He does not know how to swim. They are not walking. You did not try very hard. Action verbs or Doing verbs: The verbs which tell us about action are called action or doing verbs. The action verbs are divided into two classes: A Transitive Verb is a Verb that denotes an action which passes over from the doer or Subject to an object His mother gave him Indirect a rupee Direct He gave me Indirect a secret Direct 2. An Intransitive Verb is a Verb that denotes an action which does not pass over to an object, or it expresses a state or being; as I ran a long distance. State There is a flaw in this diamond. Being Most verbs can be used both as Transitive and Intransitive verbs. It is therefore better to say that a verb is used Transitivity or Intransitivity rather than that it is Transitive or Intransitive. Transitive I feel a severe pain in my head. How do you feel? The ants fought the wasps. Some ants fight very fiercely. The shot sank the ship. The ship sank rapidly. The driver stopped the train. The train stopped suddenly. The boys fly their kites. Set the lamp on the table. He broke the glass. Strong and Weak Verbs: They are so called because from them we can form all the other parts of verb. The verbs form their Past Tense by adding -ed, or -d, or -t to the Present. Such Verbs are called Weak Verbs. If a Verb required -ed, -d, or -t to be added to the Present Tense to form the Past, with or without any change of the inside vowel, it is a Weak Verbs.
