Midnight Sun €” 7 Days in Lapland Price per person: Join us for a Midnight Sun Experience and explore the north of Europe that you have never experienced! The cathedrals were built when Finland was a part of Russia, and they have become the landmarks of Helsinki. Next, we will walk around the Kauppatori Market, offering everything from local produce to souvenirs. Kauppatori makes the city more vibrant. The last stop of our city tour will be the Sibelius Park. In the heart of the park sits the monument of Sibelius, a renowned Finnish composer who helped Finland to get the national identity. Lastly, You will take an overnight train to Rovaniemi. Fulfil your childhood dreams of meeting the real Santa Claus in his Santa Claus village, located in the Arctic Circle. You will also receive a certificate for crossing the Arctic Circle and will become a true Arctic trekker! While hiking, we will be gathering berries and mushrooms. Handpicked directly from the forest, the berries and the mushrooms are the freshest. Eat them while you are picking them or enjoy them with a barbeque lunch. Once well-fed, we will head to the lakeside sauna to view the midnight sun. We all deserve a wonderful vacation in the paradise. Within the forestland live many different animals and critters; most importantly, the reindeers and the Huskies. The reindeers roam freely during the winter, and they return to their farms during the summer. The tourists visit the reindeer farms and the husky farms to meet and feed these animals. The day trip continues with a tour of the city. Originally made of wood, it was burned down and reconstructed in The church remains a cornerstone of the city. The tour continues with the most scenic parts of the area before heading to the neighbouring towns in the following days. The Lampivaara Amethyst Mine is possibly the only gemstone mine in the world that welcomes all visitors. The amethysts were formed million years ago and are ready to be dug up. You will be given the proper equipment to dig for gems. Once you have gathered them, the mining continues with the summer gold rush! Our guides know the best locations for finding gold and will take you there. To extract the gold, you will be panning across deposits and trying your luck as a gold miner. Sami people are the indigenous people of Lapland, and there is the Sami Siida Museum, which features Sami culture. After visiting the museum, you will have the free time to explore the town. The surrounding area has over named hills, and the city has 4 official languages. At the end of the day, we will return to Helsinki by train and end the tour.

Chapter 5 : Associate Producer - Tamara Hopkins - Seven Days 'Till Midnight

We here at Seven Days 'Till Midnight would like to give a warm and hearty welcome to Brevard's own, Tamara Hopkins, who is joining the production in the role of Associate Producer.

Day One[edit] Physics professor J. While at the cemetery, J. Neumeyer" despite the unlikelihood that such a person would also live in Seattle and have paid a visit to the same grave , and attempts to open the combination-locked briefcase to discover more about its owner. Upon opening the briefcase, Neumeyer finds a police file complete with photos, newspaper clippings, and evidence detailing his brutal murder five days in the future. At first he thinks it is a prank perpetrated by an exceptionally brilliant but eccentric graduate student named Carl Axelrod. He tracks down Irwin Sikorski, the homicide detective whose name appears on the police file as investigating officer. Day Two[edit] More things from the file start to come true. A rental company sends J. The back of one of the newspaper clippings in the briefcase is the story of Mandy Murphy, a young woman killed by a falling tree in a windstorm. Acting on this knowledge, J. Carl is cleared as a suspect and J. Claudia confesses to J. Claudia plans to flee before Bremmer can locate her, but J. A man in a car across the street is taking pictures of them. Day Three[edit] Motives are established for the list of suspects in the police file: It becomes clear that Carl " who has a religious reverence for physics " begins to see J. Brad clarification needed] is deeply in debt from bad investments, facing loss of all his property. He thinks he could make a lot of money from reverse-engineering the suitcase, but is rebuffed by J. Roy Bremmer finds J. Claudia increases the life insurance policy on J. The plane takes off, to J. Yet less than an hour into the flight, the plane must return to the city when a passenger becomes dangerously ill. At the end of the episode, it is reported that Mandy Murphy has died in a horrible car crash. T prevented her death in one accident, she still died in another accident. Day Four[edit] J. Jesse begins her own investigation. This leads Jesse to believe that the future is still changeable. He is unable to convince Carl that physics is simply physics, and tricks Carl into a hospital for the mentally disabled. He meets Bremmer and offers him the money to be made by reverse-engineering the briefcase, but Bremmer is not interested. Sikorski arrives at the scene and has Bremmer arrested. He does not believe Claudia has a reasonable motive to kill him, and instead works with her to remove the other threats. The day ends with the escape of Carl from the hospital. He steals the briefcase from J. Brad intercepts Carl leaving with it and attacks him, but without success. Bremmer is released from jail once his lawyer gets involved. All three suspects have the motive and freedom to kill J. Day Five[edit] Sikorski kills Bremmer, then turns on J. He intends to force Claudia to sign a quitclaim , then kill her and J. Carl and Brad independently head to the bar where Sikorski has taken Claudia and J. Carl tries to kill Brad with the stolen Jeep, but Brad shoots at him. Carl loses control of the Jeep, which crashes into the bar, knocking down Sikorski. Carl intends to kill J. Carl becomes fascinated by the change, believing that physics has been satisfied. As the survivors leave the bar, J. Neumeyer" who owns the briefcase in the future, and that she will send the briefcase back as a warning to her father, by some as-yet nonexistent technology.

