seasons, but Fall soon sided with Winter and Summer became angry. So Mother Nature created Spring. But Spring was peaceful and did not want to side with Summer. Then Summer got angry, so Summer caused a great fire to burn in the wilderness, and today that is known as a wildfire. Mother Nature saw her creatures and plants burning, She was infuriated. She said in some areas, Summer would not rule during his time. Also to end the fighting, Winter was told that he wouldnt rule in some areas at all, and only had the cold continent of Antarctica fully under his control. Winter did not like this, and caused an age of ice to plague the earth. Summer was infuriated, and he cast a great drought in the land today known today as Africa. Spring tried to make rains quell the drought, but only succeeded in making a rainforest in a small portion. Winter became angry, but he ended the ice age. Mother Nature saw this, and decided to call all the seasons together. She told them each would get three months out of the year in temperate climates to each season to do as they wish. Next came Spring, who was in charge of keeping peace and making the flowers bloom. Taking no sides, she decided to mix winter and summer in the season of Spring. Fall was in charge of the transition to Winter. Because Winter had little area to rule than the other seasons, he was sometimes given extra weeks by Spring and Fall. He also got to control the transition of the year, meaning his rule lasted in two years. Also Winter could sometimes interrupt other seasons with snow. So, the seasons remain in almost complete peace.

What exactly is metabolism? Metabolism refers to the biochemical process in which your body converts everything you eat and drink into the energy it needs to function. The calories in food and beverages are mixed with oxygen to release that energy. How many calories your body uses for these basic functions is your basal metabolic rate – or what you think of as your metabolism. What determines your metabolism? Men usually burn more calories than women because they have more muscle and less fat. One person can eat whatever, whenever he wants and not gain weight while the other has to watch every bite. Body size and composition: People who are larger or who have more muscle mass burn more calories, even when they are resting. Men usually burn more calories because they typically have less body fat and more muscle than women of the same age and weight. Your muscle mass tends to decrease as you get older and fat makes up more of your weight, which slows down how quickly you burn calories. Can you change your metabolism? Spicing up your meals might temporarily speed up your metabolism. Some things to try: Eating too little or not often enough can slow down your metabolism. Eat a small meal or healthy snack every three or four hours. Using chili pepper and other spices can temporarily speed up your metabolism a little. Drink coffee and green tea. Both beverages give you a short rise in metabolism and offer caffeine, which can perk you up and let you exercise longer. So, there are some things you can do to speed up your metabolism, which may help with weight loss. But if you want to drop a few pounds, the formula is simpler.

Little Jack Frost came over the hill last night, and what mischief the boy is planning to do now, it is hard to tell. He is such a happy little fellow, but is always up to some prank. I have put them to bed and told them to keep quiet, and perhaps Jack will not see them. Early this morning I found one of them whispering to a sunbeam, and under the hedge found a tiny blue aster. I shook her till she was so cold she was glad to go back to bed again. I must write a letter to Father Winter. Earthdom, November 1, Have you any warm blankets for my babies? The season is coming when they should take a long, long nap, and Jack is up to his tricks again. Please send me some blankets soon. From your old friend, This letter she directed to: King Winter was seated on his throne at the back of the North Wind, planning his coming work in Earthdom, when Autumn Wind arrived with the letter. I meant he should wait for me this year. But something must be done. Snowflake, come here, and bring your sisters and brothers with you. Jack is there, and they are freezing. The sun was setting as they passed the western gate of the city, and the cloud was tinged with red and gold. By and by it began to grow dark, and the little cloud grew larger and larger, and before long the night came. In the morning the little children of Earthdom were surprised to see a white covering over the land. But I wonder if any of them knew what the snow really came for, and how glad dear Mother Nature was because her babies were sleeping safe and warm under the downy snowflake blankets.

So i've recently been sick and bored so i figured i'd write a couple battles, maybe try to finish up S5 already. Anyway, i figured i'd humor the people who suggest 'Mom vs Dad' and do Mother Nature VS Father Time.

To primitive man, the ability to heal and cure disease seemed to be magical, even miraculous. The gospels of the New Testament are filled with the miraculous healings of Jesus. Every traditional culture has its gods, demigods, and heroes who are associated with the art of healing. To the ancient Greeks, medicine was a gift from the gods. Greek mythology is full of symbolic legends and allegories explaining the nature and origins of the art of healing. In these myths and the gods and goddesses associated with them, we can find the basic, fundamental archetypes that have guided and shaped the art of healing in Western civilization from its very inception. These archetypes still guide the physician today, and all those who come to him for healing, whether they realize it or not. Greek mythology is a wonderful source of wisdom and inspiration for the physician. By studying the Greek myths, we can gain valuable insights into the nature of health and disease, and the way of the healer. She is Gaia, or Mother Earth, who created herself out of primordial chaos. From her fertile womb all life sprang, and unto Mother Earth all living things must return after their allotted span of life is over. Gaia, as Mother Nature, personifies the entire ecosystem of Planet Earth. Mother Nature is always working to achieve and maintain harmony, wholeness and balance within the environment. Mother Nature heals, nurtures and supports all life on this planet, and ultimately all life and health depend on Her. In time, Nature heals all ills. The way of Mother Gaia is the passive, feminine, Yin way of healing. All we need to do to regain our health is to return to the bosom of Mother Nature and live in accordance with Her laws. The Gaia archetype underlies all notions of the Nature Cure. Mother Nature is a healing goddess. In the s, James Lovelock formulated the Gaia hypothesis. It states that all life, and all living things on this planet, are part of a single, all-encompassing global entity or consciousness which he named Gaia. It is this global consciousness, Mother Gaia, that makes our planet capable of supporting life, while our near neighbors in the solar system are barren and lifeless. Through the global consciousness of Mother Gaia, all living things on this planet, from their most primordial instincts, are constantly interacting with their environment to ensure the harmony, balance and continuity of Life. Live in abalance with Mother Nature and health and healing are yours; violate Her laws and get out of balance, and you pay the price in suffering and disease. In this sense, all medicine and healing can be seen as a system of ecology.

Nature is the best medicine and even Hippocrates the father of modern medicine said food is medicine. Mary is a committed, enthusiastic, naturopath and she is excellent. Mary is a committed, enthusiastic, naturopath and she is excellent.

This battle is literally no research, just puns that are pretty bad, but whatever. You think you can challenge the beauty that is Nature? I grew every plant and helped birth every creature. I bring forth new life, you deliver new death. Hurting Mother Nature is simply a crime. Personally, I think I prefer Chronos as lord of time. Come now gramps, you trying to fight is petty. Do us all a favor and just go die already. You can go ahead and put yourself into time out. I can rewind time to before you even existed. So you can go ahead and stop, watch and learn. Eat away at you more then Acid Rain! You dedication to this world fills me with disgust. I think destroying you will be pretty fun. Okay, allow me to pause you right then and there. Global warming will kill you and only Al Gore will care. Your rapping is meaningless, a failure on the mic. Everything you control gets destroyed by pollution. I helped you change through the use of evolution. Truly you must know, I am the most mighty foe. Your raps are more boring then watching grass grow. I rule over everything!
