

Chapter 1 : World Wide Words: Dear John letter

A Dear John letter is a letter written to a man by his wife or romantic partner to inform him their relationship is over because she has found another lover. The man.

Farnsworth kept him late working on that miserable laundromat account. He called his wife, Grace, who was more than a little annoyed about being stuck with the kids at bedtime. Eric resigned himself to a dark house and a cold supper whenever he managed his escape. He looked forward to a few minutes of peace in his ratty old recliner, a glass of rye and the glow of the television. She indeed was a looker, seemingly oblivious to that fact. Eric absently watched her move about the office as he ran his thick fingers through his thinning hair. It came to him out of the blue. The image of Mandy and a room full of soap bubbles popped in his tired brain. The rest came together quickly. Sex sells, plain and simple. Not that it gave him any real joy anyway. Farnsworth would have him pissing against the wind for another loser client tomorrow. And the next day and the next. The same old bus ride and the same old walk loomed dark and depressing. For not the first time, Eric considered taking a different route and not making it home. Sometimes, a trip under the front wheels of the bus tempted him. He opened the fridge and frowned at the plastic-wrap protecting a plate of congealed goulash. Eric opted for crackers and peanut butter, the stuff of which champions are made. He balanced his gooey stack and was about to flick out the light when he saw the note on the table. He read it as he made his way to the living room. Signed, The Comfy Chair Eric stood confused, looking at where his recliner no longer sat. In its place was an interloper, an imposter. The new chair looked different and the sight of it made his head ache. He turned to her, dumbfounded. She took his crackers, handed him a glass full of familiar spirits and pecked him on the lips. Anyway, she said you earned some sort of bonus today.

Names, places, and dates have been changed for privacy. We have become even closer friends. We were quite shocked when we sat down and compared the letters that you have been sending to each of us. How can you tell both of us, at the same time, that you love us and want to pursue things when you return from your mission? Take us both off your list. I hope this will help you concentrate on missionary work. Have a good life, Names, places, and dates have been changed for privacy. Luke, I have prayed about our relationship and feel very strongly that it is not right for us. I love you a lot but not enough to marry you. I hate to do this to you because you love me so much, but there is someone out there better for you. I hope you understand. Mandy Got this on my 23 month mark after her writing and emailing faithfully the whole time. I got this letter four weeks after I left the MTC Dear Jake, How are things going? Did that one girl, Brindy, or something like that, get baptized? I bet that will be so cool for you if she does. That brings me to my next point And just think, maybe you can go back to your mission after you get home and marry Brindy? Well, I hope you have a wonderful day! Oh, and happy two month mark next week! Yours truly, Names, places, and dates have been changed for privacy. In between all the dating and spending time together, he and I have grown very close to one another. I found myself falling for him a bit more day by day, and now it is undeniable how I feel. I love him, and he loves me. Chase, you have enriched my life so much. Thank you for all that you have done for me. I count myself as one of the luckiest people for having you in my life. Thank you for your amazing example, Chase. I cannot tell you how much I admire you for serving a mission for the Lord. If you do this, He will bless you immensely. This is right, Chase. I know it might be hard to see right now, but the Lord has a plan for everyone. He has a plan for me, and He has a plan for you. Dear Der-Bear, I just want to tell u that i loved all of the memories we made at the golden corral! You mean so much to me Derrick, but I have found someone else as of late. His name is Mark and he is soo sweet to me! He takes me fishing and hunting almost everyday and although sometimes he punches me in the arm I know it means he loves me!! I hope the last 12 days of your mission are soo soo good! Best friends forever Derrick! As I was preparing my papers to send in for my mission call I was just friends with a long lost friend I had known for 5 yearswe went everywhere together and did everything together too. With my strong will to serve a mission I was determined not to let anyone get in my way. That same day I got a letter from a former missionary that had finished his mission in the mission I was in. We kept in touch as missionaries do who serve in the same Districts and Zones, but as we got to know who each other really was through letters my last 3 months, it turned into dating after my mission was finished. PS--This Elder sent me a fake "Dear John" package and letter in behalf of Kendal who tried to take his "cold feet" words back a couple weeks later. In my mission we often compared Dear Johns. Mine always won the contest. The front of the letter says Elder John Bill Hansen. My name of course is not John. The back of the envelope says "Truly, Thanks your a great young man: Honest and noble and someone I shall never forget. After reading this letter for 30 years I have yet to figure out which is the bad and which is the good news. When I have written several letters to you since your last one I have not sent them off. So the previous letters were worse than this? Here it Goes - - - - - gosh I wonder what could possibly be coming? June 23 19xx was also a very special day of my life. He told me that he loved me and I started to cry. He is very kind to me. He is a returned missionary from England. Thanks for your friendship. Brother Womble was our institute teacher. We are getting married in the Salt Lake Temple Apr. Our marriage will be sealed with our 1st Kiss. Keep up the great work that you are doing. Dear Josh, You are my love of my life. I miss you so much! The ring you bought me is beautiful! Monica xoxoxoxo Dear Josh, A week has passed and I will always love you but i met someone over this week. His name is Michael. Michael and i are getting married in new york and i will not be seeing you anymore. I am so sorry to do it like this, but I should of told you earlier. Well we are getting married tomorrow, sorry to lead you to think that I was being faithful to you, but it got you through your mission, right? Now you are almost home and you are gonna find a nice girl and get married to her. After all, we were not meant to be, obviously. I write this letter to my dear sweet family concerning my time in the service of our Lord and God. How be it that I have served for 8 months and not received very many letters. Yea, how be it that my family has forsaken me. Yea, how be it that I have not heard from this part of the family save one person? Why is it that Katy has written me and not the other part of the family? Know ye not that a Mission is difficult and I go to battle each day fighting for the Church of God? And it doth make my soul rejoiceth to know I am not forsaken when I hear word from my family. Bryan, my dearest cousin, hast thou forgotten me also? Hasth thou putteth thy girlfriend before me? Wherefore I say this unto you that blood is thicker than water. Macy has a beauty of angels and the heart of a saint. She is perfect in every way. She shall be taken while you are on your Mission, not by me but by another Returned Missionary. And thus ye shall see the Missionary cycle in progress. Now concerning my beloved Uncle. I hope all is well with thee. I hope that they children are still obedient to thy words. I leave you my blessing and hope to hear from every one soon. Elder Michael Kurt Names, places, and dates have been changed for privacy. Dear Stuart, I know that I told you that I would wait for you. But Yesterday I was at a singles ward activity and I met this guy named Jose, who was visiting from Spain. Well you know how I have always wanted to visit Spain. Sorry but I must pursue my dreams! I am getting married next Tuesday and moving to Portugal in 2 weeks!!!! Love, Cindy Names, places, and dates have been changed for privacy.
