Fishing is by far one of the most enjoyed sports or recreational activities (whichever way you look at it). For all of you fishing enthusiasts out there, we have bundled up a list of some of the best fishing locations in the world.

Some of these rods are very similar, others are quite different – all depending on what the rod was designed to do. Typically the main variables are length, strength, stiffness and guide size. Unlike most boat and trolling rods, inshore rods are designed for casting. Like most surf rods, they can be fished with either lures or bait, and will usually be designed to fit either a spinning or bait casting reel. The main difference between inshore rods and surf rods, on the other hand, is that inshore rods are designed for use from both shore and boat. Surf rods are longer and built primarily for casting heavy weights long distances. Inshore rods will typically be shorter, more sensitive and better suited to casting smaller lures at closer range, sometimes from within the confines of a small inshore boat. Trolling and jigging rods can be used inshore too but more often will be fished further out to sea, where the really big fish can be found. Unlike inshore rods they are not generally used for casting, so they will usually be set up to accommodate conventional multiplier reels rather than spinning reels. Unlike inshore rods, which are usually designed to handle smaller, inshore species like bass, redfish, mackerel, pollock and snook, trolling and jigging rods will be bigger, stronger and able to manage bigger fish like tuna, groupers, wahoo and large billfish. Both are relatively short, powerful and, because they are never really used for casting, built almost solely for fighting fish. You could argue that jigging rods need to be lighter, as anglers may be required to stand and handle them for a whole day, but trolling rods can't be too heavy either, as the reality is you may have to fight a big fish for two hours or more. One feature that may be different, especially on the heavy-rated rods, is the guides. When trolling a bait, the boat will often be travelling at speed. When these fish hit a lure, turn and run, your line can be pouring off the reel at 40mph or more. To reduce the friction on the line, heavy trolling rods will sometimes feature rollers instead of rings, which turn, like a line of pulleys, to aid the passing line on its journey. If your aim is to set yourself up with a good selection of boat rods that will cater for most boat fishing situations, read on. To get you started, you could do worse than to buy yourself at least one of each of the following: What species will you be fishing for? How big will they be? What size bait will you be using? All rods should have some kind of rating. This may be light, medium or heavy, or perhaps a weight ranking, like lb.

Slinging iron is West Coast jargon for fishing metal jigs using a variety of methods to catch yellowtail, sea bass, albacore, tuna, barracuda, wahoo, marlin and a host of other species. And the iron that started the craze was the Salas jig.

Recreational fishing, whether as a hobby or sport, has helped turn the fishing industry into what it is now a multi-billion dollar business. The majority of this business comes from the sale and production of fishing gears. One of the most critical equipment to consider as an angler is your fishing reel. Various fishing reels are available in the market. Each one differs in the specification, function, and details. Calmer waters require smaller and less sturdy fishing reels in order to catch smaller fish, whereas deep sea fishing requires a strong and flexible reel to catch big fish in rough conditions. Smaller reels are unable to cope with the stress, tension and ridged nature that is sea fishing. There are several aspects that make up sea fishing reels but the most important and prominent is reels ability to withstand harsh waters. In order to determine how much weight a sea reel can retrieve, a spool is a mechanism is in place to allow the user this power. There are generally two numbers for a spool. The spool and reel go hand-in-hand; the user should consider the size of the fish they want to catch and find an equally viable spool. The design for the Shimano Tynnos was also carefully considered. It makes use of comfortable, non-slip grips giving you a good hold and allowing for increase torque. The Shimano Tynnos does not have a Super Stopper. Instead, it has alternating reverse twin pawl that gives you hook setting power with minimum backlash. There are generally two types of sea fishing reels that perform different actions specific to what the users objective is. Multiplier Reel When it comes to sea fishing, multiplier reels play a vital role. With an adjustable spool, a multiplier reel allows a further distance when casting and allows for a stronger reel in. However, multiplier reels come with a con, they are hard to use due to needing a fluent casting style. With one wrong cast, multiplier reels often get tangled. Abu Garcia is an excellent example of a great multiplier reel. Multiplier reels tend to have a reel cage, a spool release button, main spool, brake adjustment and a star drag and this one is no exception. The Abu Garcia almost hits yards. You have to learn to handle the speed it comes with. If you are using this reel for the first time, you may have to tighten down both spool knobs to avoid any unwanted set-offs. Fixed Spool Reels Fixed spool reels are cheap to buy and easy to use. There are different variations and upgrades available for anglers. When sea fishing, fixed spool reels can be converted to baitcasting for huge casting reach. A traditional fixed spool reels has a non rotating spool and generally needs little maintenance. The Daiwa Whisker Tournament Series SS reel is perfect for professional users as they are experienced in deep sea fishing and they know what adjustments to make to the reel as per the fishing requirements. They are able to swiftly adapt the device features according to the fishing needs. There are three stainless steel-ball bearings in this model. This reel has Lifetime Bail Spring, an extremely reliable roller-bail trip mechanism, a scratch proof silicon carbide-line roller, along cast machined-aluminum spool and a super smooth drag with click adjustment feature. Thanks for visiting My Sea Reels.

