

Chapter 1 : To our American Neighbors | 12 pieces jigsaw puzzle

Our neighbors must have seen my dad doing this because we saw the husband gave us a quick smile the next morning when we were leaving our driveway. It was not a very friendly smile, but at least it was the first smile that we got from them.

American Baptists and Our Neighbors. If you would like download a printable copy, please click here. As I write to you today, we all would acknowledge that recently our country has experienced a great deal of turmoil, pain and stress. What are we witnessing? A lack of civility in both discourse and behavior cuts across all strata of our society, and extends even to the Presidency itself. Prejudice and xenophobia threaten to become policy, in ways that are not only unjust, but destructive of basic American core values. Immigrants are seen as a threat and not a blessing. The January shut-down of our federal government symbolizes the polarization and dysfunction of our political institutions. Schools suffer violence, and innocent children are murdered. Politicians, celebrities, newscasters, sports stars, doctors, and yes, even clergy, have been guilty of sexual harassment and abuse. Months after hurricanes devastated Puerto Rico, much of the island has no electrical power, while traffic lights, thousands of homes and many church buildings still require repair. As representatives of the Kingdom of God envisioned by Jesus see Matthew , we must not remain silent as our American society falters in upholding cherished principles, and this is why I am writing to our ABCUSA family. Many have shared advice and counsel, and have also expressed support for the letter. I would like to thank them all for their insights and encouragement. Each one of the issues raised above deserves thoughtful consideration and prophetic response, but in this letter, I wish to address an underlying theme that may provide our leaders and churches with a perspective by which to faithfully address all of them. In brief, our culture suffers from a form of spiritual amnesia. We are so quick to judge, denigrate, criticize, attack, and assume to be superior to those with whom we differ. There is precious little grace, courtesy and mutual respect remaining in American discourse and life. We must recapture these virtues which can resupply society with much needed social capital. This failing applies to both the President and Congress, to political and social conservatives and liberals alike, to Republicans and to Democrats, as well as to those of us who are part of religious communities. If we believe that all people are precious to God and equal to one another, we must reject prejudice, hatred, racism, anti-Semitism, Islamophobia, and other forms of bigotry. If we believe in the equality of all human beings, we can celebrate religious, ethnic, cultural and linguistic diversity as a gift that enriches us all. We can defend the right of others to be safe and free, even if we do not see eye to eye on political matters Baptists have held this position since colonial times. We will befriend the stranger and immigrant and protect the powerless. We will treat others with caring, respect and generosity. Imagine what kind of a society we could experience if we applied this wisdom to our political discourse: Consider what policymaking would look like if we applied this admonition: Immigrants, for example, are our neighbors, not our enemies. In regard to our witness concerning racism, I encourage all American Baptists to travel to Washington DC for a potentially historic religious service and demonstration on April 4, , in commemoration of the 50th anniversary of the death of Rev. Martin Luther King, Jr. Denominations and organizations from across the theological spectrum are coming together to affirm that we believe in an America that exemplifies racial justice and harmony. I will be there, and I hope American Baptists will support this ecumenical affirmation that all Americans are our neighbors. For more information, see http: In response to the status of undocumented immigrants, I would remind us that many are members of American Baptist churches all across the country. They are our sisters and brothers. Seek them out, love them, express solidarity with them, demonstrate compassion and care. Although legitimate differences of opinion exist amongst us regarding immigration policy, I would encourage us to support the continuation of the legal visa status of Haitian, Central American and other temporary legal immigrants. We can encourage Congress and the President to extend a pathway to legal status and eventual citizenship to children who came to the United States with their parents, and who may now face either deportation or separation from their parents. In the near future, the Office of the General Secretary, in cooperation with other ABCUSA ministries, hopes to launch a creative new initiative as a resource for churches who are already addressing these concerns, or may wish to start doing so. American Baptists are committed to journeying alongside our Puerto Rican Baptist churches, and we are well on our way to raising one million dollars in One Great Hour of Sharing Disaster Relief funds for the island. Send a work team! Furthermore, we invite your church to enter into a three year sister church relationship with one of our Puerto Rican congregations, culminating in face to face visits to celebrate the faith of our Puerto Rican friends at the Biennial Mission Summit in San Juan. You will soon receive details on how to become a Sister Church. I welcome feedback from you. Would you please share with me what nationalities and cultures are represented in your congregation? I believe we are a far more diverse spiritual family than we realize. Is your church reaching out to immigrants, both documented and undocumented, in loving and creative ways? Send me your stories! Are you willing to stand up against racism? Come to Washington DC on April 4! Is your church willing to befriend a sister church in Puerto Rico? We are all blessed by spiritual companionship and support. Yours in Christ, Rev.

