Parents feel they have to take care of their kids, whether they are 9 or 19 years old. How would you let a guest act? Thinking Errors and Victim Mentality Kids between the ages of 17 and 25 still have a lot of thinking errors. You should trust me more. Teenage mentality lasts from early adolescence until 22 or 23 years of age. Most of the research shows kids are still using the same parts of their brain at 22 that they were using at So they are not that much more prepared for adult situations. I hear kids say this all the time to their parents: Kids are experts at manipulating their parents with guilt. How Kids Control You with Behavior Establish the Rules of the House with Older Kids I think parents should have two levels of rules with their older children who are still living at home: Core Household Rules The first rules of your household should reflect your core values, structure and moral authority. These are the rules that should always apply. That rule never changes. Adult Child Rules The second level of rules is the one that enables parents to live with young adults. Certainly, young adults should get more responsibility and independence, but they have to earn it. You have a right as a parent to expect this. Discuss the Rules The most important part of having rules with older children is the discussion that establishes those rules. When a child is about to turn 18, parents need to have a serious discussion about what the rules are going to be in order for everyone to live together. It should be a sit down discussion. And you should write everything down that you agree to so that everything is clear. What can you do? How will we support you in what you can do? These things should be clearly spelled out. For example, the rule on drinking: Just establish the rule, write it down and explain to the child that he is over 18, and this is how we have to live with this issue. If your kid threatens you or gets violent in response, I recommend that you call the police. I think when someone is 18, if they finish high school, they should be supporting themselves financially. Parents need to say to older kids: Think of Your Adult Children as a Guestsâ€”Not as Children If you feel compromised and taken advantage of by an older child, you need to realize this: He may not act it, but he is an adult. And he has to follow your laws. I want you to think of your adult children as guests. They are now guests in your home. When would you draw the line with a guest? When would you feel you have to call the police with a guest? The Guest Room When my son went to college, one of the biggest shocks he had was when we started to refer to his room as the guest room. I remember him saying: You can stay there anytime you want, for as long as you want, as long as you live our way. We wanted him to see himself as an adult. For parents who are very anxious and have a lot of fears about their kids, this sounds like a difficult thing to say. In effect, you are saying: Many young adult children often have a false sense of entitlement. Fantasy Talk I met many kids in my practice who refused to go to school and could only read and write at a seventh or eighth grade level at best. They told me they were going to be video game programmers, basketball players, or rap singers. It was all a fantasy. I wrote a few songs tonight. What makes you think you can do it? His lack of studying is not the problem. You not believing his fantasy becomes the problem. Clarify the Rules When you have these different currents coming together in a home where parents are living with an older child, it can get very uncomfortable for everyone, if not hostile. The way to keep that hostility at bay is to have clarity beforehand. Get the expectations and the consequences down on paperâ€”literally. Write them down and expect the child to live by them. The parent is afraid the child is not going to amount to anything. Tell him to leave with his lunch and his phone and go look for a job. This may sound harsh. The solution to that problem is getting a job. Many times parents use their own fears, anxieties, and sense of guilt and remorse to justify not doing what they would do to a guest. Out of fear, they choose not to expect out of their child what they expect out of themselves every day.