The people who have a die hearted enthusiasm for offshore fishing they don't scare to fish in the adventurous spots. But fishing in the coastal areas and deep sea is different and the persons who truly love fishing they really enjoy the deep sea fishing instead of being scared.

#8 Best Value of 44 Fishing Resorts in United States " I cant say if juniper is a good place for the winter - I tend to avoid Mammoth during ski season (we go to Alta) but for summer activities like fishing, Mtn biking and hiking it's a great base of operations.

Jan 8, 0 A day spent on the boat with family, the warm sun on your back, fishing rod at the ready " what could be better? Of the thousands of charter fishing spots around the globe, a few stand out. Our picks have ideal offshore habitats for big game, along with warm waters gorgeous scenery, and tropical weather.. Get your line in the water year round in these top fishing destinations: Sail the blue-green waters on a chartered catamaran. Then, dive beneath the surface to meet-and-greet the local sea life. If you have ever dreamt of catching marlins, sailfish, tuna, or even barracuda, Fort Lauderdale is for you. The price was competitive, the boat was great, foot bow which handles the waves incredibly well. Joe was energetic, never stopped moving. Captain Mark took us to where the fish were and was quick to spot line releases. Probably a fish every 15 minutes! Captain Rod and Ashley were both very attentive to all passengers needs. He made sure that everybody caught a fish to go home with. He took us to spots where the moment I dropped my line, 5 seconds later I pulled up a fish! The area offers a unique fishing environment due to the structure of the islands. Edible, big game fish can be had year round. Florida Bay is referred to locally as the backcountry, home to five of the sought-after game fish among recreational anglers: The party boat was the perfect solution. The mates Brett and Anthony were excellent, gave expert advice, and helped out significantly on the back of the boat keeping everyone baited up and moving. We did include three kids in our party 4, 6, and 8 years old who had a great time and all caught fish! I highly recommend it and will be going back. My 10 yr old son and I made arrangements to fish with Captain Rick Stanczyk. We had 20 Jacks, 10 Mackerel, and 2 huge cobias by My son caught a lb bullshark shark and a black tip shark. I caught a rare Sawfish. Hundreds of blue marlin, white marlin and sailfish are caught and released in their waters every year. The crew is great, and it was so simple to set up. The day of our trip it was raining so they changed the hours of our trip. They held the boat for us since we were running late and they were so good about it! You can tell the captain and mate love what they do and Vanessa was so helpful with setting it up! Thank you and I will make sure to bring more friends and family back when they come back to visit! Our group had a great time. The Captain showed his experience level when putting in the extra efforts to get a hold on the leader of a Blue Marlin. The mate made extra efforts to show hospitality and assist when needed. We would definitely recommend the Qualifier for an offshore trip!! We caught redfish non stop and they grew larger with each spot we went to. He consistently put us in the right spot and his knowledge and professionalism were excellent. I would definitely recommend him for your next charter. Geoff is the man! Legare is a very experienced hard working guide in the Charleston area. Puts you on fish and know the tides and waterways as if he had been on these waters his entire life and guess what. Upscale seaside towns dot the mile stretch of land in Massachusetts. Water sports abound, and yes, plenty of fish are just offshore for the catching. Popular species found in Cape Cod waters include striped bass, bluefish, bonito, tuna, cod, mackerel and even sharks. He keeps his boat meticulously clean and was constantly on the move to find the fish for us. In the end one striper and one blue fish as keepers but lots more