Chapter 2 : Your country and mine : our American neighbors (Book, ) [calendrierdelascience.com]

Our North American Neighbors Corresponds to QuickReads Level D, book 2, Geography and Economics, Our North American Neighbors Le Photo: North America map.

Frequently asked questions about the This I Believe project, educational opportunities and more Click here to learn more. Sponsor This Essay I believe all human beings have a place for kindness in their hearts. People might look grumpy, old, and mean, but if you just take a little time to be around them, then you probably will see a different side of them. My parents worked hard to raise my five siblings and me. At the dinner table, we always shared our stories of events going on in our lives. My parents always took the time to tell stories and taught us about being considerate to others. I think he learned these words from the Bible. My parents are the kindest people I know, especially my dad. His manners are his top priority. My parents have always been nice to people around them, and everyone loved them back. Everything went well up until last year, when my family moved into our new neighborhood. The house to the right of our home belongs to an old, grumpy white couple. On the first day we moved to the neighborhood, our neighbors greeted us with a warning not to ever park on the side of the road in front of their home. We often saw them watching us from their windows when we got home or played outside. We were not sure how the wood got there, but it had nails sticking out of it, and it looked like a wood piece from the construction site on the next block. My dad said it would not have been good if someone had driven over the wood. Our neighbors must have seen my dad doing this because we saw the husband gave us a quick smile the next morning when we were leaving our driveway. It was not a very friendly smile, but at least it was the first smile that we got from them. About a week after we received a smile from our neighbor, my family had a get-together party. My mom made delicious egg rolls, and she saved a plate full to give to our next-door neighbors. My mom brought the egg rolls home and said that the couple might be asleep. Some weeks later, my mom made a tray full of tasty fried rice, and again she thought of the neighbors. My dad this time stopped her from taking the food to them: They answered their door this time and accepted the food my mom brought over. They did not communicate much because my mom speaks very little English. Sometimes she brought food, other times she brought tropical fruits or things from our country that she wanted to share with them. I was home one day, and the door bell rang. I answered the door, and it was my neighbor. The wife came over with a bag full of cucumbers and tomatoes from her garden. She also told me my parents are kind people and that nobody ever knocked on their door to give them food like my mom did. My siblings and I are not always home, but we know that besides sharing food, vegetables grown from their gardens, or things that they feel like sharing, Frank and Patricia are even teaching my parents English. Perhaps we are Asian and look different, or something else kept our neighbors from not wanting to be around us at first, but conditions can change and people can, too. Donate If you enjoyed this essay, please consider making a tax-deductible contribution to This I Believe, Inc. Please contact This I Believe, Inc. Seifert and his neighbors discovered that voting was the best tool they had to improve their community. Click here to read his essay. What Students Believe Throughout the school year, young people around the world write statements of belief as a classroom exercise. Click here to read a sampling of what young people believe.

Chapter 3 : Our American Neighbors Books, Book Price Comparison at bookstores

So many Americans signed up in Canada (because the USA was not officially in). We were all slaughtered (my relatives) in so many places.

Chapter 4 : Our American neighbors. (Book, ) [calendrierdelascience.com]

"For our refugee communities, 'New American Neighbors' is something that will allow them to learn the different structures and opportunities that exist for them." Our close partner in this work is the Colorado African Organization, which works with immigrants, refugees and asylum-seekers during resettlement.

DOWNLOAD PDF OUR AMERICAN NEIGHBORS

Chapter 5 : A Higher Way: American Baptists and Our Neighbors | American Baptist Churches USA

Explore Joyce Haase's board "Our American Neighbors" on Pinterest. | See more ideas about People, Latin america and Mexico.

Chapter 6 : Our american neighbors: Winslow: calendrierdelascience.com: Books

Note: Citations are based on reference standards. However, formatting rules can vary widely between applications and fields of interest or study. The specific requirements or preferences of your reviewing publisher, classroom teacher, institution or organization should be applied.

Chapter 7 : Holdings: Our American neighbors.

A Higher Way: American Baptists and Our Neighbors. VALLEY FORGE, PA (ABNS 2/1/18)â€”American Baptist Churches USA General Secretary Rev. Dr. Lee B. Spitzer published a pastoral letter today entitled, "A Higher Way: American Baptists and Our Neighbors."

Chapter 8 : Our American Neighbors Â« Nikki | This I Believe

Search the history of over billion web pages on the Internet.

Chapter 9 : Our American Neighbors: Isaac Oscar Winslow: calendrierdelascience.com: Books

*Our American Neighbors [Isaac Oscar Winslow] on calendrierdelascience.com *FREE* shipping on qualifying offers. This is an EXACT reproduction of a book published before This IS NOT an OCR'd book with strange characters.*