I came across your blog and was amazed by your dept and number of articles. Due to strict Korean Immigration laws that do not allow foreigners to have side jobs, or start their own businesses, it is hard to find good websites where people can find all information and services they need. At Huijun Communications, we are currently in the works of creating a website www. At the moment, since we are at the beginning stages, we are just trying to gather more information on entertainment news and living in Korea. We want to make life easier for other foreigners living in Korea, and our vision is to eventually create a website where people can get all info and service they want through this website without need of searching and looking here and there, and through which people communicate with Koreans also. Many bloggers expressed deep interest in our website and that gives us confidence that this website will be a real one. We want you to join us to share info and benefit others. As previously mentioned, Korean immigration laws make us hard to compensate for your service and most of bloggers in Korea to receive the compensation legally. Thus, we had to find an alternative within the laws of immigration and taxation. So, our alternative, as a token of appreciation, that our company decided is ; 1 to give you complimentary Culture Gift Card that can be used offline stores and online also. We plan to give more initiatives than other users. This point system is just way of our spending money to gather more people. We are not thinking of making money out of this website right away. However we know that we need to spend considerable money to make the website work. If selected, your profile and your article will be shown at a conspicuous space in the section. So that you can spread your name and blog more widely. In return, I would like to request followings: Register yourself with lifeinkorea. Your ID so that we can tell you power blogger from normal users. Your address so that you can have complimentary Culture Gift Ticket C. Phone number, if any D. But we need this to deduct expense as gifts also to from our accounting purpose 3. After the official launching you will need to register one more time as the logon system will be changed. You need to inform you ID one more time later. Write articles time a week if possible. If you like you can post as many you want. You can write any topics, but under right board category of the website. Post our banner or link on your blog so that others can share more. If you have any suggestions, we are always welcome. Again, thank you for your help and participation. You can start uploading your articles any time now. Again, thank you for your interest and help.