that we threw back. He taught us some tricks about photographing our fish and then even filleted the fish for us on board so no guts back home. A great morning out on the water. Shane was the best. He and first mate Zak did a great job getting us out to the best fishing spots for striped bass, flawlessly maneuvering the boat to drift through the throngs of fish as we pulled them in one after another. By day, hit South Beach and get a tan. The coral reefs, fast current, and warm water support a diverse ecosystem. Oh yeah and I probably should mention the fish I was first up and that King fish was amazing eating! Thanks to the entire crew for catering to us the entire day! Nomad Fishing Charters We had an excellent day out fishing with Orlando! He had all the right equipment, bait, and a great boat. He knew exactly where to go for whatever was the best fish to catch at that time of day. He was very knowledgeable about everything that had to do with the fish, explained everything and was very fun to be on a boat with for 5 hours! He also let us keep trying until we caught more before ending the day and once we were satisfied then we cruised back in. Bonus! we ended around 6pm so we got an amazing sunset cruise. Highly recommend Nomad Fishing Charter! Visitors to the area can enjoy a variety of swimming and surfing spots. The warm Gulf of Mexico is a perfect backdrop for your fishing expeditions. Kingfish, snapper, and dorado are abundant within 30 miles of shore. The Captain and first mate were outstanding the whole trip, from port to snapper bed and back to port. And the fish we brought back were very tasty. Mike knows his fish! He is patient with everyone no matter what their skill level. I would definitely recommend Get Bent! San Diego embodies laid-back California culture. Fishermen from around the world visit San Diego to fish the bountiful waters of the Pacific Ocean. San Diego is home to 75 state-of-the-art fishing vessels. Depending on the season, yellowfin, bluefin, yellowtail, albacore, mahi-mahi, marlin and mako can be caught offshore. The second captain Mike was really great, blending some humor with a lot of passion and friendliness. The captain fished really hard. Galley was great and the cook and other deckhands were also great. Will go again soon. Our party of four, three generations, caught seven species of fish including 15 hard fighting Bonefish. Alan connects exceptionally well with kids ensuring a fun-filled day for all. I highly recommend Captain Clowers Charters. Known for its natural beauty, Montauk is surrounded by water on three sides. Fishing, beachcombing, kayaking and surfing vie for your attention here. Montauk is located over a hundred miles out into the Atlantic Ocean. Michael has no weaknesses whether inshore trolling, bottom fishing Michael can anchor on the smallest piece there is or off shore big game fishing. His second generation local knowledge can not be matched. Unlike some of my other experiences where the captains have been somewhat apathetic about your experience and not willing to make your time on the water unique or successful, Burt and the crew were total opposites plus his boat was clean – bonus! Fishing with Burt was definitely a highlight of our trip! Three hours south from Anchorage, this seaside village is a combo of shops, galleries, and nature. A sparkling bay for fishing and a rugged mountain flank the village. You can get out on the water and cast your line for several-hundred-pound halibut or salmon. Neil was our captain and went out of his way to try and help everyone catch halibut and salmon. The weather was amazing that day and we also saw quite a few hump back and killer whales our boat caught 7 halibut and 3 silvers. I would definitely recommend taking a fishing trip with this outfit. Fish Seward Alaska Inc. If you want to catch a lot of fish and have a great time doing it use Fish Seward Alaska. Captains and crew are excellent and will put you on fish all day long. Service is first class! I will be back next year because it will take me that long to eat the fish we caught.