A child in out-of-home placement is eligible to remain in out-of-home placement until the end of the month in which the child becomes 18 years old, except that a child 18 to 21 years old may remain in out-of-home placement up to the 21st birthday so long as the child is: A child who is initially eligible for IV-E funding shall continue to be eligible as long as the child remains in out-of-home placement. The child becomes ineligible: For the purpose of CMR 7. If requested by the guardian s , the Department may extend a guardianship subsidy up to the age of 22 for a young adult who is enrolled in a school, vocational program or a college program. If requested by the guardians, the Department may extend a federally supported guardianship subsidy to a young adult who reaches the age of 18 up to age 21 if one of the following criteria are met: If the department renews its responsibility, all other provisions of this subsection shall apply. The department shall report annually to the child advocate, the senate and house chairs of the joint committee on children, families and persons with disabilities and the chairs of the senate and house committees on ways and means on the number of persons it serves and declines to serve under this subsection. The department may provide extended foster care services if the youth meets 1 of the following conditions for eligibility: Eligibility to continue in foster care. The child must meet at least one of the following conditions to be considered eligible to continue in or return to foster care and remain there to age 21. The child must be: The Independent Living Program assists adolescents in acquiring basic life skills in their progress toward self-sufficiency. An Independent Living placement is a placement in an apartment house or rooming house with supervision from a licensed placement agency. A youth who has attained age 18, meets the requirements listed below, and is in the custody of DFCS will be considered for placement. A youth who has reached age 17, in addition to the above requirements, must obtain a high school diploma, certificate of attendance, or general equivalency diploma GED. The petition shall be filed in the court that previously exercised authority over the youth under section 2107. If a guardian ad litem is appointed, he or she shall serve under section 2107. Supervised independent living settings shall include, but not be limited to, single or shared apartments, houses, host homes, college dormitories, or other postsecondary educational or vocational housing; 5 Voluntary services and support agreement means a voluntary placement agreement as defined in 42 U.S.C. 11411. The bridge to independence program is available, on a voluntary basis, to a young adult: Independent living placement status allows an eligible youth to become his or her own vendor to receive monthly maintenance payments. The maintenance payment allows the youth to live as a boarder with a foster parent or to live independently with limited PSD supervision regarding safety and appropriate use of funds. A youth age 18 up to age 21 who has aged out of foster care at age 18 may be eligible for an independent living placement as determined by the YTS with supervisory approval. With the approval of the regional manager and the youth services bureau chief, a youth age 17 in PSD custody may be eligible for ILPS, with the monthly maintenance payment provided with state general funds. The PPW shall prepare a memorandum for decision to the regional manager and youth services bureau chief about whether ILPS is appropriate for a youth age 17, discussing the IL skills assessment and describing the housing the youth will secure. Under no circumstance, may a youth in custody on runaway status simultaneously be on ILPS. Such petition shall be filed at least sixty days prior to the expiration of the period of placement, except for good cause shown, but in no event shall such petition be filed after the original expiration date. Such appropriations, together with county contributions for this purpose, shall be expended to provide for the costs of keeping children in foster care facilities. A petition to commence an action under this section must contain information required under section 2107 along with an affidavit either prepared by the administrative county, as determined by the department of human services, or prepared by an agency or tribal council of a recognized Indian reservation in North Dakota. The court shall issue a summons in accordance with section 2107 upon the filing of a petition and affidavit. If a child is in need of continued foster care services as determined by the department of human services and as set forth in a continued foster care agreement, the court shall make the following judicial determination: That the child is not deprived, delinquent, or unruly but is in need of continued foster care services; b. That it is in the best interest of the child to remain in or return to foster care; e. That reasonable efforts were made in accordance with subsection 7 of section That the child has attained the age of eighteen or older but does not exceed the age of twenty-one years; g. That the child has satisfied the education, employment, or disability requirements under the Fostering Connections to Success and Increasing Adoptions Act of [Pub. That the administrative county, as determined by the department, or that an agency or tribal council of a recognized Indian reservation in North Dakota, shall continue foster care case management, unless otherwise agreed to or required by the department; i. That the administrative county or an agency or tribal council of a recognized Indian reservation in North Dakota must have care and placement responsibility of the child; j. That permanency hearing must be as set forth in section ; and k. That there are no grounds to file a petition to terminate parental rights under chapter B 1 The director of job and family services shall, not later than nine months after the effective date of H. C In addition to other requirements, a person who is in foster care or has been adopted must meet at least one of the following criteria: The purpose of the Successful Adulthood Act shall be: To ensure that eligible individuals, who have been or are in the foster care program of the Department of Human Services or a federally recognized Indian tribe with whom the Department has a contract, due to abuse or neglect, receive the protection and support necessary to allow those individuals to become self-reliant and productive citizens through the provision of requisite services that include, but are not limited to, transitional planning, housing, medical coverage, and education; provided, that eligibility for tuition waivers shall be as set forth in Section of Title 70 of the Oklahoma Statutes; and 2. To break the cycle of abuse and neglect that obligates the state to assume custody of children.

