

Chapter 1 : Mile Hi Church Podcast - Rising Above Divisiveness and Strife

Rising Above Divisiveness and Strife January 07, Dr. Roger Teel In this Sunday's talk, we explore our spiritual nature, oneness with all life and the basics of New Thought teachings.

They dreamed of mounting entire battle stations on anti-gravity thrusters, and moving them out in the field. They dreamed of making these battle stations the rallying points of their armies, flagstones that inspire awe in friends and fear in foes. Thus the LEV Destroyer was born. This battle unit cannot be described in small words, because everything in it is big. Its advanced anti-gravity boosters carry kilotonnes of weight, metal, weapon systems, health stations, amunitions depots, communication equipment and even food stores. From it, generals command entire armies. It is capable of withstanding a nuclear strike, while simultaneously reducing enemy fortifications to mangled metal and reddish pulp with a single volley of its enormous cannons. Colonial leaders often need to justify to the population the expenditure needed to build a single LEV Destroyer; they plan for it years in advance and concentrate the resources of the entire colony in it. Perhaps this scope of responsibility spawned the initial idea to turn the LEV Destroyer into something more than a huge battlestation: It can be something small - a rock, a piece of cloth that belonged to one of the first settlers, but nevertheless this Relic is more valuable than the entire weight of the station in gold. Because it inspires not only the crew of the Destroyer, but also the entire army fighting beside it; the entire colony that spend so much resources to build it. Civilopedia Entry Edit The discovery that Floatstone anti-gravity fields were potentially unbounded at higher energy levels opened up the tactical possibility of moving entire fortifications onto the battlefield. Thus, the LEV Destroyer was created: A massive, armored combat platform built around the most powerful Floatstone generators ever constructed. The LEV Destroyer is not just a powerful combat unit, but the anchor point of an entire army. Within its armored flanks are munitions plants, infirmaries, and communications arrays. From within it, the army commander can direct operations over an entire continent. Its cannon batteries are capable of reducing targets to mangled remains, spread across hectares of cratered ground. The LEV Destroyer is such a costly investment in warfare that it has a moral dimension as well. Political leaders and the population understand that constructing one of these titanic weapons means forgoing a great deal for the population at large. To help the soldiers understand the enormity of their burden, to inspire them to greatness, and to link them to the people at home, each LEV Destroyer has, at its heart, a relic of Old Earth. Often these are small: A scrap of paper from the cover of a manual, or gloves worn by a nameless First colonist. Sometimes they are truly integrated into the structure, such as the Initiator of St. Walter, which is the still-functioning auxiliary power generator from a planetfall lander, repurposed as the starter motor for the St. The sight of kilotons of material hovering quietly above the ground is hugely inspiring to the armies that fight alongside it. The LEV Destroyer is a living parable, that mankind, by its own efforts, is capable of rising above strife, can shrug aside any blow, and conquer any threat that faces it. Should we concern ourselves of the burgeoning religiosity of the soldiers who fight within it? Those paladins who fight with the best tools must understand the value of that which they guard.

Chapter 2 : NPR Choice page

Let's rise above divisiveness and strife with Dr. Roger Teel in his spiritual talk for toxic and troubling times. In this Sunday Sermon Series we explore our spiritual nature, oneness with all.

