Having finally had enough, she suddenly grabs a big trash box and decides to throw everything out, which caused the cubs to protest. Papa comes to the rescue after hearing the ruckus and gets everyone to calm down. Papa looks at the box Mama is filling and gets an idea. He goes to his shop and makes some toy boxes for organizing all of the cubs toys in hopes that a little organization will help keep the room clean. And so they all pitch in to tidy up the messy room. In the end, everything looks neat and clean. And it turns out that Papa was right, it is much more fun to hang out and play in a room that is clean and organized! The Berenstain Bears Lend a Helping Hand[edit] Brother and Sister are always fighting over stuff such as who has the best spot on the sofa in front of the TV, who has the biggest slice of cake, who will get more jellybeans, etc. One day while leaving the supermarket, Mama and the cubs bump into old Mrs. Mama makes the reluctant cubs put Mrs. They both come up with an idea that Brother and Sister should help Mrs. McGrizzle tidy up her attic, much to the cubs dismay. However, the cubs find some very interesting stuff in the attic, such as an antique Bearbie a parody of Barbie and old baseball cards. In the end, Brother and sister run a garage sale of all of the stuff Mrs. McGrizzle wanted to throw away, and learn their lesson. The Berenstain Bears Get in A Fight[edit] On most sunny days, Brother and Sister always wake up in a good mood by taking turns when going to the bathroom, using appropriate table manners by saying "Please" and "Thank you", sitting together on the school bus, working on their backyard tree house together, and sharing their toys. Sister, agitated, rushes off to the bathroom and takes a long time using the bathroom, aggravating their parents. Sister goes out of the bathroom and greets Papa Bear. Papa becomes fed up with their fighting, but ultimately gets pulled into the dispute. Having enough of this, Mama finally whistles, thus bringing the argument to a halt and getting everyone to calm down. She then explains why the cubs began fighting. In the end, Brother and Sister make up and get along well again the next day by erasing the line they drew on the tree house. The Berenstain Bears Go to Camp[edit] Summer vacation has come, but there is not much to do now that school is out. Mama enrolls the cubs in a day camp.

Janice Grant was born in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. After she graduated high school, she enrolled in the Philadelphia College of Art and Design. Stan spent several years in the Army after college; his first job was as a writer and illustrator for an Army newspaper, which is where he got his start drawing cartoons. The Berenstains have two children, Michael and Leo, who especially enjoyed the works of Theodore Geisel, commonly known as Dr. Seuss. The Berenstains knew Geisel personally, and in 1961, he asked them to write a book for his Cat in the Hat Beginner Series. Their children, now grown, have also become part of the Berenstain Bear production team. Their son Michael has illustrated many Berenstain Bear books, while Leo has written manuscripts for many books in the series. Jan Berenstain said about her influences: Stan and Jan added Sister to the Bear family to correspond with how their own family was changing. Books in this series have dealt with issues such as fighting, spending time away from home, and the importance of recycling. The book is surprisingly frank and honest about the process: Mama takes her with her to Dr. Grizzly, who explains that she the doctor will be there to help when the baby comes down the birth canal. The Big Chapter and Bear Scout books have few illustrations and average over one hundred pages long. They are meant for children who have outgrown the normal Berenstain Bears picture books. The Berenstains may be two of the most commercially successful authors of all time. They have sold over million copies of their books. Each year, new Berenstain Bear books are released, and the Berenstains continue to break new ground. Although they have received many awards, they said on multiple occasions that the awards they received directly from children were their favorites. Jan passed away on February 24, 2002, after suffering from a severe stroke the day before. Her passion for family values has created a reading sensation that has produced more than titles with about million copies sold and read by multiple generations. She is survived by her sons and four grandchildren. The Berenstain Bears in the House of Mirrors. The Berenstain Bears--Phenom in the Family. Big Book of the Berenstain Bears.