Converting a fraction such as 18/19 into a percent is pretty easy. All you have to do is divide the numerator by the denominator and then multiply that result with like so.

Obliteration of the Self or Death Worship , whose core territories are China , Japan , Korea and Indochina The perpetual war is fought for control of the "disputed area" lying "between the frontiers of the super-states", which forms "a rough parallelogram with its corners at Tangier , Brazzaville , Darwin and Hong Kong ", [33] and Northern Africa, the Middle East, India and Indonesia are where the superstates capture and use slave labour. Fighting also takes place between Eurasia and Eastasia in Manchuria , Mongolia and Central Asia, and all three powers battle one another over various Atlantic and Pacific islands. The only references to the exterior world for the Oceanian citizenry the Outer Party and the Proles are Ministry of Truth maps and propaganda to ensure their belief in "the war". Eurasia was formed when the Soviet Union conquered Continental Europe, creating a single state stretching from Portugal to the Bering Strait. Eurasia does not include the British Isles because the United States annexed them along with the rest of the British Empire and Latin America, thus establishing Oceania and gaining control over a quarter of the planet. Eastasia , the last superstate established, emerged only after "a decade of confused fighting". It includes the Asian lands conquered by China and Japan. The annexation of Britain occurred about the same time as the atomic war that provoked civil war, but who fought whom in the war is left unclear. Nuclear weapons fell on Britain; an atomic bombing of Colchester is referenced in the text. Exactly how Ingsoc and its rival systems Neo-Bolshevism and Death Worship gained power in their respective countries is also unclear. While the precise chronology cannot be traced, most of the global societal reorganization occurred between and the early s. Winston and Julia once meet in the ruins of a church that was destroyed in a nuclear attack "thirty years" earlier, which suggests as the year of the atomic war that destabilised society and allowed the Party to seize power. It is stated in the novel that the "fourth quarter of " was "also the sixth quarter of the Ninth Three-Year Plan", which implies that the first quarter of the first three-year plan began in July By then, the Party was apparently in control of Oceania. Perpetual war In , there is a perpetual war between Oceania, Eurasia and Eastasia, the superstates that emerged from the global atomic war. The Theory and Practice of Oligarchical Collectivism, by Emmanuel Goldstein, explains that each state is so strong it cannot be defeated, even with the combined forces of two superstates, despite changing alliances. To hide such contradictions, history is rewritten to explain that the new alliance always was so; the populaces are accustomed to doublethink and accept it. The war is not fought in Oceanian, Eurasian or Eastasian territory but in the Arctic wastes and in a disputed zone comprising the sea and land from Tangiers Northern Africa to Darwin Australia. The public are blind to the change; in mid-sentence, an orator changes the name of the enemy from "Eurasia" to "Eastasia" without pause. When the public are enraged at noticing that the wrong flags and posters are displayed, they tear them down; the Party later claims to have captured Africa. By using up most of the produced objects like boots and rations, the proles are kept poor and uneducated and will neither realise what the government is doing nor rebel. The military technology in the novel differs little from that of World War II, but strategic bomber aeroplanes are replaced with rocket bombs , helicopters were heavily used as weapons of war they did not figure in World War II in any form but prototypes and surface combat units have been all but replaced by immense and unsinkable Floating Fortresses, island-like contraptions concentrating the firepower of a whole naval task force in a single, semi-mobile platform in the novel, one is said to have been anchored between Iceland and the Faroe Islands , suggesting a preference for sea lane interdiction and denial. Living standards[edit] The society of Airstrip One and, according to "The Book", almost the whole world, lives in poverty: Ruined cities and towns are common: Social decay and wrecked buildings surround Winston; aside from the ministerial pyramids, little of London was rebuilt. Members of the Outer Party consume synthetic foodstuffs and poor-quality "luxuries" such as oily gin and loosely-packed cigarettes, distributed under the "Victory" brand. They were smoked because it was easier to import them from India than it was to import American cigarettes from across the Atlantic because of the War of the Atlantic. Winston describes something as simple as the repair of a broken pane of glass as requiring committee approval that can take several years and so most of those living in one of the blocks usually do the repairs themselves Winston himself is called in by Mrs. Parsons to repair her blocked sink. All Outer Party residences include telescreens that serve both as outlets for propaganda and to monitor the Party members; they can be turned down, but they cannot be turned off. In contrast to their subordinates, the Inner Party upper class of Oceanian society reside in clean and comfortable flats in their own quarter of the city, with pantries well-stocked with foodstuffs such as wine, coffee and sugar, all denied to the general populace. All members of the Inner Party are attended to by slaves captured in the disputed zone, and "The Book" suggests that many have their own motorcars or even helicopters. At the same time, the proles are freer and less intimidated than the middle-class Outer Party: They lack telescreens in their own homes and often jeer at the telescreens that they see. The model demands tight control of the middle class, with ambitious Outer-Party members neutralised via promotion to the Inner Party or "reintegration" by the Ministry of Love, and proles can be allowed intellectual freedom because they lack intellect. Winston nonetheless believes that "the future belonged to the proles". Consumer goods are scarce, and all those available through official channels are of low quality; for instance, despite the Party regularly reporting increased boot production, more than half of the Oceanian populace goes barefoot. The Party claims that poverty is a necessary sacrifice for the war effort, and "The Book" confirms that to be partially correct since the purpose of perpetual war consumes surplus industrial production. Outer Party members and proles occasionally gain access to better items in the market, which deals in goods that were pilfered from the residences of the Inner Party. Transferred nationalism swiftly redirects emotions from one power unit to another for example, Communism, Pacifism , Colour Feeling and Class Feeling. It happens during Hate Week, a Party rally against the original enemy. The crowd goes wild and destroys the posters that are now against their new friend, and many say that they must be the act of an agent of their new enemy and former friend. Many of the crowd must have put up the posters before the rally but think that the state of affairs had always been the case. The object of torture is torture. The object of power is power. There will be no curiosity, no enjoyment of the process of life. All competing pleasures will be destroyed. But alwaysâ€”do not forget this, Winstonâ€”always there will be the intoxication of power, constantly increasing and constantly growing subtler. Always, at every moment, there will be the thrill of victory, the sensation of trampling on an enemy who is helpless. If you want a picture of the future, imagine a boot stamping on a human faceâ€”forever. On the telescreens, figures for all types of production are grossly exaggerated or simply invented to indicate an ever-growing economy, when the reality is the opposite. One small example of the endless censorship is Winston being charged with the task of eliminating a reference to an unperson in a newspaper article. He proceeds to write an article about Comrade Ogilvy, a made-up party member who displayed great heroism by leaping into the sea from a helicopter so that the dispatches he was carrying would not fall into enemy hands. Surveillance[edit] The inhabitants of Oceania , particularly the Outer Party members, have no real privacy. Many of them live in apartments equipped with two-way telescreens so that they may be watched or listened to at any time. Similar telescreens are found at workstations and in public places, along with hidden microphones. Written correspondence is routinely opened and read by the government before it is delivered. The Thought Police employ undercover agents, who pose as normal citizens and report any person with subversive tendencies. Children are encouraged to report suspicious persons to the government, and some denounce their parents. Citizens are controlled, and the smallest sign of rebellion, even something so small as a facial expression, can result in immediate arrest and imprisonment. Thus, citizens, particularly party members, are compelled to obedience. Newspeak and List of Newspeak words "The Principles of Newspeak" is an academic essay appended to the novel. A linguistic theory about how language may direct thought is the Sapirâ€”Whorf hypothesis. Whether or not the Newspeak appendix implies a hopeful end to Nineteen Eighty-Four remains a critical debate, as it is in Standard English and refers to Newspeak, Ingsoc, the Party etc. Sources for literary motifs[edit] Nineteen Eighty-Four uses themes from life in the Soviet Union and wartime life in Great Britain as sources for many of its motifs. Some time at an unspecified date after the first American publication of the book, producer