There is no education like adversity. Benjamin Disraeli In prosperity, our friends know us; in adversity, we know our friends. John Churton Collins Nothing is predestined: The obstacles of your past can become the gateways that lead to new beginnings. Isaac Asimov Good fortune and bad are equally necessary to man, to fit him to meet the contingencies of this life. French Proverb It is interesting to notice how some minds seem almost to create themselves, springing up under every disadvantage, and working their solitary but irresistible way through a thousand obstacles. Washington Irving The man of virtue makes the difficulty to be overcome his first business, and success only a subsequent consideration. Confucius All misfortune is but a stepping stone to fortune. Henry David Thoreau Pick battles big enough to matter, small enough to win. Jonathan Kozol Fractures well cured make us more strong. Ralph Waldo Emerson Adversity is wont to reveal genius, prosperity to hide it. Horace Misfortunes often sharpen the genius. Ovid All sunshine makes the desert. Arabian Proverb Going through difficult times augments our capacity for pleasure: Tal Ben-Shahar, Happier Aspiring minds must sometimes sustain loss. Plato Adversity is the mother of progress. Mahatma Gandhi The rays of happiness, like those of light, are colorless when unbroken. Horace Look not mournfully into the past, it comes not back again. Wisely improve the present, it is thine. Go forth to meet the shadowy future without fear and with a manly heart. Henry Wadsworth Longfellow A problem is a chance for you to do your best. Duke Ellington A gentleman can withstand hardships; it is only the small man who, when submitted to them, is swept off his feet. Confucius Every calamity is a spur and a valuable hint. Ralph Waldo Emerson Little minds are tamed and subdued by misfortune, but great minds rise above them. Washington Irving Difficulties strengthen the mind, as well as labor does the body. The purest ore is produced from the hottest furnace, and the brightest thunderbolt is elicited from the darkest storm. Charles Caleb Colton The gem cannot be polished without friction, nor man be perfected without trials.

Chapter 3 : Rising Above Ministries

RISING ABOVE THE STRIFE. 25, Views. Lance Wallnau was live. March 31 Â· How to RISE ABOVE the strife and affairs of Life on earth through the RESURRECTION!

Conflict is a natural part of life. We ought to expect conflict and if we would consider ourselves to be spiritual Christians then we must learn to properly handle conflict. Notice that James and Paul both were led to identify the marks of worldliness and of carnality. They include envy, strife, and division. Now, this does not mean that a spiritual Christian does not face conflict. But when the spiritual Christian faces conflict he has learned how to properly and effectively handle conflict so that his conflicts are quickly resolved. They were found in that position many years ago. The deer had been fighting; their horns got jammed together and could not be separated; so they died. Kerr, who first told the story, added, "I would like to carry those horns into every house and school. Barker [1]] [Learning to handle conflict is important for your friendships, for your marriage, for your parenting, for your work relationships, and for everything else in your life. Life is about people and to be around people means you must learn to interact properly with them, especially when there is a disagreement with them. Inordinate Desires vs 1 [â€” From whence come wars and fightings among you? On many occasions I have counseled someone with a conflict with another person to discover that the other person is completely unaware of the problem. Things that worry us, or cause hate and bitterness within us, or cause heartfelt issues for one person are often non-existent with their presumed assailant. The source of the conflict is likely within you. In the NT, used only of physical pleasure Luke 8: Figuratively used as desire, appetite, lust James 4: There is nothing wrong with having desires. God has given us emotions and desires, but when our desire mutate and become so strong within us that they begin to cause fighting and wars among us then they have become inordinate. Invariably when there is a conflict we hesitate to look at our selves. James is quick to write, look in your own heart first. Selfish Determination vs 2; 1 John 4. It drives us with passion to do things that we normally would not consider doing. Even to the point of killing, as James wrote it. Saul, before he became Paul, was determined to the point of murder. He thought he was doing a service for God. As a matter of fact most wars are religious wars in that someone claims they are doing something for God and they begin killing to accomplish their goals. Love, on the other hand, is the mark of spiritual maturity. The Bible says,] [1 John 4: They are marks of selfishness and lust. Inner Deception vs 3 - Ye ask, and receive not, because ye ask amiss, that ye may consume it upon your lusts. They actually are pleading with God for their own selfish desires and lusts. If you are in some conflict and you find strife and division welling up because of this conflict. If you have been praying for your desired outcome and God has not answered, perhaps you need to consider that your desired outcome is not as justified as you would like to think. The evidence of right praying is answered prayer. Your Heavenly Father clearly states that if your prayers are not being answered then you are asking amiss. Will you hear God? Perhaps you need to ask God to help you see this whole thing under a different light. Misplaced Dedication vs 4; 1 Cor The world is not the friend of God and if the world is supporting you in your battle then perhaps your allegiances are wrong. By the way the Bible reminds us,] [1 Corinthians Spiritual Digression vs 5; Luke Our natural man and our spiritual adversary love to draw us away form our Heavenly Father, his people, and His lifestyle. If you have been diverted from your purity and godliness then your conflict is not worth its fight. You need an,] 1. Inoculation of Divine Grace vs 6; Psalm Wherefore he saith, God resisteth the proud, but giveth grace unto the humble. If you are sick, and the doctor has a cure, you have to go to the doctor and let him give you whatever that cure is. The Bible says,] [Psalms Inauguration of Divine Authority vs 7, 2 Tim 2. Resist the devil, and he will flee from you. No doubt Satan is more amused than offended. Certainly he is not wounded. If we want to do battle with evil, we will have to do more than throw stones at pillars. We will have to live holier lives and help others to do the same. Infusion of Divine Direction vs 8; James 1. Cleanse your hands, ye sinners; and purify your hearts, ye double minded. It seems clear form our study in this text that if bitterness and hatred have been marking your conflict that your conflict stands in opposition to God rather than is the affirmation of God. Therefore, repent and turn away from your sin. Introspection of our Divine Dependency vs 9; Rev 3. They reveal their distance from God and their spiritual immaturity. They need to repent and get themselves right with God. Maybe they just failed to reckon with the nature of their need, the need for the presence of God in their lives. Of them the Bible states,] [Revelation 3: The Reward for Surrender vs 10; Matt If you are not in a conflict today, then rest assured one is on its way. How will you handle it? Will you humble yourself to your Heavenly Father? The Bible says,] [Matthew