Chapter 6 : 7 Days Midnight Prayers Against Satanic Altars Day Plan 1 Dismantling Evil

*Sign Up for Updates * indicates required indicates required. Email Address **

Leaving behind his wife, Clara, and his son Will, the light of his life, he decides to take some time away and venture into the mountain clad wilderness surrounding their town; a place he and Clara had visited before Will was born. Harmon struggles at first with the decision, but eventually makes his way into the wilderness in search of the familiar places from his past. Upon arriving and taking in the area, he begins to be at peace with his decision and takes in the solace and serenity that the wilderness offers. Shortly thereafter, Harmon has an unfriendly run in with a seedy young couple camping in the woods leaving him on guard and more than a little uncomfortable. Despite all this, Harmon carries on. As he carries on he meets an older man named Bill who offers him some guidance in the way of directions to the place Harmon is looking for a cabin that he and Clara had shared years ago. Bill also advises him to stay clear of the shady couple Harmon had run into earlier. He goes inside for a closer look. Upon returning back outside, he realizes all his gear has been stolen. With no gear and no sense of direction, Harmon becomes frantic. A day goes by with no food, water or real shelter, and Harmon suddenly becomes ill. Fighting for his life, Harmon tries to make his way back to his vehicle. He loses consciousness in his effort, causing him to fall into a nearby river. Bill finds Harmon in the water in just enough time to save his life, taking Harmon back to his own cabin in the forest. As times goes on and Harmon heals, Bill becomes a friend talking to Harmon about life outside of the wild and the issues troubling him. Through his talks with Bill, Harmon grows to realize just how much his family means to him and is given an opportunity to go back and fix the mistakes he has made in his past. The feeling of being lost and without direction that Harmon faces is something everyone faces in their life. SuttleFilm created a beautiful, dark, deep exploratory film that excites through action and entertains through emotion as the audience quickly realizes that there is a little bit of Harmon in each and everyone of them. Vidmuze Aerial Cinema proved aerial cinematography taking the project to a whole new scale to tell this epic story. SuttleFilm wanted to create a story that felt real which took them deep into the wilderness to find the perfect locations. Whether it was the outdoor weather, the cold water from the waterfalls and lakes, or traveling on ATVs to bring equipment to set, the crew always did whatever it took to bring the story to life. The magic of the film resides in the simple structure, the sophisticated story, the amazing locations, and the opportunity to create visuals that will haunt the audience with the beauty of the wilderness. After 13 years of gestation, a stressful 4 months of prep and production, and the summer locked in the editing suite, the film is close to being complete.