Sidney Sheldon wrote to Orwell interested in adapting the novel to the Broadway stage. Orwell sold the American stage rights to Sheldon, explaining that his basic goal with Nineteen Eighty-Four was imagining the consequences of Stalinist government ruling British society: The slogan was seen in electric lights on Moscow house-fronts, billboards and elsewhere. Oceania had always been at war with Eastasia. The two nations were open and frequently vehement critics of each other until the signing of the Treaty of Non-Aggression. Thereafter, and continuing until the Nazi invasion of the Soviet Union in 1941, no criticism of Germany was allowed in the Soviet press, and all references to prior party lines stoppedâ€”including in the majority of non-Russian communist parties who tended to follow the Russian line. The film of Goldstein during the Two Minutes Hate is described as showing him being transformed into a bleating sheep. This image was used in a propaganda film during the Kino-eye period of Soviet film, which showed Trotsky transforming into a goat. The omnipresent images of Big Brother, a man described as having a moustache, bears resemblance to the cult of personality built up around Joseph Stalin. The news in Oceania emphasised production figures, just as it did in the Soviet Union, where record-setting in factories by "Heroes of Socialist Labor" was especially glorified. The best known of these was Alexey Stakhanov, who purportedly set a record for coal mining in 1935. The tortures of the Ministry of Love evoke the procedures used by the NKVD in their interrogations, [46] including the use of rubber truncheons, being forbidden to put your hands in your pockets, remaining in brightly lit rooms for days, torture through the use of their greatest fear, and the victim being shown a mirror after their physical collapse. The random bombing of Airstrip One is based on the Buzz bombs and the V-2 rocket, which struck England at random in 1944. The song was published as early as 1939. The song was a popular camp song in the 1940s, sung with corresponding movements like touching your chest when you sing "chest", and touching your head when you sing "nut". Glenn Miller recorded the song in 1941. These were often short pep-talks given to workers before their shifts began Two Minutes Hate, but could also last for days, as in the annual celebrations of the anniversary of the October revolution Hate Week. Orwell fictionalized "newspeak", "doublethink", and "Ministry of Truth" as evinced by both the Soviet press and that of Nazi Germany. Following his execution in 1953, Yezhov was edited out of the photo by Soviet censors. When he fell in 1953, and was subsequently executed, institutes that had the encyclopaedia were sent an article about the Bering Strait, with instructions to paste it over the article about Beria. A small collection of the more political of these have been published together with his wartime speeches in English as "On the Great Patriotic War of the Soviet Union" By Joseph Stalin. The story concludes with an appendix describing the success of the project. It is a naval power whose militarism venerates the sailors of the floating fortresses, from which battle is given to recapturing India, the "Jewel in the Crown" of the British Empire. Altered photographs and newspaper articles create unpersons deleted from the national historical record, including even founding members of the regime Jones, Aaronson and Rutherford in the 1930s purges viz the Soviet Purges of the 1930s, in which leaders of the Bolshevik Revolution were similarly treated. A similar thing also happened during the French Revolution in which many of the original leaders of the Revolution were later put to death, for example Danton who was put to death by Robespierre, and then later Robespierre himself met the same fate. In his essay "Why I Write", Orwell explains that the serious works he wrote since the Spanish Civil War â€”39 were "written, directly or indirectly, against totalitarianism and for democratic socialism".