Chapter 4 : Utterances dictionary definition | utterances defined

Even though world turmoil is a daily preoccupation in , big international stocks are quietly saving the investment day. As U.S. stocks have faltered, global shares have picked up the slack in portfolios fortunate enough to own them. Encouraged by their vibrant domestic economies, overseas firms.

A Christian Science perspective: How prayer can help a politically-charged atmosphere. December 9, By Kari Mashos As we watch the pro-democracy struggle going on in Hong Kong we may wonder “ even somewhat fearfully “ how this will play out, both for the protesters in Hong Kong and in Beijing. We may be concerned about its impact on the world. Our concerns are not unfounded. History has shown that when people desire freedom to choose their own path, they are often met with resistance. Human nature is not always quick to adjust to a higher sense of justice. But history has also frequently shown that resistance to a right idea does fall away, although often not without a severe struggle. These struggles, however, always begin as a mental shift: It starts as an awareness of what is wrong in society and grows into a desire to improve the standard for everyone. There are many encouraging examples of the power of prayer to effect changes within a politically charged atmosphere. For instance, the Holy Bible has the experience of Daniel. Daniel was persecuted by an unjust law and won his freedom through prayer to God, enough so that it brought down the oppressive law for all who were being persecuted see Daniel 6. Daniel saw the rooting out of despotic control through the action of divine power, and we can turn to this same power ourselves. Its so-called despotism is but a phase of nothingness. Get the Monitor Stories you care about delivered to your inbox. Evil and tyranny are undone through the understanding of good. As we begin to understand that God, good, is the only power reigning over all, we discover what Christ Jesus showed us: As children of God, no one can be locked forever into a position of bondage, because bondage of any kind is contrary to God. God encompasses all of us within His righteous judgment and justice. As we pray to understand that God alone governs man, our thought will more and more open to realize our God-given freedom and individual rights.

Chapter 5 : Back to Basics

Those who wish to bog Lebanon in regional conflicts are the ones that planted Dahiyah and Tripoli explosions," he added, noting that the Lebanese could only face strife plots by rising above existing wounds.

