The A-List isn't what I would consider a "great" read, but it was rather enjoyable, like watching a soap opera. The main character, Anna, is likable, as is Adam and Django. I also strangely enjoyed Sam and Dee as characters, even though they are part of the "mean girl" trio.

His busy schedule prevents him from helping Rodiney find a New York modeling agent so Reichen sends Rodiney to Mike for assistance. Austin begins training with trainer Mario Godiva Green to lose weight in preparation for relaunching his modeling career. He also sets about rekindling his romantic relationship with Reichen. Mike photographs Kelly Rowland for his "transformation project". Rodiney does a photo shoot with Mike, then he and Reichen prepare to move into a new apartment. Ryan decides to make Austin his "project" by serving as a mentor. Rodiney meets with a potential agent but is too short. Reichen and Rodiney meet Derek and Ryan for a spa day and discuss their relationship issues. The couple later meet with a counselor who tries to help them sort things out. Ryan takes Austin to a stylist friend and arranges a photo shoot for him but is appalled when Austin poses nude. Mike does a photo shoot to benefit cancer patients. His dad Tony flies in for Pride and they reflect on their relationship. Ryan tells Derek that Austin is out of his life. Reichen and Rodiney rehash their therapy session and, to contribute financially to the relationship, Rodiney plans a calendar. Derek has lip injections to prepare for an impromptu drag party. Mike and Ryan exchange colonic stories. He meets up with Austin and invites him to Fire Island for the holiday. Mike, Derek and TJ will serve as judges. Derek and Roberto go out to dinner and Derek invites him to meet his mother. Rodiney and Reichen argue and break up, with Rodiney returning to Miami, possibly permanently. Derek and TJ decide to make up with Austin to make Reichen happy. Later they meet Austin for drinks and Austin apologizes for his behaviour. The group meets Reichen following his last performance and Rodiney shows up unexpectedly. Everyone but Mike meets for dinner. Reichen and Rodiney announce their reconciliation and Austin expresses shock and disbelief. He and Rodiney argue and the altercation turns physical. Finally the various factions agree that they will all go. Austin agrees to back off to let Reichen decide what to do about his relationship. Rodiney and Austin apologize to each other but the apologies turn into an argument and Reichen wonders aloud if he should have broken up with Rodiney earlier. Ryan discusses his marriage and Austin bursts into tears, apologizing profusely for coming between Rodiney and Reichen. Reichen privately tells Rodiney that he is tired of the stress of their relationship. He has photographs taken of himself as various Tom of Finland characters for inclusion in the show. Ryan tells TJ that he has an appointment with a surrogacy counselor in hopes of having a child. Austin tells Derek that he is going back to England and may not return. He performs the song live at a party he and Rodiney host. Everyone praises his performance to his face, but Reichen overhears Austin trashing him behind his back. Reichen confronts Austin, who tells him he should break up with Rodiney. Reichen apologizes to Rodiney for not believing him about Austin. Reichen and Rodiney confirm that they are still together and have gotten past their problems. Austin calls Rodiney a "prostitute", saying he sleeps with Reichen so Reichen will pay the bills. TJ reveals he has had crushes on most of the panel. Austin and Jake shock everyone by announcing that they were married in England in July.

The technique is very simple in principle: But then, at some point during the exercise, you will naturally have your subconscious mind naturally engaged in the process. Making a List of is a beautifully articulated cooperation between the conscious and subconscious minds tackling one single problem. Unlike the related Idea Quota tool “ whose primary goal is to acquire the habit of coming up with ideas “ the goal of a List of is to take your mind by surprise. While both techniques are based on the concept of getting good ideas from lots of ideas , the ideas generated by each method are usually different in kind. With the Idea Quota you tend to have more elaborate ideas, because you have time to incubate them throughout the day often without being aware of it. With a List of you tend to get more unexpected ideas, because you catch your subconscious off guard, not giving it any time for its behind-the-scenes editing. Ground Rules There are only two simple principles to keep in mind when making Lists of Do it at one sitting This is the one crucial element for the technique to work. There are three distinct phases you will usually go through when making your list: First 30 entries or so: Phase two is usually the hardest one, as you may find it difficult to let go of the ideas you had in the first phase in order to come up with new, distinct ones. Write them down anyway: Moreover, your whole attitude towards the problem can change as you develop your entries: This is an excellent book that has many great journaling techniques “ and the List of has its own chapter. The List of technique can be used for a lot more than solving specific problems; it is a general-purpose personal development tool that can help increase your self-knowledge, motivate yourself, and much more. To illustrate its myriad of uses, find below a List of Lists of The list was mostly taken from Journal to the Self , and slightly adapted with some of my own ideas.
