Comprehensive Services and Centers. These centers are considered a one-stop shop for the development and appropriation of services in order to increase family engagement and parental involvement with their children's education.

This section highlights a family engagement definition from research on the designated discipline. Child Welfare Family engagement is a family-centered, strength-based approach to establishing and maintaining relationships with families and accomplishing change together. It encompasses the inclusion of children and youth when age appropriate, as well as adult family members, in case planning and case activities, and also involves supporting the development of relationships between resource families and biological families. On an organizational or system level, family engagement means including families as key stakeholders and advisors in policy development, service design, and program and service evaluation. Effective family empowerment is the act of engaging, involving, and lifting up the voice of families throughout the child welfare continuum at the practice and system level. It promotes family buy-in; enhances the helping relationship; and promotes the safety, permanency, and well-being of children and families. When families feel they are a part of the process, they are more motivated to make needed changes. Family empowerment allows them to be the drivers of the decision-making process rather than being told what to do. When family buy-in is achieved, reunification rates are improved and overall family outcomes are better. Behavioral Health Family engagement within behavioral health concerns the attitudes, behaviors, and affect of family members regarding particular interventions or treatment options. Increased family engagement at the practice and system level often results in better outcomes for individuals being treated and involved family members. Families are involved in making decisions regarding providers involved in the treatment team, and are encouraged to express preferences, needs, priorities, and disagreements. In addition, families actively collaborate in treatment plan development and in identifying desired goals and outcomes. Families are provided with thorough information to guide their decision-making and make joint decisions with their treatment team. Families actively monitor treatment modifications and treatment outcomes. Education Family engagement in schools is defined as parents and school personnel working together at the classroom, local, and system level to support and improve the learning, development, and health of children and adolescents. Parental involvement helps ensure that the following occur: Family engagement is the process used to build genuine relationships with families. When families are engaged, partnerships are created that have a common focus helping children grow and thrive. Family engagement happens in the home, early childhood program, school, and community. It is a shared responsibility of all those who want children to succeed in school and in life. Family engagement is based on the idea that parents and others who care for their children work together to prepare children for success. The specific goals of the partnership for each family may vary and can depend on family preference, culture, and economic or social stresses.