Travis Bradberry Toxic people defy logic. Either way, they create unnecessary complexity, strife, and worst of all stress. Studies have long shown that stress can have a lasting, negative impact on the brain. Most sources of stress at work are easy to identify. The ability to manage your emotions and remain calm under pressure has a direct link to your performance. One of their greatest gifts is the ability to neutralize toxic people. Top performers have well-honed coping strategies that they employ to keep toxic people at bay. The important thing to remember is that you are in control of far more than you realize. They Set Limits Especially with Complainers Complainers and negative people are bad news because they wallow in their problems and fail to focus on solutions. They want people to join their pity party so that they can feel better about themselves. You can avoid this only by setting limits and distancing yourself when necessary. Think of it this way: A great way to set limits is to ask complainers how they intend to fix the problem. They will either quiet down or redirect the conversation in a productive direction. In conflict, unchecked emotion makes you dig your heels in and fight the kind of battle that can leave you severely damaged. They Rise Above Toxic people drive you crazy because their behavior is so irrational. Make no mistake about it; their behavior truly goes against reason. So why do you allow yourself to respond to them emotionally and get sucked into the mix? The more irrational and off-base someone is, the easier it should be for you to remove yourself from their traps. Quit trying to beat them at their own game. They Establish Boundaries This is the area where most people tend to sell themselves short. They feel like because they work or live with someone, they have no way to control the chaos. If you let things happen naturally, you are bound to find yourself constantly embroiled in difficult conversations. The only trick is to stick to your guns and keep boundaries in place when the person tries to encroach upon them, which they will. That way, no matter what toxic people are thinking or doing, your self-worth comes from within. When you focus on actions to better yourself and your circumstances, you create a sense of personal efficacy that produces positive emotions and reduces stress. When it comes to toxic people, fixating on how crazy and difficult they are gives them power over you. This makes you more effective by putting you in control, and it will reduce the amount of stress you experience when interacting with them. Negative self-talk is unrealistic, unnecessary, and self-defeating. It sends you into a downward emotional spiral that is difficult to pull out of. You should avoid negative self-talk at all costs. The fight-or-flight mechanism sidesteps rational thinking in favor of a faster response. Sleep deprivation raises stress hormone levels on its own, even without a stressor present. To deal with toxic people, you need to recognize the weaknesses in your approach to them. This means tapping into your support system to gain perspective on a challenging person. Identify these individuals in your life and make an effort to seek their insight and assistance when you need it. Something as simple as explaining the situation can lead to a new perspective. Most of the time, you will find yourself tested by touchy interactions with problem people. Thankfully, the plasticity of the brain allows it to mold and change as you practice new behaviors, even when you fail. Implementing these healthy, stress-relieving techniques for dealing with difficult people will train your brain to handle stress more effectively and decrease the likelihood of ill effects. Travis Bradberry is the award-winning co-author of the 1 bestselling book, Emotional Intelligence 2. His bestselling books have been translated into 25 languages and are available in more than countries.

Chapter 6 : Sunday Morning Services

"Rising above oppression, success through struggle and strife, or becoming something from nothing, whatever you wish to label these attributes one thing is for certain. Our country has become synonymous with concepts such as freedom, liberty, integrity, and perseverance.

Chapter 7 : Rising above despotism - calendrierdelascience.com

Rising Above! Spiritual Basics for Toxic, Troubling Times This six-part series "our most in-depth and timely ever" provides an opportunity for those new to the teachings of Science of Mind and Spirit as well as those of us who have been practicing the principles for decades to get "back to the basics" and to reignite their faith!

Chapter 8 : LEV Destroyer (CivBE) | Civilization Wiki | FANDOM powered by Wikia

The sight of kilotons of material hovering quietly above the ground is hugely inspiring to the armies that fight alongside it. The LEV Destroyer is a living parable, that mankind, by its own efforts, is capable of rising above strife, can shrug aside any blow, and conquer any threat that faces it.

Chapter 9 : How Emotionally Intelligent People Handle Toxic People - TalentSmart

How to Rise Above It All Robert Walker I Thessalonians INTRODUCTION In today's Bible lesson, we find out that the Thessalonians thought that Jesus was going to come back in their lifetime. And that none of them would have to die. But guess what? Things didn't turn out that way. Some of them.