

Chapter 1 : First Minnesota Films presents NO MORE GALLANT A DEED

Edited at the talented hands of Steven J. Keillor the book, No More Gallant a Deed, to me ranks up there among the best, along with Richard Moe's, The Last Full Measure. Wright was a modest man and a hero in the finest sense of the word and Keillor deftly brings that to light.

The exploits of the 1st Minnesota have been mostly forgotten. The 1st Minnesota Regiment was known for their resolute behavior and bravery under fire. Their charge into legend happened on July 2, during the second day of the Battle of Gettysburg, when members of the 1st attacked Confederates, gaining five-minutes-time which allowed Union reinforcements to arrive and close a dangerous gap in the Union line. At the end of the fifteen minute fight, only 42 men of the 1st walked off the field; the rest were killed or wounded. Were it not for their actions, the Battle of Gettysburg might well have been lost. A loss that might well have meant the loss of the Civil War. No More Gallant a Deed is different from the standard documentary approach of recent years. It will be the voices of the men themselves who will bring the 1st Minnesota to life in our film. There will be no recreations of epic battles. Aply led throughout the war, the regiment earned a reputation of not retreating no matter how grave the situation, earning commendations from every quarter including President Lincoln himself. The battles they fought from Bull Run to Gettysburg have been documented, but not in a way that brings the story to life for contemporary Minnesotans as No More Gallant a Deed will. Every man was an immigrant to Minnesota and new to war. We will learn what it was like to march 64 miles in two days across Virginia in stifling July heat to fight a three-day battle. We will hear in their words their opinions on everything from the topography they traversed, to their concern for those back home, to their hopes of surviving the carnage that was the Civil War which took nearly , lives. This will be the first regimental history produced where each word is authentic and comes from the combatants and not through the filter of historians and analysts. Of the original thousand who embarked on steamboats from St. Paul, Minnesota and then travelled by train from La Crosse , Wisconsin to Chicago and on to the East and the newly started war, the film will be framed around significant stories of individual soldiers. This film will examine the Civil War from the perspective of those who fought it. The men who made the historic charge down Cemetery Ridge to save the Union Army will tell the tale. He will lead us through the war. He died in , the last man of the 1st. He was their chronicler, the author of the book No More Gallant a Deed, the day by day account of the 1st Minnesota. We will meet others, too: Philip Hamlin, a student who wrote eloquently of his experiences until his death at Gettysburg; Isaac Taylor, a school teacher who pondered in his diary the meaning of all he saw; sickly Charley Goddard who enlisted at 15 promising his mother he would write her every day; wounded Sam Bloomer, a native of Switzerland who lost a leg at Antietam and wondered if a woman would ever love him; Thomas Pressnell who stopped by the White House on a whim and had a pleasant chat with President Lincoln; Edward Bassett, a farm boy who survived the war but found it too haunting to contend with; Colonel William Colvill, a natural leader, a hero to his men, to his state and nation. We will come to know the reason why his statue stands in the rotunda of the Minnesota State Capitol and why 20, Minnesotans showed up in Cannon Falls in to hear President Calvin Coolidge pay him homage.

Chapter 2 : No More Gallant a Deed PDF James A. Wright

No More Gallant a Deed has 4 ratings and 1 review. Terry said: I never thought I'd be reading books re. the Civil War as a leisure time activity, but a r.

Chapter 3 : Top shelves for No More Gallant a Deed

James A. Wright was an orderly sergeant in Company F of the First Minnesota Volunteer Infantry Regiment in the Civil War. His memoir, based on his diaries and letters, is the fullest personal account of the battles, marches, and soldier life of one of the most renowned regiments in the Army of the Potomac.

Chapter 4 : The Men | First Minnesota Films presents NO MORE GALLANT A DEED

No More Gallant a Deed is different from the standard documentary approach of recent years. It will be the voices of the men themselves who will bring the 1st Minnesota to life in our film. It will be the voices of the men themselves who will bring the 1st Minnesota to life in our film.

Chapter 5 : Minnesota at the Crossroads: Battle of Antietam | History Education MN

No More Gallant a Deed: A Civil War Memoir of the First Minnesota Volunteers by James Wright James A. Wright was an orderly sergeant in Company F of the First Minnesota Volunteer Infantry Regiment in the Civil War.

Chapter 6 : No More Gallant a Deed: A Civil War Memoir of the First Minnesota Volunteers by James A. W

No More Gallant a Deed: A Civil War Memoir of the First Minnesota Volunteers by Professor James Wright, Steven J Keillor (Editor) starting at $ No More Gallant a Deed: A Civil War Memoir of the First Minnesota Volunteers has 2 available editions to buy at Alibris.

Chapter 7 : No More Gallant a Deed | Minnesota Historical Society

Get this from a library! No more gallant a deed: a Civil War memoir of the First Minnesota Volunteers. [James A Wright; Steven J Keillor] -- "James A. Wright was an orderly sergeant in Company F of the First Minnesota Volunteer Infantry Regiment in the Civil War.

Chapter 8 : No More Gallant a Deed : Professor James Wright :

It's Your History - The 1st Minnesota Infantry of the Civil War - Duration: QCTV - Andover, Anoka, Champlin, Ramsey 3, views.

Chapter 9 : Rural Route Book Store â€œ Minnesota in the Civil War: An Illustrated History

No More Gallant A Deed A Civil War Memoir Of Pdf Files Download uploaded by Natasha Jackson on October 20 This is a pdf of No More Gallant A Deed A Civil War Memoir Of that reader can be grabbed it with no registration at calendrierdelascience.com